1 Night watch.

The Committee of Management are able to report that during the year under review the standard of the collection and of the gardens has been maintained. The collection has been added to from time to time by gifts, exchanges and purchases as funds permitted, and the health of the animals and birds on the whole has beengood throughout the year, with the exception however of casualties among the markhors and Chillingham cattle due to the unusually heavy rains in the month of September last. It is also a matter for regret that the sea-lion, a most attractive exhibit, has not survived notwithstanding that the conditions under which he lived could hardly be improved upon in confinement and are such that the Committee will not be discouraged from attempting to replace him, if opportunity arises. Figures showing the numbers of the mammals, birds and reptiles will be found in the Superintendent's report.

The approach to the southern extension has been further improved by the demolition of two small houses of old design and faulty construction which not only were in a very bad state of repair, but obstructed the approach to the extension. In their place on the adjacent eastern boundary a new house has been constructed intended to accommodate Himalayan sheep and goats. It is confidently hoped that with the accommodation thus provided further casualties during the monsoon among the markhors due to climatic conditions may be avoided or at least greatly minimised.

In lieu of one of the demolished houses a new house for guinea pigs and rabbits has been built, also on the eastern boundary in the same locality. For this the public and the Committee are indebted to the generosity of Mr. Ajit Nath Das, a member of the Committee of Management, at whose request the house has been named "Boloram House" in memory of his late father Babu Boloram Das. Simultaneously with these improvements, an aviary on the western boundary which obscured the view has been moved to the opposite side of the grounds, and this it is intended to use as a segregation cage for the reception of new arrivals during such time as they have to be in quarantine before distribution among the appropriate cages.

With the improvements to which reference has been made, the south extension and its approaches may be considered complete. It is now several years since His Excellency Lord Carmichael secured this piece of land for the garden. Since then it has undergone various changes, but no one who can recollect the unattractive congested enclosures towards the southern extremity of the garden will fail to appreciate the results achieved. The wide open spaces giving free scope for the activities of animals and birds of many kinds, all dwelling together in harmony, furnish an exhibit hardly to be equalled in any Zoological Garden.

The Committee are much indebted to those members of the public who send their old and broken down horses to be destroyed at the Zoological Gardens. Not only does this supply of horse flesh reduce the cost of food to be supplied, which during the year is very considerable, but those who adopt these means of having their horses destroyed have the satisfaction of knowing that it is done promptly and under conditions which cause no suffering to the animal nor to any others, as the spot is wholly secluded. The site has recently been renovated and the drainage improved so that the conditions may be as perfect as possible.

Annual repairs to the buildings of the garden were carried out departmentally as usual.

Entrance Lodge.	Schwendler House.
Sonebursa Enclosure.	Rhinoceros Enclosure.
Gubbay House.	Durbhanga House.
Mullick House.	Servants' Quarters.
Mandrill House.

Extensive repairs were done to the following houses and iron and woodwork repaired and renewed :—

Lalgola House.	Bird of Prey House.
Barking deer enclosure.	Abdul Gany House.
Crane Enclosure.	Cooch-Behar House.
Sarnomoyi House.	Store Godown.

The following houses were lime-washed and colourwashed :—

Dumraon House.	New Bear House.
Murshidabad House.	Hippo Enclosure.
Reptile House.	Tapir Enclosure.
Small Carnivora House.	Ezra House.

The whole of the boundary wall of the garden was thoroughly scraped, sand-plastered and colour washed and the entire iron-fencing of the paddocks was coal-tarred.

In addition to the above, the usual petty repairs of smaller houses, sheds and enclosures and roads and paths were attended to. Ground railings were repaired and painted and the garden seats were painted and the main drive remetalled as necessary.

There was a considerable falling off in the number of visitors on Sundays during the year which must be attributed to inclement weather prevailing on Sunday afternoons. The result is that, though the total number of visitors for the year shows an increase of 13,948 over the previous year, there was a decrease of Rs. 2,460-7-0 in the gate receipts as will be seen from the following table :—

	SUNDAY RECEIPTS.
	At 4 annas.			At 1 rupee.
	Rs.	A.	P.	Rs.	A.	P.
1921-22	1,556	4	0	12,142	0	0
1922-23	1,298	4	0	9,249	0	0

	Visitors.	Receipts.
		Rs.	A.	P.
1920-21	842,616 ...	67,845	14	0
1922-23	854,003 ...	63,393	15	0

A large number of children under 4 years of age and school children attended by their teachers were admitted free. On the occasion of the Fancy Fair about 9,700 people visited the garden. In addition 34,503 persons visited the garden on the free days. Detailed statement of the numbers of visitors and receipts appear in Appendix B.

The financial condition of the garden has been on the whole satisfactory. Income and expenditure are summarised in Appendix A.

The gardens have been maintained in excellent condition throughout the year. The lawns, flower beds and shrubberies are in good order and the show of flowers has been specially attractive to visitors. New paths have been cut and laid in the new extension of the garden and the general appearance improved. Unfortunately, it is not possible to report, as in former years, that prizes were secured at the show of the Agri-Horticultural Society as owing to inclement weather the show was not held.

The thanks of the Committee are due to those ladies and gentlemen who have added to the zoological collection by donations, al ist of which is given in Appendix C. Thanks are also due to those who kindly offered to present animals to the garden, but whose offers could not be accepted either because the particular species of animals was already sufficiently well represented, or owing to want of accommodation.

The Committee desire to express their thanks to the Corporation of Calcutta for their continued generosity in remitting the consolidated rates in respect of the gardens and to the railway and steamer companies for the conveyance, free of charge, of animals belonging to the garden.

Thanks are also due to the Officer Commanding and Officers of the 90th Punjabi Regiment for allowing their band to play at the garden on Tuesday afternoons free of charge.

A. M. McGRIGOR,
Honorary Secretary,

P. L. BUCKLAND,
President.

SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT.

I have the honour to submit the following report on the existing condition and the progress of the menagerie of the garden.

The following comparative table shows how the various collections of animals in the garden stood during the last four years :—

Year.	Mammals.	Birds.	Reptiles.
1919-20 ...	294	1,919	183
1920-21 ...	328	2,033	171
1921-22 ...	317	2,041	190
1922-23 ...	281	851	142

The figures 851 are approximate only, and in fact the total number of birds actually in the gardens has not greatly varied. Many birds of common varieties such as muniahs, wax bills, black-headed nuns, finches, etc., have been excluded. Birds such as cranes, rails, jacanas, coots, etc., which formerly were included, have been excluded as they have been set at large in the gardens. The extent of the large tank and the number of birds at large make it impossible to take stock with any degree of accuracy.

Among the important gifts deserving special mention were a fine male Bengal Tiger presented by H. R. H. the Prince of Wales, and a male Sikhim Stag presented by H. H. Maharaja Chandra Shamsher Jung Bahadur, Prime Minister of Nepal. Many additions to the collection have been made during the year, the most important of which are the following:—

1 Persian Brown bear	Purchased.
3 Hoolock Gibbons	Purchased.
1 Hoolock Gibbon	Presented by J. C. Cumming, Esq.
1 Vervet monkey	Presented by H. Kenneth, Esq.
2 Gold-leaf monkeys	Purchased.
1 Hairy-rumped agouti	Purchased.
1 Houcheur monkey	Purchased.
1 Pallas's sea-eagle	Presented by W. K. Dods, Esq.
3 Pied Imperial pigeons	Purchased.
1 Tibetan lynx	Purchased.
3 Anoas	Purchased.
2 Orang-outangs	Purchased.
1 Malayan bear	Presented by Mr. Oadens.
1 Gaur calf	Purchased.
2 White peafowl	By exchange.

The following animals were received in exchange from the Taronga Zoological Park Trust, Sydney:—

2 Great Kangaroos.	2 Red Birds of Paradise.	2 Emus.

1 Markhor.	2 Sambar deer.
2 Green monkeys.	2 Brow-antlered deer.
1 Bonnet monkey.	2 Black leopards.
4 Bengal porcupines.	4 Emus.
2 Gayals.	3 Hog deer.
1 Kashmir stag.	2 Spotted deer.
1 Tiger.	5 Indian wild pigs.
1 Fallow deer.	1 Barasingha deer.
2 Leopards.	1 Indian antelope.
2 Lions.	2 Peacock pheasants.
1 Malayan tapir.	2 Black-headed ibises.
1 English wild cattle.

The following birds bred on the island in the big lake:—

Night herons.	Indian snake birds.	Little cormorant.

Eggs were laid, but not hatched, by the following birds:—

Ostriches.	Imperial Nicobar pigeons.
Purple coots.	Ring-necked pheasants.
Jungle fowl.	Black swans.
Sagaing firebacks.	Crowned pigeons.
Canaries.

During the past year the gardens had the misfortune to lose the fine herd of Chillingham wild cattle except one heifer and some markhors. Foot and mouth disease occurred amongst the ruminants, but with careful treatment and proper precautions the disease was stamped out. The Chillingham cattle and the markhors, however, suffered the most, and though they recovered, they could not regain their former health, and the unusually heavy rains that followed brought on pneumonia and other complications to which they succumbed. As Chillingham cattle are rare, even in England, it will be almost impossible to replace them.

The death of the sea-lion is also a severe loss to the gardens, though every endeavour was made to keep the animal in natural surroundings, as far as possible, and to acclimatise it.

The work in the Pathological Department was carried on as usual with the help of the Principal, Bengal Veterinary College. As arranged last year with the Director, Calcutta School of Tropical Medicine and Hygiene, Major R. Knowles, I.M.S., carried on bacteriological researches, and from his report the following extracts are of interest:—

Hyacinthine Macaw.—A most extraordinary condition. The abdomen was full of ascitic fluid, the liver almost unrecognisable, fibrotic, cirrhotic and fatty, nearly white in colour. Films from internal viscera gave negative results. The intestinal contents showed a prevalent intestinal spirochaete.

Cause of death.—Acute cirrhosis of the liver.

Temminck's Tragopan.—This bird showed a most extraordinary amount of fat every where. The heart was buried in fat, also the liver. The whole mesentery and abdominal peritoneum was loaded with fat. The omental fat was very excessive. The heart muscle had undergone fatty degeneration. The gut contents showed numerous sarcodinæ and infection with a spirochaete (not at all unusual in birds and animals and corresponds to the probably harmless Spirochaeta eugyrata of man). Films from the internal viscera, specially from the kydney and lungs, showed infection with a leucocytozoon.

Cause of death.—Leucocytozoon infection, plus the fatty condition of the internal viscera.

Indian Mouse deer.—Both lungs deeply congested, in places consolidated and dripping with blood on section. Right heart distended. Intestinal contents showed nothing abnormal.

Cause of death.—Pleuro-pneumonia.

Large Heron.—The heart was congested and distended and liver also congested. The blood vessels of the mesentery were very dilated and congested. Films from the internal viscera showed nothing. The intestinal contents showed an entamœba present with bright chromidial bars, not unlike E. histolytica of man.

Cause of death.—Enteritis.

Black-necked stork.—Liver very fibrotic, cuts hard and in many places fatty Films from the viscera showed nil. But there was a most interesting condition of the large intestine, the wall being riddled with cysts with very thick hard fibrotic walls; inside these a reddish jelly; which on microscopical examination showed occidial oocysts, plus a mycotic infection.

Cause of death.—Mycotic infection of the gut superadded on to a coccidial infection.

Slow Loris.—The liver was almost white and everywhere fatty and fibrotic. The spleen was also enlarged and fibrotic. No intestinal parasites were found. Films from the viscera showed everywhere a big thick bacillus looking like a B. proteus.

Cause of death.—Fatty degeneration, fibrosis and cirrhosis of the liver

Markhor.—The pericardial and both pleural sacs were full of serous effusion; the lungs were sodden with œdema, frothy on section, and full of white pus. There was also a hæmorrhagic condition of the wall of the aorata, but no rupture; lots of petechial spots on the adventitia.

Cause of death.—Hyper acute pleuro-pneumonia.

King Cobra.—The lungs sac was full of strongy loid worms, containing living embryos. The mesentery was studded with encysted worms. The gut contents were full of worm ova: one of a Trichuris type, another of Strongyloid type. The worm in the lungs had two chitinous mouth plates. The gut contents shewed abundant Trichomastix, and there was also a hæmogregarine infection in the viscera.

Cause of death.—Helminthic infections.

Orang-outang.—The curious feature is that films from the pneumonic lung showed bacteria resembling Pfeiffer's influenza bacillus. The pneumonia was either influenzal or pasteurellosis in type.

Cause of death.—Broncho-pneumonia.

Sagaing Fireback.—The heart blood films showed a heavy infection. The gut contents showed Ascaris, Trichuris and Blastocystis The visceral films showed microfilariæ in the lungs and Proteosoma in the heart blood. The skin was full of Proteosoma pigment.

Cause of death.—Pasteurella infection.

Russell's Viper.—The lung sac was intensely congested, but no parasites were found.

Cause of death.—Cysticercus infection of the mesentery.

From—A. MARR, ESQ., C.I.E., I.C.S., Secretary to the Government of Bengal Finance Department,

I AM directed to submit, for the information of the Government of India, the following report on the administration of the Stamp Department in Bengal during the three years ending 31st March 1923.

* * * * * *

Financial results.

3. The receipts, which in 1919-20, the last year of the preceding triennium, were Rs. 3,13,15,702, fell to Rs. 2,94,78,242 in 1920-21 and to Rs. 2,83,25,202 in 1921-22. During the last year of the period under review the receipts, as reported by the Accountant-General, Bengal, plus Rs. 9,29,760 paid to the Calcutta Improvement Trust, being the collection of the increased stamp duty leviable under section 82 of the Calcutta Improvement Trust Act, 1911, and also Rs. 4,99,000, the provincial share of the sale-proceeds of unified stamps credited to non-postal revenues, amounted to Rs. 3,14,86,217, an increase of Rs. 31,61,015 or 11·2 per cent., as compared with 1921-22, and of Rs. 20,07,975 or 6·8 per cent. over those of 1920-21. The increase occurred both under judicial and non-judicial stamps.

* * * * * *

A.—Judicial Stamps.

5. The sale-proceeds of court-fee stamps (excluding stamps for copies) rose steadily during the past three years. The receipts during 1922-23 were Rs. 1,93,50,068 against Rs. 1,75,44,514 in 1921-22 and Rs. 1,72,84,128 in 1920-21. Compared with 1921-22 there was an increase in 1922-23 of Rs. 18,05,554, which was shared by all the divisions. The increase was generally due to the increase in the rates of duty on account of the introduction of the Court-fees (Amendment) Act, 1922, which came into force from the 1st April 1922. The largest increase, Rs. 5,51,095, was contributed by the Presidency Division. The receipts from the sale of stamps for copies fell from Rs. 7,07,199 in 1920-21 to Rs. 6,97,517 in 1921-22 and to Rs. 6,94,105 in 1922-23. The receipts from the sale of plain paper used with court-fee labels also fell from Rs. 3,74,368 in 1920-21 to Rs. 3,52,471 in 1921-22 and to Rs. 3,21,986 in 1922-23.

B.—Non-judicial Stamps.

6. The revenue derived from the sale of non-judicial stamps during 1922-23 showed an increase of Rs. 13,91,388 or 14·3 per cent. as compared with 1921-22, and of Rs. 6,644 or ·06 per cent. over that of the first year of the triennium. The increase was shared by all classes of stamps except impressed stamps as defined in section 2 (13) (a) of the Stamp Act.

7. Impressed stamps.—The receipts from the sale of impressed stamps (the most important item among non-judicial stamps), which amounted to Rs. 50,62,431 in 1920-21, fell to Rs. 46,08,591 in 1921-22, but rose to Rs. 60,18,661 in the last year of the triennium, was shared by all the districts except Calcutta, and is ascribed to the enhanced rate of duty required by the Bengal Stamp (Amendment) Act, 1922. The fall in Calcutta is entirely due to trade depression, and the Collector says that this falling off in the revenue has not been yet arrested by the increased rates of duty under the Amendment Act.

8. Hundis or inland bills-of-exchange.—The revenue derived from the sale of hundi or bill-of-exchange stamps fell from Rs. 3,10,465 in 1920-21 to Rs. 2,23,295 in 1921-22, but in 1922-23 rose to Rs. 2,30,313, out of which Calcutta contributed Rs. 2,16,357 against Rs. 2,11,873 in 1921-22 and Rs. 2,90,993 in 1920-21. The decrease in Calcutta is due to dullness of business among Indian traders.

9. Impressed labels or special adhesive stamps.—The receipts from the sale of these stamps gradually declined from Rs. 32,01,671 in 1920-21 to Rs. 28,28,181 in 1921-22 and to Rs. 28,13,654 in 1922-23. These stamps are used principally in Calcutta and the decrease is due to depressed trade conditions.

10. Foreign bill stamps.—The receipts from these stamps, which are sold mainly in Calcutta, show very great fluctuations during the last three years. The revenue fell from Rs. 4,29,946 in 1920-21 to Rs. 2,09,193 in 1921-22, but rose to Rs. 2,46,399 in 1922-23. The decrease by more than half during 1921-22, as compared with the preceding year, is due to the slump in foreign trade, while the increase during 1922-23 over 1921-22 is due to somewhat greater activity in foreign trade.

11. Share transfer stamps.—Sales of these stamps, which are used for payment of stamp duty on transfers of shares of public limited companies, are practically confined to Calcutta. The receipts in 1921-22 fell to Rs. 4,13,260, or by more than a hundred per cent. of those in the preceding year, but recovered to some extent in 1922-23 when they rose to Rs. 5,89,330. The noticeable decline in the second year of the triennium is due to the absence of a trade boom and consequently of speculation. The increase in the last year of the triennium is due to enhanced stamp duty.

12. Stamps for legal practitioners' licenses.—The receipts from the sale of these stamps fell from Rs. 1,48,849 in 1920-21 to Rs. 1,46,113 in 1921-22, but rose to Rs. 1,50,812 in the last year of the triennium.

13. Notarial stamps.—These stamps were sold only in Calcutta and Chittagong during 1922-33. The sales of the year amounted to Rs. 6,343 in comparison with Rs. 2,910 and Rs. 6,084 in the previous two years. The increase in the last year of the triennium is ascribed to the enhanced stamp duty.

14. Forms for agreements and contracts chargeable with two-anna coloured impressions.—The income from this source rose from Rs. 6,023 in 1920-21 to Rs. 6,361 in 1921-22 and to Rs. 6,795 in 1922-23.

15. Forms for cheques and receipts.—The sale of these forms, which are stamped with one-anna coloured impressions, brought Rs. 2,94,205 during 1922-23, which exceeded the receipts of the previous two years by Rs. 14,763 and Rs. 3,440 or by 5·3 and 1·2 per cent., respectively. The increase occurred chiefly in Calcutta.

16. Miscellaneous receipts.—The receipts under this head were mainly composed of realizations under section 8 and under section 35 and sections 32, 37, 40 and 41 of the Indian Stamp Act, 1899. The income from these sources rose from Rs. 2,01,684 in 1920-21 to Rs. 5,11,453 in 1921-22, but fell to Rs. 2,63,675 in the last year of the triennium. This most marked fall occurred in Calcutta and is ascribed to non-realization of duty under section 8 (1) of the Stamp Act, as no local body floated any loan during the year.

17. Arrangements for the sale of stamps.— * * * * * The total number of vendors engaged in the sale of judicial and non-judicial stamps during the year 1922-23 was 5,274 against 5,329 and 5,438 in the previous two years. The expenditure on discount allowed to stamp vendors during 1922-23 was Rs. 4,96,514, which exceeded that of the two previous years by Rs. 95,393 and Rs. 47,974, respectively. The increase during the last year of the triennium was due to increased discount paid on account of increased duty as well as to the rise in the sale of both judicial and non-judicial stamps. The average discount per vendor during the triennium under report was Rs. 84 against Rs. 73 in the preceding period. No complaints as to difficulty and inconvenience in procuring stamps and dishonesty or disobedience to rules on the part of the vendors were brought to light in any of the districts during the period under report.

18. Punitive action of the Courts and Revenue officers.— * * * * The total number of cases dealt with by the Civil Courts increased from 1,486 in 1920-21 to 1,609 in 1921-22, but decreased to 1,278 in the last year of the triennium. The duty and penalty realized by the Civil Courts, however, declined from Rs. 10,481 in 1920-21 to Rs. 10,466 in 1921-22, but rose to Rs. 10,926 in 1922-23. There was an increase of 2,871 in the number of cases decided, but a decrease of Rs. 14,750 in the duty and penalty realized by Revenue officers in 1922-23 as compared with the figures in the preceding year and an increase of 2,584 and Rs. 50,123, respectively, as compared with the figures of 1920-21.

19. * * * * * * * * * * The number of cases instituted in 1922-23 was 249, in which 108 persons were brought to trial against 156 and 151 in 1921-22 and 243 and 274 in 1920-21. Compared with the year 1921-22 the number of prosecutions shows an increase in the Dacca and Chittagong Divisions against decrease in the Burdwan, Presidency and Rajshahi Divisions. The fines imposed during the last year of the triennium amounted to Rs. 1,526 against Rs. 1,849 in 1921-22 and Rs. 2,435 in 1920-21. The amount paid in rewards in 1922-23 was Rs. 425, showing a decrease, as compared with the previous two years, of Rs. 403 and Rs. 431, respectively. No rewards were paid outside Calcutta.

20. Working of section 19H added to the Court-fees Act, VII of 1870, by Act XI of 1899.— * * * * The number of cases pending at the beginning of the year 1922-23 was 630 against 919 and 885 in the previous two years, respectively. The number of cases reported to the Collector showed a gradual decrease from 1,738 in 1920-21 to 1,597 in 1921-22 and to 1,527 in 1922-23. The number of cases in which enquiries were instituted during 1922-23 was 2,055, showing a decrease, as compared with the previous two years, of 238 and 380, respectively. The number of enquiries completed during 1922-23 was 1,558 against 1,741 and 1,622 in the previous two years. Of the cases reported during 1922-23, including those pending at the beginning of the year, 70·3 per cent. were completely enquired into, the corresponding percentages in the preceding two years being 69·2 and 61·8, respectively. The proportion borne by the deficit duty required to the amount originally realized was 8·7 in 1922-23 and 10·6 and 6·9 in the preceding two years.

RESOLUTION ON ANTI-KALA-AZAR MEASURES IN BENGAL.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL.

LOCAL SELF-GOVERNMENT DEPARTMENT.

CALCUTTA, THE 6TH NOVEMBER 1923.

RESOLUTION—No. 2671 P.H.

Introductory.—The public have recently been alarmed by statements in the Press to the effect that the prevalence of Kala-azar in Bengal has been gravely under-estimated, and it has even been suggested that the present outstanding problem for the Public Health Department is Kala-azar rather than malaria. As will appear hereafter, Government (Ministry of Local Self-Government) have for some time past recognized the necessity of ascertaining the facts as regards the endemicity of Kala-azar and the desirability of bringing treatment within the reach of persons suffering from this disease, which if unchecked and untreated is accompanied by so fearful a mortality rate. Before dealing with the problem in its public health aspect as it affects Bengal, and before stating the measures which are being taken and which it is hoped to extend, it may be useful to give the lay reader a general idea of the disease, its etiology and its treatment.

Kala-azar: What it is and its causes.—Kala-azar is a specific fever "characterized (in Rai Bahadur Dr. U. N. Brahmachari's words) by a high mortality in untreated cases, persistent irregular fever, lasting from a few months to two or three years, rarely more, and associated with enlargement of the spleen and frequently also of the liver, a gradual downhill course with progressive emaciation and anæmia."

It is endemic and occasionally epidemic in certain tropical and sub-tropical countries: its name possibly signifies "the black sickness" by reason of the dark pigmentation of the skin, which the disease appears ordinarily to produce.

Kala-azar was first recognized in Assam; in 1881 Dr McNaught gave a clinical description based on 120 cases, while in 1882 Clark described an epidemic in that province. Up to 1904 Kala-azar was commonly believed to be a peculiar form of malarial cachexia, confined to certain parts of Assam, but in 1903 Leishman noted a new form of parasite in the spleen of a soldier who died from a long-continued fever he had contracted in India, while almost simultaneously Donovan discovered a similar organism in post-mortem spleens and the spleen pulp obtained from living patients in Madras. In the same year, Bentley and Rogers discovered the Leishman-Donovan body in the spleens of Kala-azar patients in Assam, and since then, the disease has been found to be sporadic in many parts of India, specially in Madras and Bengal. A similar infection, which chiefly attacks infants and young children, has been found to be endemic along the Mediterranean coast.

The ravages of Kala-azar in Assam are well known. In Nowgong, the worst affected district, the disease has accounted for 10 per cent. of the total mortality during the past three years, and the most recent data suggest that about 15 per mille of the population are infected with the disease.

Although the disease is widespread, the incidence varies greatly in different localities, many villages appearing entirely free of infection, and the majority of those that have been attacked, showing one or two cases. But here and there intense foci of infection occur with numerous cases and a very heavy mortality. In 1918, 360 cases of Kala-azar were discovered on a tea estate in the Sibsagar district of Assam among a total population of 1,254. But a subsequent survey of the remaining 156 tea estates with an aggregate population of over 200,000 failed to disclose a single further infection.

Kala-azar has always been known to be infectious. It has been found that a site becomes infected, and local epidemics have been stopped in Assam by the desertion of an infected village. Houses appear to become infected, and where a person contracts the disease it tends to attack the other members of his household.

Although the parasite of Kala-azar is known, the method of transmission is still a mystery, and research extending over 20 years has failed to convict the bed bug as the vector of the parasite.

As regards the symptomatology of the disease, its onset in some cases is marked by signs and symptoms, which resemble those of typhoid or paratyphoid, while by the inexperienced, the fever may be confused with malaria. But the quinine-resistant nature of the fever and the absence of the periodicity typical of malaria render the differential diagnosis comparatively sure.

As the disease advances, the characteristic symptoms become more pronounced, viz., progressive emaciation of the limbs in contradistinction to the increasing enlargement of the abdomen, darkening of the skin, falling of the hair, palpitation, shortness of breath, marked dilatation of the superficial veins of the lower thorax and the abdomen, increased appetite, but poor digestion, bleeding from the nose and the gums, a tendency for canerum oris to occur, and sometimes a persistent very irritating cough.

The clinical picture of Kala-azar is indeed very different to that of malaria, and to those familiar with the two diseases there is no difficulty in distinguishing them except in the very early stages.

Treatment of Kala-Azar.—Until the discovery of the antimony treatment in 1915 medical science was powerless to deal with Kala-azar. "The impotence of medical science, in the face of this scourge," wrote Lt-Col. McCombie Young, I.M.S., in 1913, "and our inability to do more for its unfortunate young victims than to offer them quinine on the chance that possibly our diagnosis is wrong, and that the complaint is malarial, makes it a trying experience to see much of this disease for any lengthy period. The people want a cure for the disease, and if we cannot offer this, our measures of segregation and prevention meet with little success."

In 1915 Caronia and Di Cristina treated a number of cases of infantile Kala-azar in Italy with intravenous injections of Tartar emetic with singular success. They were followed almost immediately by Rogers, Muir, Brahmachari, Mackie, Knowles and others in India, who had similar success in the treatment of Kala-azar in this country, and the general consensus of opinion now is that (in the words of Drs. Napier and Muir) "the injection of one of the common antimony salts of Tartaric acid into the vein of a patient suffering from Kala-azar in suitable doses over a sufficiently long period will cure the disease with as much certainty as any drug will cure any disease." Formerly it was estimated that the case mortality of Kala-azar was 96 per cent., but under antimony medication it is believed that the recovery rate is now from 90 to 95 per cent. of those who submit to the full course of treatment.

History of Kala-azar Investigations in Bengal.—In 1894, two notes were prepared at the request of Government by Dr. Hendley regarding the existence of a disease popularly termed "Pushkara" (the plague) in Jalpaiguri. There is no room for doubt that Dr. Hendley was describing Kala-azar as we know it to-day. In 1898, Lt.-Col. Harold Browne, I.M.S. (retired), investigated the existence of a disease known as Kala-dukh in Purnea, and about the same time Sir Ronald Ross made similar enquries in the Darjeeling Terai. The name of Sir Leonard Rogers is specially linked with Kala-azar, and following Giles (1890) who had, however, ascribed Kala-azar to hookworm infection, he gave a full account of the disease as it existed in Assam in 1896-97, in which he traced the history of the disease and established its communicability.

At that time he identified the disease as a malignant type of malaria. but in 1904 he confirmed Bentley's discovery of the Leishman-Donovan body in Assam Kala-azar, while he was the first (1915) to introduce the antimony treatment in India.

In 1904 he found the disease in sporadic form in parts of Dinajpur, while Lt.-Col. Nott, I.M.S., identified it in Berhampur. In 1906-07, Captain Stewart, I.M.S., and Lt. Proctor, I.M.S., who were deputed to Bengal to assist the drainage committee by investigations into the prevalence of malaria, its mortality rate and its relation, if any, with the want of natural drainage, found a focus of intense Kala-azar infection in the Gangni thana (Nadia). Their enquiries were confined to Nadia, Jessore and Murshidabad, and apart from the Gangni thana, they were of opinion that Leishman-Donovan's infection was not so common as to cause any appreciable effect on the death-rate, or to render the spleen-rates unreliable as a guide in estimating the amount of malaria.

They were of opinion that Kala-azar, though occurring here and there in "pockets" of intense infection, was generally only sporadic in its incidence.

"It may be concluded (they state) that while the disease does exist in most parts of the districts (Jessore, Nadia and Murshidabad) it is only present in small amount, and that the spleen-rates are reliable as a test for malaria". They found Kala-azar in 21 out of 43 villages in Nadia, 11 out of 96 villages in Jessore, and 10 out of 34 villages in Murshidabad In the 11 infected villages of Jessore, they found only 16 cases of the disease.

Major Forster, I.M.S., (1908-09) was deputed to make a further investigation of the prevalence of Kala-azar, and he took the view that much of the fever found with enlarged spleen in Murshidabad was Kala-azar and not malaria.

Lt.-Col. Fry's first and second reports on Malaria in 1912 and 1914 touch on the question of Kala-azar. In Patna and Purnea districts, he had seen many cases of chronic Kala-azar, but he saw comparatively little of it in the course of his tour in Bengal. The results of his examination of blood for malaria led him to the view that Major Forster had exaggerated the prevailing Kala-azar to the exclusion of malaria, and he came to the conclusion that the majority of enlarged spleens in Central Bengal were due to malaria, while he was of opinion that about 5 per cent. of the splenomegaly in Bengal might be attributed to Kala-azar.

In 1911-14 Dr. Bentley, who had had special Kala-azar experience in Assam, investigated malaria in Eastern Bengal. His experience supported the view taken by Lt.-Col. Fry, Major Proctor and Major Stewart. He found sporadic cases of Kala-azar in Dacca, Faridpur, Murshidabad, Jessore, Dinajpur, Jalpaiguri, Rajshahi, Malda and elsewhere, and his observations led him to the view that although Kala-azar existed widely in sporadic form, no very large proportion of splenomegaly in these areas could be attributed to this disease. It must not be forgotten that several experienced Civil Surgeons in recent years have been interested in Kala-azar, and primâ facie it may seem improbable that any wide and intense prevalence of the disease could have escaped their notice.

In 1917 Dr. Francis reported the existence of a small focus of infection in the Chittagong district, and in the same year the Civil Surgeon of Bakarganj found ten cases of the disease. At the same time the Civil Surgeons of Dacca, Mymensingh, Noakhali, Tippera and Chittagong Hill Tracts stated that no cases of Kala-azar had been reported recently in these districts. Further enquiry, however, showed that cases of kala-azar were being treated in Mymensingh. In August 1917 Babu Brojendra Kishore Rai Chaudhuri, M.L.C., put a question in Council regarding the prevalence of Kala-azar and returned to the subject again in 1918.

On the advice of the Director of Public Health, Government (Ministry of Local Self-Government) decided to undertake a Kala-azar survey, and Dr. Sur, Assistant Director of Public Health, was placed on special duty for that purpose. A questionnaire was first issued through Civil Surgeons to all dispensary medical officers, while Dr. Sur with a small staff proceeded to make careful local enquiries.

The survey has now extended over half the province; financial considerations have limited its extent and scope in each district, but the survey was merely designed to give a rough estimate of the actual conditions of Bengal in regard to Kala-azar. A thorough village to village and house to house survey, with the object of discovering each infected area, determining the number of cases and providing early treatment, is a task which in the main must be left to local authorities, with the assistance and under the general direction of Government.

There is, however, independent corroboration of Dr. Sur's enquiries, on which the Director of Public Health recently estimated that the number of Kala-azar cases in Bengal could hardly be less than 50,000.

Since 1911 figures showing the number of Kala-azar cases treated throughout the province are given in the Surgeon-General's Annual Reports. In 1911 only 1541 cases were noted, which rose gradually to 4,290 cases in 1919. To Dr. Sur's Kala-azar survey, which rendered the disease more familiar to local practitioners and spread the knowledge of a simple cure, the increase of reported cases in 1920 (7,382 cases), in 1921 (11,231 cases), and in 1922 (18,506 cases) can to some extent be attributed.

Similarly the increase in the number of cases reported from the Burdwan Division (90 in 1911 and 1,378 in 1922) is largely due to Dr. Muir's success in popularizing the antimony treatment at Kalna, while the increase in the Presidency Division (250 cases in 1911 and 3,190 in 1922) is the direct result of the work of the School of Tropical Medicine and of Rai Bahadur Dr. G. C. Chatterjee and other voluntary workers.

The incidence of 18,506 reported cases on the population of Bengal is ·0397 or 3·97 cases per 10,000 of population, and it will be interesting to compare this figure with those which much more elaborate investigations have yielded in Assam.

In 1922, a large special Kala-azar staff of medical officers, viz., eight Assistant and 48 Sub-Assistant Surgeons discovered under 20,000 cases in Assam, or a case incidence on population of 2·8 per mille, and even if we assumed that the incidence of the disease was equally severe in Bengal, we should still expect a total of under 150,000 cases in Bengal in 1922. These recent figures are confirmed by the results of earlier surveys. In 1911-12 Lt.-Col. Bodley Scott, I.M.S., made a survey of 23 thanas out of 31 (with 10,000 villages) in Sylhet: 53 villages were found infected with a case incidence of 5 per village. In 1913, another Kala-azar survey was made in Assam: 288 villages out of many thousands inspected were found to be infected, with on an average 2·4 cases per village.

In 1917-18 again, 116 villages in 5 districts were found infected with 3·1 cases per village, while during 1920-22, Lt.-Col. McCombie Young himself examined 82 villages in the Sibsagar district and found a case incidence per village of 3·2 in 1920, 4·4 in 1921, and 6·7 in 1922.

The Calcutta figures have a special value and interest. The census figures show that about a quarter of the inhabitants of Calcutta were born in the city, and 38·95 per cent. in other parts of Bengal (many, as might be expected, coming from the 24-Parganas and Howrah districts). The following figure shows the number per 10,000 of the natural population of certain Bengal districts, who were found in Calcutta and its suburbs at the time of the census :—

Howrah 1,307, 24-Parganas 792, Hooghly 493, Burdwan 155, Midnapore 130, Nadia 106, Dacca 94, Bankura 63, Jessore 55, Faridpur 47, Darjeeling 41, Khulna 40, Bakarganj 28, Pabna 18, and Mymensingh 9, etc.

In the case of Kala-azar, observations appear to show a considerable correspondence between the proportion of cases of the disease imported into Calcutta from particular districts, and the number of immigrants from these districts that are found among the population of the city, and we may assume for the present that on a rough calculation the incidence of Kala-azar in Calcutta does not widely differ from the provincial incidence in Bengal.

Roughly speaking, Calcutta might indeed, as a microcosmos of Bengal, be expected to reflect in the case of many diseases, where local conditions do not stultify the comparison, the conditions of public health in Bengal.

The number of indoor and outdoor Kala-azar patients reported from the Calcutta hospitals and dispensaries in 1911 was 509, and the figure rose in 1922 to 2,876, or an incidence of under 3 per mille. If this case incidence—which is higher than the estimated incidence (2·8 per mille) in Assam—is applied to the province, we still have under 150,000 cases in Bengal, and even if, allowing for the fact that many cases are treated by private practitioners and are thus not included in the hospital returns, we have double the number of reported cases, and take the total number of persons suffering from Kala-azar in Calcutta as 6,000. and apply this incidence to the province, we should still have not more than 300,000 cases in Bengal, involving however an incidence more than double that of Assam—the home of Kala-azar in India.

Estimates have recently been published by various workers on Kala-azar which claim that the incidence of Kala-azar in Bengal is enormously greater than the official calculations suggest, and it has been conjectured that if active measures are not immediately taken, there is a risk of 60 to 80 per cent. of the population of Calcutta being infected with Kala-azar within six or seven years. The Minister for Local Self-Government is anxious that careful investigations should be made to establish the facts regarding the prevalence of Kala-azar in Bengal and has no desire to raise controversies, which cannot yet be conclusively settled on the material which exists, but he is clearly of opinion that the information which Dr. Sur's careful work has placed at his disposal, supported as it is in essentials by similar surveys on a larger scale in Assam, indicates that the number of Kala-azar cases in Bengal is probably less than 200,000 and almost certainly less than 300,000. But even if it is held that the prevalence of the disease has been greatly overstated on insufficient data, the aim of Government, of local authorities and of voluntary anti-Kala-azar organizations must be not merely to check and control a disease which is still manageable, but entirely to destroy the infection. The data, which several years' experience of the disease has afforded, suggest that this task is not yet of such dimensions as to place it beyond the capacity of local authorities assisted by Government, and the work already initiated by district boards for combating the disease enables the position, in the opinion of the Minister, to be faced with hope and confidence.

Recent anti-Kala-azar work.—Since 1919 the staff under Dr. Sur have been training local medical men in the diagnosis and treatment of Kala-azar, and recently the whole subordinate medical establishment of the Public Health Department has been concentrated on Kala-azar work.

It is estimated that about 300 medical men including sub-assistant surgeons employed under the local authorities have received training in Kala-azar diagnosis and treatment at the hands of Dr. Sur and his assistants, and others have since been trained by the district health officers who obtained a knowledge of the disease in the course of their studies for the diploma of public health.

In 1920 a scheme had been drawn up for anti-Kala-azar measures in districts where its existence might be established in the course of Dr. Sur's survey. The district boards at that time took little interest in the subject, but in 1921-22—with the appointment of district health officers—a more energetic policy became possible. In response to the request of the Public Health Department, district boards have now undertaken anti-Kala-azar work in an energetic and vigorous manner. To some extent their change of attitude is doubtless due to the recent focussing of public interest in Kala-azar. The Assam Government have been led to undertake anti-Kala-azar operations on a large scale, and in Bengal Rai Bahadur Dr. G. C. Chatterjee's fine work in creating new Kala-azar treatment centres and the inspiration which his example has given to so many private medical practitioners are new factors in the war against disease on a large scale in this Presidency, and the Minister for Local Self-Government welcomes this organisation of voluntary agencies as a most powerful ally to the forces of Government and the local authorities. The work of the Bengal Health Association on similar lines also promises to prove most valuable ; the large Kala-azar centre at Dogachia has already given relief to hundreds of sufferers. But the district boards of Bengal had begun work before the question obtained publicity in 1923, and the Minister for Local Self-Government cannot refrain from pointing to the splendid anti-Kala-azar work already done by district boards as a striking justification of Government's health officer policy. It has been urged that health officers are a costly luxury for local bodies, which have little money to spend on new sanitary works. It is forgotten that one of their main duties is to indicate how measures—not necessarily involving large expenditure—may be concerted and organized for the prevention of disease. The people of Bengal are interested in sanitation, and the measures which the district boards have taken for the suppression of Kala-azar are striking proof of the desire of the boards to interpret popular opinion, but the Minister for Local Self-Government believes that the district boards will themselves be the first to acknowledge the assistance their health officers have afforded.

In 15 districts of Bengal, special Kala-azar treatment centres have been started by district boards. Thus in Tippera 8 such centres have been opened, in Faridpur 15, in Malda 8, and in Rajshahi 12. In Howrah, the district board and branches of the anti-malarial co-operative society have started 30 centres for treatment. There are, in fact, at the present moment in Bengal over 150 special treatment centres, while in many other districts several of the local dispensaries have been equipped for Kala-azar diagnosis and treatment. The district health officers have themselves had some training in the disease, and they are being assisted by the Public Health Department in imparting a knowledge of the Aldehyde test and of the technique of intravenous injection to the sub-assistant surgeons employed in mufassal dispensaries.

There is thus already the nucleus of a large organisation—at least partially trained—for anti-Kala-azar work, and in making proposals for its expansion and better utilisation, the Minister desires to acknowledge the useful constructive work which district boards have been accomplishing in connection with Kala-azar. This is one of the first fruits of local public health organisation, and while anxious to give no bias of centralization to anti-Kala-azar work, the Minister desires to suggest steps by which this work may be expanded and still better organized.

Government's Kala-azar policy.—(a) A trained agency is the primary requirement. Each district possesses many dispensaries, and a large number of the sub-assistant surgeons in charge have already been trained in the diagnosis and treatment of the disease. The School of Tropical Medicine is prepared to do all in its power to give the necessary training as rapidly as possible to sub-assistant surgeons whom district or municipal boards may depute for such training, while in many cases the local bodies may be able to arrange for training under the Civil Surgeon or health officers, who have had special recent experience in Kala-azar work.

There are at present nearly 900 hospitals and dispensaries in Bengal (excluding Calcutta)—some maintained by Government, some by local bodies and some privately, while in many cases support is afforded both by Government and local authorities and by private charity. There seems no reason why all these institutions should not gradually be used partially as Kala-azar treatment centres, and it will then be possible in Bengal to bring the cure for Kala-azar within the reach of practically all of its unfortunate victims Local authorities are already fully alive to the value of such a measure, and the Minister for Local Self-Government trusts that they will now work out definite programmes for training those medical officers who have not yet been instructed in the diagnosis and treatment of Kala-azar, or for supplementing such training where it may appear to have been inadequate.

The ideal method of training will be to depute officers for a short period to the School of Tropical Medicine, where, however, only 20 can receive training at one time.

(b) Skilled inspection, even where a trained agency of subordinate medical officers has been created, is necessary to insure the best organization, the maintenance of efficiency in the technique of diagnosis and treatment, and the provision of medical relief on the widest possible scale. At present Dr. Sur, Assistant Director of Public Health, and 4 assistant and 17 sub-assistant surgeons (practically the whole mobile force of the department) are engaged entirely in Kala-azar work.

Two other Assistant Directors within their local areas will be engaged largely on Kala-azar work, in addition to their other duties.

The Minister for Local Self-Government trusts that local authorities in prosecuting the campaign, which they have so effectively initiated, will make the fullest use of the experience which the Assistant Directors have already gained, and he is confident that they will obtain valuable help and willing co-operation from the Civil Surgeons in supplementing the work of their own public health agency.

(c) It is desirable that a model Kala-azar centre should be opened at each district headquarters.

Frequently it may be possible for the Civil Surgeon to make special provision for Kala-azar diagnosis and treatment in his headquarters hospital, and where this is not practicable, the local authorities concerned, with the advice of the Civil Surgeon, may be able to make other arrangements for the purpose. It must not be forgotten that the Tartar emetic treatment is a prolonged one, the routine course consisting of 30 injections given on alternative days and thus extending over at least two months. In some cases, moreover, the patient must be admitted into hospital or treated at his home. All local authorities—municipalities and district boards—should in consultation with the Civil Surgeon, consider the possibility of establishing these headquarters model centres, which may involve the temporary appointment of an additional assistant or sub-assistant surgeon.

To the extent of the allotment available during the current year for Kala-azar work, viz., Rs. 15,000, Government will be prepared to assist any scheme on these lines which the local authorities in consultation with the Civil Surgeons may draw up. Where a good centre, which may serve as a model to the district, has thus been established, it may serve as the training ground for some of the dispensary medical officers, thus obviating the need for their deputation to Calcutta. The diagnosis of Kala-azar may be made on the case history and clinical grounds, aided, if necessary, by the Aldehyde test, spleen punctures being resorted to very sparingly. The treatment itself in inexpensive—about an anna per injection—the equipment required is simple, and the technique of intravenous injection, though requiring considerable care, may soon be made with proper skill by the trained sub-assistant surgeon.

Honorary agencies.—As already indicated, Government attach the greatest value to the co-operation of private practitioners in this campaign, and the Minister has decided to give the Central Co-operative Anti-Malarial Society a grant of Rs. 10,000 each, on condition that a substantial portion of this amount is to be spent in meeting the incidental expenses of special Kala-azar treatment centres. Government is also prepared to make a contribution to the Public Health Association for Kala-azar work.

General direction of anti-Kala-azar work.—It is evident that the campaign outlined above implies a utilization of the resources both of curative and preventive medicine. A mere survey of the incidence of Kala-azar, which makes no provision for treatment, will not only waste valuable opportunities, but also must almost inevitably fail.

Patients, who will welcome diagnosis, clinical and pathological, if it is merely the prelude to treatment and cure, will not be prepared to present themselves at a centre for the sake merely of enabling accurate statistics to be compiled.

A Kala-azar survey, if it is to be scientifically valuable, must include treatment on the widest scale. Public Health administration is concerned with epidemics or disease in the mass. Though its function is primarily preventive, the organization of medical skill for coping with an epidemic in full force is still within its province. But in this Kala-azar enquiry the provision of relief in individual cases—since an almost certain cure exists—is no less important than the elucidation of statistical facts. Although the proposed enquiry will fall largely within the province of Public Health and will be conducted primarily by the Department of Public Health, Government (Ministry of Local Self-Government) are of opinion that it is most essential to obtain the closest co-operation for the purposes of this enquiry between their Medical and Public Health Departments. They have decided to request the Board of Public Health to appoint from their members a small expert Kala-azar committee (with power to co-opt members) for co-ordinating and advising local agencies in dealing with the disease. The committee will meet periodically and will watch the progress of the Kala-azar enquiry by means of local reports obtained from the Medical and Public Health Departments. The Minister conceives that it would be their task to advise local authorities—whether direct or through Government—as to any measures which in their opinion can be taken to improve local organization of anti-Kala-azar work and to report periodically to Government and the Board of Public Health on the progress made. They might also determine in what form and on what points statistics should be compiled for ascertaining the incidence of Kala-azar or for obtaining data which research workers may still require in connection with the disease.

RESOLUTION ON THE REPORT OF THE BOARD OF REVENUE ON THE LAND REVENUE ADMINISTRATION OF THE PRESIDENCY OF BENGAL FOR THE YEAR 1922-23.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT.

Land Revenue.

DARJEELING, THE 25TH OCTOBER 1923.

READ—

The report of the Board of Revenue on the Land Revenue Administration of the Presidency of Bengal for the year 1922-23.

THE office of the Member, Board of Revenue, was held by Mr. F. C. French, C.S.I., throughout the year under report.

2. The report gives an indication of some improvement in the material condition of the people. Cultivators were comparatively prosperous; the rice-crop was on the whole good; jute cultivators, though the yield of such was not entirely satisfactory, got good prices for their jute; the supply of labour was steady, and labourers got high wages; and there was a marked improvement in the public health of the province. On the other hand, the year was as usual not free from natural calamities. There was a cyclone in the Cox's Bazar subdivision of the Chittagong district, and there were floods in the Burdwan Division. Disastrous floods occurred in several districts in the Rajshahi Division owing to the sudden and excessive rain which occurred in the last week of September 1922. This caused great loss of crops, cattle and houses in Rajshahi and Bogra and to a smaller extent in Dinajpur and Pabna. Thirty-three lives were unfortunately lost in Rajshahi and 22 in Bogra, and a large number of cattle was reported to have been killed. Government assistance was immediately forthcoming, and loans and gratuitous relief were freely granted to alleviate the distress. Many non-official agencies took part in the work of relief from funds contributed privately. His Excellency in Council has much pleasure in noting the report that the areas affected by the floods in the Rajshahi Division have made a wonderful recovery.

3. Useful information is given in the detailed statistics in the report, but there is little which calls for comment. There was an increase of nearly 1½ lakhs in the current demand for revenue mostly due to new settlements and re-settlements and progressive increase of demand in temporarily-settled and Government estates, and collections were, on the whole, good. The colonisation of the Sundarbans in the district of Bakarganj made good progress, and the work of reclamation was in full swing.

4. Non-co-operation appears to have had no effect on collections in Government estates. The decrease both in the number of schools and pupils in Government estates in the district of Noakhali is, however, partly attributed to apathy of the cultivators in educating their children caused by the non-co-operation movement. The enthusiasm over the charka, the symbol of non-co-operation, has almost subsided.

5. The relations between landlords and tenants are reported to have been unsatisfactory and actually strained in many places, the common causes being the levy of abwabs and enhancement of rent. Settlement operations have however shown the tenants that abwabs are illegal, and the non-co-operation movement is said to have made them more disposed to claim their rights and less inclined to tolerate any sort of oppression. As to the working of the Bengal Tenancy Amendment Act, 1918, a separate communication will be addressed to the Board, as Government are not entirely in accord with the remarks made thereon.

6. The thanks of the Governor in Council are due to the Board of Revenue for the efficient administration of the Land Revenue Department.

Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

RESOLUTION.

In pursuance of a resolution moved in the Legislative Assembly on the 8th of February 1922 by Baba Ujagar Singh Bedi, a Committee was appointed by the Governor General in Council to examine the Indian Arms Rules, 1920, and to make recommendations with a view to their amendment. In accepting this resolution the Governor General in Council had made it plain that there could be no departure from the two principles :

(1) that there should be no racial discrimination in the rules, and

(2) that the Government must retain the power to impose restrictions to prevent arms and particularly firearms from falling into the possession of lawless or dangerous persons.

The Committee submitted its report in November 1922. On the 15th of February 1923 the Hon'ble Home Member stated in the Legislative Assembly that subject to enquiries from local Governments and other authorities concerned on certain points of detail the Government of India were prepared to accept the main recommendations of the Committee. They could not, however, announce their decisions on all the recommendations made without prior consultation with local Governments who are in charge of the detailed administration of the rules. Local Governments accordingly were asked for their views and at the same time were requested to give effect as far as possible to the principles adopted by the Committee where this was feasible pending the modification of the rules of 1920. The replies of local Governments have now been received and have been fully examined by the Government of India. The Indian Arms Rules, 1920, have been amended where necessary and are now republished as the Indian Arms Rules, 1924 : but many recommendations accepted in whole or in part involve no amendment of the rules, and on these the Government of India are now pleased to announce their decisions.

2. In paragraphs 3 to 7 of their report the Committee deal with the question of exemptions. The Government of India agree with the general principle adopted by the Committee that the confinement of the privilege of exemption is in the special circumstances of India preferable to its total abolition. They accept the conclusions regarding entry 1 (a), and entries 11, 11-A and 11-B of the schedule of exemptions, but they only agree to the proposal that members of the Imperial Legislature should enjoy exemption for their term of office with some reluctance. It is opposed by local Governments on the one hand as creating an invidious distinction between the members of the Central and of Provincial legislatures, and on the other hand certain members of the Central Legislature claim a life exemption and not merely exemption for their terms of office. As regards entry 6 (d), 6 (f), 6 (i), and 6 (g), enquiries have been made from the local Governments concerned. They are averse from the preparation of lists in the sense recommended by the Committee. It is pointed out with justice that exemption is not conferred on certain Great Sardars or Zamindars as a right but as a privilege and that if the term were precisely defined and a list of all persons who came within that definition were maintained the fact of inclusion in the list would encourage claims for exemption as a matter of right. Moreover, the compilation of lists on a logical and uniform basis throughout India would present difficulty and would inevitably result in anomalies. The most expedient course therefore and that which will secure the maintenance of the principle that exemption is a privilege and at the same time minimise the inconvenience referred to by the Committee is to attempt no definition of the terms Great Zamindars or Great Sardars or the like in the rules and the schedule, but to leave it to the several local Governments themselves to determine what persons or classes of persons should be included in these categories. The schedule has therefore been amended accordingly.

3. The Government of India after consultation with the local Government on the Committee's observations on entry No. 7, are of opinion that there is no necessity to retain entries 7 (c) and 8 of schedule I in view of entries 8 and 9 of schedule IV. The proviso therefore to entry 7 (c) in column 3 automatically disappears. As regards the recommendation that the same privilege should be extended to the districts of Campbellpur, Rawalpindi and other districts adjoining the North-West Frontier Province, the local Government, after careful consideration, have reported that no extension of this privilege is required, but in order to meet the danger of raids in the Attock District, suggest that power be given to them to issue licences for going armed in that district without payment of fee. The Government of India accept this suggestion and have accordingly amended the heading of the appropriate licence form. As regards entry 13, after careful consideration they have decided that the words " or the Commander-in-Chief " should be added.

4. The Government of India accept the recommendation made in paragraph 4.

5. In paragraph 5 the Committee recommend that all exemptees should register the arms in their possession in respect of which they enjoy exemption and that registration should be compulsory. The Government of India accept the principle of registration but have decided that registration should be confined to firearms, and that no fee should be charged. In practice, they consider it would suffice if every exemptee were required to furnish the District Magistrate with information as to the weapons in his possession, failure to do so rendering him liable to the cancellation of his exemption.

6. To give effect to the recommendation regarding entires 11, 11-A and 11-B, the Government of India have decided that these entries will be deleted from the schedule and that no mention will be made of these classes in the revised rules. Every person now enjoying the privilege of exemption under these entries in the rules of 1920 or under entry 12 thereof, since the same considerations apply in their case also, will, on application, receive, free of all fees, a licence in form XVI, specially made valid for the life time of the licensee in respect of any arms now in his possession and hitherto exempt from licence provided he applies within six months of the coming into force of the rules of 1924. The privilege will not of course extend to title-holders who received titles after the 1st of January 1920, who unless otherwise exempt will, as before, be required to take out a licence under the rules.

7. In paragraph 8 the Committee recommend that in extension of the classes described in Home Department resolution No. 2125-C., dated the 21st March 1919, the payment of Rs. 500 land revenue, of Rs. 100 in roads and public works cesses, any payment of income-tax, and in the case of a Government servant receipt of a pay of Rs. 100 a month and upwords should be the qualifications constituting eligibility for what is commonly known as the "entitled class." The Governor General in Council accepts the principle underlying this recommendation that the grant of licences should be less restricted, and more free from irksome enquiries than was represented to be the case by many witnesses examined by the Committee and agrees with the qualifications suggested by the Committee as providing sufficient primâ facie justification for the possession of arms. He is unable, however, to accept the recommendation that provisions recognizing and constituting an "entitled class" should be embodied in the rules. Conditions vary greatly in different provinces in India. In some quarters a practice is in force more liberal than that recommended by the Committee; but in others it is necessary in the interest of law and order to secure that arms do not fall into the possession of lawless or dis-affected persons, and therefore they are unwilling to embody in statutory rules any provision which would have the effect of curtailing the power or discretion of the District Magistrate in ordering enquiries. The term "entitled class" is somewhat unfortunate. The rules as now framed contain no provisions inconsistent with the principle underlying the recommendation of the Committee, but the term "entitled class" has created the erroneous impression that there is a special class, enjoying fewer privileges than the exemptees, but greater than those who are neither exemptees nor members of the "entitled class." There is of course no such special class. The term is merely intended to comprise all those whose means and status primâ facie connote respectability and therefore justify the presumption that they are fit and proper persons to possess arms. While therefore no mention will be made of an "entitled class" in the statutory rules, at the same time the Government of India are anxious that the qualifications recommended by the Committee should be generally adopted by local Governments and should be made widely known. Where, however, a local Government has laid down more liberal qualifications, these should not now be abandoned. They cannot support the recommendation that lists of the "entitled class" should be maintained; the qualifications are so low that each district list would be voluminous, and its preparation and maintenance would involve the appointment of a special staff. The expenditure and labour involved would be wholly incommensurate with the results obtained.

8. In paragraph 10, the Committee recommend that where enquiry is necessary the agency of the police should not, if possible, be employed; but that if no other agency of enquiry is available a licence should not be refused on the strength of a police report alone but only after a further magisterial enquiry. The Government of India are unable to concur in this recommendation and are constrained to deprecate a reflection on the good faith of the police. The replies of local Governments indicate that it is impossible to eliminate enquiry by the police in the cities and that owing to the shortage or absence of suitable revenue staff, no other agency is available in many district, areas. At the same time the replies show that enquiry is frequently carried out by other agencies where these are available. The Government of India are of opinion that the agency of enquiry is really a matter for local Governments and are accordingly averse from imposing any restriction on the choice of agency. They leave the matter in the hands of local Governments who will, they are confident, take all steps necessary to secure that wherever previous enquiries are necessary they are promptly carried out, and in a manner which is neither inquisitorial nor calculated to wound the self-esteem of the applicant.

9. The Government of India are in complete agreement with the recommendation made in paragraph 11 that ordinarily no arbitrary limit should be imposed on the number of licences issued in a district, but that local Governments should have the discretionary power of limiting the number of licences in any area or district in which the number of arms justifies the apprehension of serious danger or in which such restriction is deemed necessary for the maintenance of public tranquillity. They accept the recommendation in paragraph 12 and have provided for the right of appeal by an amendment of the rules. The recommendation in paragraph 13 is accepted subject to a partial reservation as to the proposal that the duration of the licence should be for the calendar year. Local Governments have pointed out that in practice inconvenience would arise and would prefer that licences for possession and going armed and for protection of crops or destruction of wild animals should run from the date of issue, but have no objection to other licences being issued for the calendar year. The Government of India agree with the views of the local Governments.

10. In paragraph 14 the Committee have dwelt on the inconvenience to which persons desirous of purchasing weapons are put because they cannot produce the weapon when applying for the licence necessary for its possession. The Government of India agree with them that it is not necessary to provide for the issue of temporary licences in such cases and accept the recommendation that a regular licence should be issued at the time the applicant applies for a licence, if the application is granted. Provision has been made in the conditions attaching to the appropriate licences for the details of purchases to be filled in on the form by the dealer from whom the purchases are made and also, to meet criticism offered in this respect, for details to be furnished to the licensing authority by the licensee himself in any case in which he purchases arms and ammunition from any person who is not a licensed dealer.

11. The Government of India accept the principle of the recommendation made in paragraph 15 that a temporary licence for 14 days should be given to persons arriving in India by sea and not in possession of a regular licence on the payment of full fee by the Customs Authorities. It is however open to objection in detail. The period clearly will in many cases be too short for the object in view; the payment of the full fee to the Customs Authorities will deprive local Governments of their legitimate revenue: and finally it is doubtful whether the agency of the Customs Authorities is altogether suitable for the purpose. The Government of India have therefore decided that a temporary licence for the period of the journey to destination should be granted by the Commissioner of Police at Bombay, Madras, Calcutta, Rangoon, or the District Magistrates at other ports, on a special form on the payment of a fee of Re. 1 for each weapon and that on arrival at destination a regular licence should be taken out in the ordinary way. No practical difficulty need be anticipated. It will be made clear in the form of temporary licence that it does not cover possession after arrival at destination. Travellers arriving in India possessing no regular licence and desirous of obtaining one should inform their agents beforehand of the weapons they intend to import and instruct them to obtain the necessary temporary licence. On arrival at destination they should apply for the licences required in the ordinary way.

12. The Government of India accept the recommendations made in paragraph 16 The conditions of the licence forms have accordingly been altered so as to make it compulsory to report the loss of firearms. A note has also been appended to the licence forms explaining that the breach of any of the conditions of the licence renders the licensee liable to the penalties which may be imposed under the Act.

13. The Government of India accept the recommendations made in paragraphs 17, 18, 19 and 20 and trust that local Governments will give effect to them both in the letter and in the spirit. As regards paragraph 20 they agree that the District Magistrate or any Magistrate in charge of a subdivision in the district in which the licensee is residing or in ony other district in which he is known should be empowered to renew a licence. In any case of doubt it is always open to such Magistrate to make enquiries from the licensing authority which originally granted the licence.

14. In paragraph 21 the Committee state their recommendation in regard to fees. There is some diversity of opinion in the replies received from the local Governments, some accepting the proposal, some recommending no change and others putting forward variants of their own. The principal objection is the loss of revenue which will result from the adoption of the scale proposed by the Committee; in some quarters, too, it is suggested that the large number of arms licences issued does not justify the belief that persons who require weapons are deterred from purchasing them by the high cost of the licence. The Government of India are impressed by the substantial loss of revenue which complete acceptance of this recommendation will entail. On the other hand they cannot overlook the fact that stress was laid on the desirability of reducing the fees before the Committee, particularly in the case of breech-loading weapons, by many of the witnesses who were examined. They have accordingly decided that the initial fees should remain unchanged, but that half these fees should be chargeable on renewal provided applications are made within a month following the expiry of the period covered by the original licence. In their opinion this reduction of the renewal fees will afford substantial relief, and is the most they can agree to in the present financial stringency. They accept the recommendation in regard (1) to the payment of fees by non-judicial stamp, but consider that an applicant should have the option of paying them in cash, (2) the application for licences, (3) the renewal of licences by post, (4) exemption from payment of fees in the circumstances stated in the concluding portion of paragraph 21, and (5) the payment by dealers of a single fee for import into India and transport to destination.

15. As regards the limit on possession of ammunition, the Government of India agree with the recommendation of the Committee and trust that local Governments will, if they have not already done so, issue suitable instruction on the lines recommended.

16. They accept in principle the recommendation made in paragraph 23 that the issue of all India licences should be as unrestricted as possible. They agree that Assam and Burma should no longer be excluded from the all-India licence; but they consider it necessary to make a provision that any one who has secured an all-India licence in one province shall if he enters another province be subject to such restrictions as may be imposed by that province, as for example that an all-India licence granted in one province should be endorsed by the District Magistrate of the district of another province visited by the holder of the licence. Enquiries as recommended have been made from the Punjab, Burma, the North-West Frontier Province and Delhi whether the retention of these provinces in column 1 of Schedule II is required; the North-West Frontier Province agree to exclusion, but the Government of India are unwilling at present to adopt this suggestion in the case of the Punjab (with which Delhi may be included) or Burma. On the proposal made in paragraph 23 regarding greater expedition in dealing with applications for licences it is impossible and indeed unnecessary for the Government of India to issue any general orders. They are aware that local Governments are fully alive to the necessity of prompt attention to applications for the grant and renewal of licences. They trust that no avoidable delays will occur; that if at any time the pressure of work in connection with licence applications becomes abnormal special measures will be taken to cope with it: and that if in any case unnecessary delay has occurred steps will be taken to prevent its recurrence in future.

17. The Government of India accept the recommendations made in paragraphs 25, 26, 28, 29 and 33, but are unable, in view of the strong objections placed before them by the military authorities that there is no difficulty in converting such rifles to take Government ammunition, to accept the recommendation contained in paragraph 27 As regards the recommendation in paragraph 31, the Government of India are of opinion that it is advisable to regularize the practice followed by licensed dealers of employing assistants to conduct their business in their temporary absence, and the licence form granted to dealers has accordingly been amended so as to include a column for the names of duly authorized assistants.

18. The recommendation contained in paragraph 30 does not commend itself to the Government of India. They apprehend that the carrying of firearms by females might have dangerous results, and would only expose such females to attack from lawless persons desirous of stealing weapons. In their opinion it should be possible to meet the situation which the Committee appear to have had in mind by the entry of certain specified members of the licensee's family as retainers.

19. On the recommendation made in paragraph 32 urging reciprocity with Indian States the Government of India are not in a position to make any announcement. They have taken up the matter with the various States, and negotiations are proceeding.

20. The changes in the rules necessitated by the acceptance of these recommendations have been made; and the rules are now published as the Indian Arms Rules of 1924. It has not been found possible to accept in toto the recommendations of the Committee in regard to the form in which the rules should be published. They advised a separation of the technical directions intended for dealers from the rules governing the grant of licences for possession of firearms for private purposes. An attempt was made to draft the rules on this principle, but it was wholly unsatisfactory, and was accordingly abandoned. The Indian Arms Rules of 1920 follow the order of the sections of the Act; this is obviously the logical arrangement of the rules and it is clearly convenient on administrative grounds that the sections of the Act and the rules should be in the same sequence. Moreover, the difficulties of interpretation to which the Committee have adverted are due far less to inherent obscurity or to the incorporation of technical directions, than to the fact that they are not self-contained. To be properly understood they must be read in conjunction with the Act and with the schedules and such difficulties as the ordinary member of the public feels will not be solved by the publication of a paraphrased or abbreviated edition of the rules but by the dissemination of information as to the correct procedure of applying for and securing a licence. The Government of India have accordingly prepared for such use as local Governments may consider suitable a short pamphlet in popular language, describing the procedure regulating the application for licences for the possession of firearms for purposes of sport, protection, show and the like. They trust that this pamphlet will be translated into the various vernaculars and that publicity will be given to it.

21. In conclusion the Governor General in Council wishes to express his appreciation of the labours of the Committee. The Indian Arms Rules of 1920 evoked much criticism and many defects were removed as they were pointed out. But much remained to be done when the Committee was appointed in 1922, and their businesslike and practical recommendations coupled with a sympathetic administration of the rules by the local Governments should go far towards removing any dissatisfaction which may still remain.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy be forwarded to all local Governments and Administrations and to all Departments of the Government of India in continuation of Resolution No. F.-829-I.-Police, dated 20th January 1923.

RESOLUTION ON THE ANNUAL PROGRESS REPORT ON THE FOREST ADMINISTRATION IN THE PRESIDENCY OF BENGAL FOR THE YEAR ENDING THE 31ST MARCH 1923.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT.

Forests.

CALCUTTA, THE 13TH NOVEMBER 1923.

RESOLUTION—No. 10212For.

READ—

The Annual Progress Report on the Forest Administration in the Presidency of Bengal for the year ending the 31st March 1923.

READ ALSO—

The report of the previous year and the Government Resolution thereon.

Mr. R. C. Milward held charge of the department practically throughout the year. He went on leave on the 27th March 1923, making over charge to Mr. Shebbeare.

2. Changes in area.—The total area under forest during the year under review was 10,709 square miles, being 13 square miles more than what it was during the preceding year, and representing 13·6 per cent. of the total area of the province. There was an increase of 17 square miles under reserved forests and a decrease of 4 square miles under protected forests.

3. Working plans.—Satisfactory progress was made in the preparation of working plans. No new working plan was sanctioned during the year, but it appears that the working plans for the Chittagong, Chittagong Hill Tracts and Cox's Bazar Divisions have been completed and considerable progress has been made in the working plan of the Kalimpong Division.

Satisfactory explanations have been received of deviations from the working plans.

4. Communications and buildings.—Owing to financial stringency practically no new works could be taken up. The cost of what little was done by way of providing cart roads, bridle and other paths amounted to Rs. 6,002 against Rs. 29,374 spent during the preceding year. Old roads and paths to the extent of 1,260 miles were repaired at a cost of Rs. 27,918 against Rs. 42,819 spent on the repair of 1,262 miles in the previous year. The total expenditure on communications during the year under review was thus Rs. 38,273 less than in the year 1921-22. The Governor in Council agrees with the Conservator that "better roads mean easier and therefore increased export and more revenue". and hopes that when the financial situation improves it will be possible to sanction more adequate funds for the purpose.

Rupees 29,857 was spent on the repair of existing buildings and Rs. 29,589 on the construction of new buildings, the most important of which were the Imperial officer's quarters at Rajabhatkhawa and the Divisional Officer's bungalow at Cox's Bazar, where the old building as noticed in last year's report had been set on fire by the non-co-operators.

5. Protection.—The number of forest offences reported during the year was 3,326 as against 2,811, the average of the preceding three years, while the number actually taken into Court was 142. The number of reported cases of injury by fire was 132 of which 47 were detected, including 38 cases of the Chittagong Hill Tracts Division. The principal fires took place in the Buxa Division covering an area of 6,233 acres. The largest increase in the number of cases was under the head of "unauthorised felling", and most of the cases were reported from the Chittagong Hill Tracts, where the offenders cut bamboos without permission. The compensation realised from offenders who were allowed to compound amounted to Rs. 22,690.

Out of the total forest area 4,693 square miles were open to grazing. The estimated value of grass and grazing allowed free of royalty is Rs. 21,943 as against Rs. 19,544 in the preceding year. The question of buffalo grazing in the Cox's Bazar Division is receiving the special attention of the Forest Department and the local officers.

Among natural enemies severe frost in January and February 1923 caused damage to plants in the Darjeeling Division. The fencing of plantations with combined barbed wire and wove-wire afforded considerable protection against damage by rhinoceros and pig.

6. Silviculture.—Chapter III of the report contains an interesting account of the various kinds of tree-seeds that have been grown in the Bengal forests. It appears that of the 35 varieties experimented upon satisfactory results have been obtained in the case of 29. Though natural regeneration ordinarily seems to produce little result in Bengal except in the Sunderbans, natural regeneration of sal has been very successful in the Khariarbandar forest, in Jalpaiguri, and greater attention is being paid to the natural regeneration of garjan in the Chittagong Division.

7. Exploitation.—The proceeds from the sale of timber, fuel, bamboos grass and other minor produce amounted to Rs. 15·88 lakhs against Rs. 14·84 lakhs in the preceding year. The value of produce extracted departmentally amounted to Rs. 4·87 lakhs as against Rs. 3·30 lakhs in the preceding year. A feature of the year was the success attendant on the modern mechanical means for exploitation and conversion adopted at Sukna under the supervision of the Forest Engineer. Similar schemes elsewhere, which are all of a remunerative nature, are now under contemplation. The total outturn of timber of different kinds in all the forests amounted to 9·40 millions of cubic feet as against 7·75 millions of cubic feet in the preceding year. The increased outturn was due to a revival of the timber trade.

The Buxa Timber and Trading Company and Messrs Andrew Yule and Company are the two important firms that have been granted licenses to carry on exploitation in the Bengal forests, the former in timber in the Buxa Forest Division and the latter in bamboos in the Chittagong forests for the preparation of paper pulp. The Buxa Timber and Trading Company, whose royalty-free period ended in June 1921, have since the close of the year under review gone into liquidation, but Government revenue has been safeguarded.

Among minor operations the most important were the departmental kheddas conducted jointly with Bhutan, which resulted in the catch of 25 elephants of which two died, two remained unsold and the remaining 21 were sold at a net profit of Rs. 27,738. The Burma Oil Company continued to prospect for mineral oil in the Cox's Bazar Division. A match expert made an extensive tour in all the forest divisions in order to ascertain the species of wood suitable for match manufacture and the quantities available and accessible.

8. Financial results.—The financial results of the year under review were distinctly satisfactory. The total forest revenue amounted to Rs. 23·11 lakhs as against Rs. 18·98 lakhs in the preceding year; the average of the previous quinquennium being Rs. 17·80 lakhs. The profit of the department amounted to Rs. 10·79 lakhs as against Rs. 6·10 lakhs in the preceding year; the average of the preceding quinquennium being Rs. 8·81 lakhs. The creditable feature of the administration during the year under review is, therefore, that while the expenditure was Rs. 57,000 less than in the preceding year, the revenue increased by over Rs. 4·12 lakhs. For this increase the Sundarbans is responsible for Rs. 1½ lakhs, which was obtained by the sale of sundri and golpata, and the Kurseong and Jalpaiguri Divisions for Rs. 1½ lakhs realised from the railways for sleepers.

9. The thanks of the Governor in Council are due to Mr. R. C. Milward for his successful administration of the department. His Excellency in Council notices with pleasure the record of good work done by the other officers of the department referred to in the report.

ORDER.—Ordered that this resolution be published in the Calcutta Gazette and that a copy with a copy of the report be submitted to the Government of India.

By order of the Governor in Council,

M. C. McALPIN,

Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

RESOLUTION ON THE REPORT ON THE ADMINISTRATION OF THE WARDS', ATTACHED AND TRUST ESTATES IN THE PRESIDENCY OF BENGAL FOR 1329 B.S. (1922-23).

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT.

CALCUTTA, THE 19TH NOVEMBER 1923.

RESOLUTION—No. 10516L.R.

READ—

The Report of the Board of Revenue on the administration of wards', attached and trust estates in the Presidency of Bengal for the year 1329 B.S. (1922-23).

1. Number of estates under management.—The number of estates under the management of the Court of Wards at the beginning of the year under report was 66. Five new estates were taken charge of during the year and two estates released, leaving 69 estates under its charge at the close of the year. It is gratifying to notice that the Courts' management of the estates which have been released was satisfactory, inasmuch as their debts were substantially reduced, their income enhanced and the wards received proper education during its management.

2. Collection of rent and cesses.—The total demand of rent and cesses during the year was Rs. 1,07,42,342 of which Rs. 48,17,187 or 44·8 per cent. was collected against 38·9 per cent. in the preceding year. The percentage of collection on current demand also rose from 97·6 to 110·5; only a small proportion of the estates was responsible for bad collections.

The outstanding balance due to all the estates at the close of the year aggregated over Rs. 52,00,000 representing 117·8 per cent. on the current demand against 135·9 per cent. of the preceding year.

3. Debts of estates.—The total debts of estates under management amounted to Rs. 34,34,230 at the close of the year against Rs. 33,51,376 during the preceding year. The principal was reduced by Rs. 4,29,466 and and the interest paid amounted to Rs. 2,38,072.

4. Cost of management and audit of expenditure.—There was a slight fall in the cost of management from 15·2 per cent. of the current rent and cess demand in the preceding year to 14·9 per cent.

5. Civil suit and certificate procedure.—The total number of certificates for disposal was 35,086 covering an aggregate demand of Rs. 9,08,807, of which a sum of Rs. 5,35,188 covered by 22,832 certificates was realised representing 59·2 per cent. of the total claim against 50·7 per cent. realised in the previous year.

Of 4,497 suits for disposal, 4,053 cases were disposed of covering a demand of Rs. 1,64,996, leaving a balance of Rs. 2,80,925 outstanding at the end of the year.

6. Expenditure on improvements and education.—The total sum spent during the year on schools, dispensaries and works of improvement was Rs. 2,72,345, which is about 6·2 per cent. of the current rent and cess demand. Under the rules 1 per cent. of the demand has to be spent on education and 3 per cent. on sanitary and agricultural improvements. The obligations of the estates in this respect have therefore been more than fulfilled.

7. The thanks of the Governor in Council are due to the Board of Revenue for the efficient administration of the estates under the management of the Court of Wards. He also notices with pleasure the good work done by the Managers mentioned in the report.

By order of the Governor in Council,

M. C. McALPIN,

Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

The World with fuller treatment of India (Longman's Geographical Series for India, Book II).

F. D. Unstead ... The Practical Geography, Parts I and II.
B. C. Wallis ... Macmillan's Geograpical Exercise Book (India).

The following books are recommended for the use of teachers :—

Blandford ... The Rudiments of Physical Geography for the use of Indian Schools.

Frew ... A Regional Geography of the Indian Empire, Blackie and Son.

Wallis ... The Teaching of Geography (Cambridge University Press).

O'Malley ... Bengal, Bihar and Orissa, Sikkim (Macmillan and Co.).

The following book is recommended for the use of teachers in connection with the teaching of "Sand Modelling" in the lower classes of Schools :—

A. E. Frye ... The Child and Nature.

Every school that intends to undertake instruction in Geography for the Matricula tion Examination is required to possess the apparatus mentioned in the following list :—

I. (The total cost need not exceed Rs. 65.)

(1) A measuring tape and metre scale and foot ruler.
(2) A Magnetic Compass.
(3) Squared paper and tracing paper.
(4) Clay, dry sand, paper pulp for modelling.
(5) A globe not less than 14 inches in diameter, with writing surface, and with line of latitude and longitude, and outlines only of the land masses marked upon it.
(6) A map of the school locality on a scale of 4" or 6"-1 mile.
(7) A map of the district in which the school is situated on the scale 1"-1 mile.
(8) A coloured map of the province.
(9) A coloured political map of India.
(10) A physical map of India.
(11) A relief map of India.
(12) A map of the world on Mollweide's equal area projection and a map of Asia.

It is essential that the students should be provided with atlases, or with the necessary hand maps, and with a drawing instrument box. Maps for school work should not contain too much detail or be crowded with names.

II. The following additional equipment is recommended when it can be provided, but the lack of it is not to be considered as a bar to the recognition of the school in Geography.

(1) A thermometer.
(2) A mercury barometer.
(3) A rain-gauge.
(4) A small collection of typical rocks, in particular, those of the province and India.
(5) A small museum of typical products.
(6) A good standard atlas.
(7) Geographical pictures.
(8) Magic-lantern and slides.

(1) The attention of teachers is requested to the raised maps of Bengal and Eastern Bengal and Assam made of paper pulp, prepared by Babu Kailaschandra Datta, Head Pandit, Habigunj Government Girls' School, Sylhet, and sold for Rs. 7 and Rs. 5, respectively.

(2) Globes of all kinds are made by George Phillip and Son, London, W., and A. K. Johnston, London, and Messrs. Ruddiman, London. Small hand globes of German make can be obtained through the Indian School Supply Depôt for about a rupee each.

(3) The "Comparative" series of large wall maps of the continents published by George Phillip and Son is good and up to date; so also are the Geographical wall maps published by Edward Stanford. Messrs. Ruddiman Johnston publish a series of smaller wall maps which include maps of India illustrating various distributions.

Messrs. Nelson's wall atlases are good. Mr. S. B. Chatterjee publishes District Maps; also ordinary and relief maps of the province.

Babu L. M. Basu, the drawing master of the Dacca Collegiate School, has published good relief maps of Eastern Bengal and Assam and of India.

The Vidal-Lablche French wall maps on strong card-board, named on one side, and the same map without names on the reverse, published by Armond Collin, Paris, are good and cheap. They measure 46 inches by 39 inches and can be delivered in Calcutta for Rs. 4-14 each.

(4) The hand-maps, coloured to indicate relief, published by the Diagram Company, West Barnes Lane, New Malden, Surrey, at one penny each, are the best of their kind.

The uncoloured half penny maps, showing river systems and a few towns, published by the same Company, are excellent for class use.

The autograph hand maps, with hill shading in brown, published by Messrs. Edward Stanford, London, at one penny each, are very good, and are larger than the Diagram Company's hand maps. The 15· inch map of the world on Mollweide's equal area projection is especially to be commended.

(5) Wall pictures of considerable artistic merit are published by Messrs. Edward Arnold of Leeds; Horns Hachette of Paris and Messrs. Holzel of Vienna, and Messrs. Longmans, Green and Company. They cost, delivered in India, from two or three rupees each.

Map lantern slides and view slides especially prepared for Geography teaching are sold by the Diagram Company for two or three shillings each. Mr. Bartington Smith of Darjeeling also sells good picture slides of the Himalayas at Rs. 15 per dozen.

Wall Crane.
Becker's New Physical Balance.

NOTE.—The above list is not exhaustive, and much of it might be replaced by similar forms that could probably be made far more cheaply by any clever mistry under proper supervision. In most cases, however, it will probably be found advantageous to buy such a set as indicated in the list, specially for demonstration purposes, and subsequently to develop simplified duplicates illustrating the same principles, which the boys should be given opportunity actually to experiment with on their own individual account or working in pairs.

Provided that no such person shall be kept in military custody after he has ceased to belong to the Auxiliary Force, India, unless he has been taken into or kept in military custody on account of the offence before the date on which he ceased so to belong, nor shall he be kept in military custody or be tried or punished for the offence after the expiry of two months from that date, unless his trial had already commenced before such expiry."

RESOLUTION ON THE REPORT ON THE PROGRESS OF EDUCATION IN BENGAL, 1917-18 TO 1921-22.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL.

EDUCATION DEPARTMENT.

Education.

CALCUTTA, THE 20TH NOVEMBER 1923.

RESOLUTION—No 3346Edn.

READ—

The Report on the Progress of Education in Bengal for the years 1917-18 to 1921-22.

The report was written by Mr. J. W. Holme, Professor, Presidency College, with the help of Mr. W C. Wordsworth, officiating Director of Public Instruction, Bengal, 1921-22.

2. General Remarks.—Consequent on the passing of the Government of India Act and the adoption of the principle of dyarchy, the Education Department is now a transferred department administered by the Governor acting on the advice of the Minister who is an elected member of the Legislature and responsible to that body. European education and education in the district of Darjeeling and in the Chittagong Hill Tracts have been reserved for the Executive Council, but speaking generally the net effect of the change is that it is now left to the Legislative Council by resolutions and budget votes, as well as by other methods, to determine the best method of adapting the educational system to the needs and circumstances of the Province. Mr. P. C. Mitter, C.I.E., was appointed to be the first Minister for Education and assumed charge of his office on the 3rd January 1921.

3. The impetus to educational activities which, it was hoped, would follow the transfer of such an important subject as education to popular control was checked by the non-co-operation movement. The Reformed Government started on its career with a deficit of over Rs. 2 crores between its estimated recurring income and the expenditure for which it was considered necessary to provide in the budget, while its actual income declined from Rs. 11,11,74,000 in 1920-21 to Rs. 9,87,82,000 in 1921-22, a decrease of Rs. 1,23,92,000. Their financial difficulties made it difficult for the new Bengal Government to deal effectively with the non-co-operators' strenuous endeavours to subvert the student community. The movement made little impression either on middle and primary schools for boys or on girls' schools; the students of the Bengal Engineering College and the post-graduate and law classes did not swerve to any appreciable extent from the ordinary tenor of student life, but the baneful effect of non-co-operation propaganda was markedly visible in the case of arts colleges and high schools. The arts colleges in Calcutta, the Government colleges at Hooghly, Krishnagar and Chittagong, and the private colleges at Bankura, Berhampore and Rangpur had to be closed for a time in the interest of the students themselves. On a rough computation, 42 per cent. of the students in the first and third year classes left their colleges. Of these about 14 per cent. rejoined later, so that some 28 per cent. of the students left altogether. In the case of high schools there was a drop in the number of pupils by 22·9 per cent., but here too it is probable that many returned to their studies as the number of candidates at the Matriculation Examination of 1922 was much the same as in 1921. The Government arts colleges and high schools suffered less than privately managed institutions, and the steadying influence of the Government high schools saved the whole educational structure from collapse. One important effect of the movement was to intensify the feeling which had been in existence for some time, that the present system of education fails to meet modern requirements.

4. University Education.—The report of the Calcutta University Commission justified this feeling. The recommendations of the Commission are too well known to need recapitulation; they suggested a complete reorganisation of the whole provincial system of higher and secondary education. The Commissioners recognised that a system of higher and secondary education adequate to the demands of the present and the future demands, which are at once political, social and economic, was an indispensable condition of Bengal's continued welfare, and they attempted to reconstruct accordingly. Unfortunately the proposed reconstruction demands expenditure which is beyond the resources of this Government. But some reform of the Calcutta University is so urgently needed that a bill designed to modify the present organisation is now under discussion.

Dacca has been more fortunate than Calcutta. There it has been found possible, largely with the help of the grants originally made by the Imperial Government, to adopt the main lines of the scheme formulated by the Commission. A short account of its organisation has been given in Mr. Holmes' admirable report, from which it will be seen that its main feature is that it is a unitary, teaching and residential University exercising jurisdiction within an educational enclave. It provides for graduate and post-graduate courses and only admits students who have passed the Intermediate Examination of any of the existing Universities or tests recognised as equivalent thereto. The University since its creation has been subjected to severe criticism; but it is doing good work and has a future.

5. Collegiate Education.—Arts colleges have increased by three, but the number of students in them has declined by 8·3 per cent. Government colleges have suffered the most (15·3) and aided colleges the least (3·3), while unaided colleges hold an intermediate position between the two (9·1). This decrease is due in a large measure to the feeling to which reference has been made above, viz., that the existing system of education is not in close touch with the life, thought and feeling of the country and that it is an inadequate and even unsuitable preparation for the demands of modern life. Literary courses have hitherto been popular, because they led to Government employment and were a preliminary to the legal profession. But Government appointments are limited and the legal profession is overcrowded. The complaint is not a new one. "It has been felt in all provinces," wrote the Education Commission of 1882, and urged by many witnesses, "that the attention of students is too exclusively directed to university studios, and that no opportunity is offered for the development of what corresponds to the "modern side" of schools in Europe. It is believed that there is a real need in India for some corresponding course which shall fit boys for industrial or commercial pursuits, at the age when they commonly matriculate, more directly than is effected by the present system." The Calcutta University Commission referred to the growing number of younger minds in India which were feeling the need of industrial enterprise, and the Commissioners dared to look forward to the day when the sons of middle and professional classes in Bengal would gain "new vigour and initiative from better teaching and more inspiring influences in school and college" and would find freshly opened fields of employment. The Government of Bengal, in the Ministry of Education, realise the situation, but it is never easy to readjust suddenly an educational system which has grown up through a course of years and to which the public has become accustomed, and the absence of adequate funds makes this task all the more difficult. The Ministry of Education have done what they could. By their Resolution No. 1331Edn., dated 6th July 1922, they appointed a Committee to draw up a co-ordinated scheme of vocational education, and their report is under consideration. In the meanwhile, as science must be the basis of many kinds of vocational training, they have made grants, capital and recurring, to some non-Government colleges for the introduction or improvement of the teaching of science.

6. Secondary Education—As compared with the figures for 1916-17, the number of high schools increased in 1921-22 from 698 to 878, or by 180, while the number of middle English and middle vernacular schools fell from 1,602 and 349 to 1,468 and 217, or by 134 and 132, respectively The number of pupils decreased from 218,070 to 190,630 in high schools, from 160,359 to 108,582 in middle English schools, and from 21,253 to 10,632 in middle vernacular schools. The weaker privately managed secondary schools suffered most owing to the withdrawal of students, and in many cases Government had to give grants to preserve the better schools from extinction. The large decrease of 89,838 studends, viz., 27,440 in high schools, 51,777 in middle English schools and 10,621 in middle vernacular schools is attributed partly to the influence of the non-co-operation movement, which was most in evidence in 1920-21, partly to a growing distrust of the value of the article supplied and partly to economic distress. During the last ten years the average cost of educating a boy has increased from Rs. 22·6 to Rs. 34·6 in high schools, from Rs 10 to Rs. 18·1 in middle English schools, and from Rs. 7·8 to Rs. 14·2 in middle vernacular schools. The poorer parent is often unable to bear the additional burden of expenditure and is constrained to withdraw his boy from school; he may recognize the advantage of a good general education, but he has found that there is no market value for the knowledge which his son has acquired at what is to him a heavy cost.

Purely vernacular education is not popular and middle vernacular schools are gradually disappearing. Middle English schools, on the other hand, are often raised to the high school status or converted into junior madrasahs. The study of English is so popular that it has been found necessary to allow the teaching of English as an optional subject in primary schools. Against this must be set the fact that high schools are fast losing their old popularity, and the gathering volume of responsible opinion is in favour of making the vernaculars the medium of instruction, English being taught as a second language. Another general demand is that vocational or technical courses shall be combined with the courses which are now taught in schools; but in spite of this demand the "B" or technical classes which are still maintained in some half-a-dozen schools make little, if any, headway.

Another important question which demands serious consideration arises from the recommendation of the Calcutta University Commission that secondary and intermediate education should be removed from the control of Calcutta University and organised under the control of a Board to be specially constituted for this purpose. A Bill has been framed to give effect to these proposals and is now under discussion. During the quinquennium under review a temporary Board of Secondary and Intermediate Education was formed at Dacca.

7. Primary Education.—Very little progress has been made during the quinquennium in developing primary education. It is true that the number of schools has risen by 3027 and the number of pupils by 4,811, but the proportion of boys to the total male population of school-going age has declined from 17·3 to 17. The problem is one of exceptional difficulty. There can be no doubt that, as pointed out by Mr. Holme in his report, "there is a strong foundation of public opinion, expressible in rupees, annas and pies, upon which the fabric of a reformed primary education may be built", but the efforts made are spasmodic, unsystematic and haphazard and results are venture schools which are dependent for their ephemeral existence on the income which the village pandit can eke out of them. What is needed is a well-considered scheme, based on a fixed policy, which will be acceptable to the people at large. The Panchayati union scheme was a step in the right direction, and it accomplished something, but the Director of Public Instruction in his Quinquennial Review of 1912-1917, himself admitted that, in spite of the undoubted merits of the scheme, it had not contributed to the expansion of primary education. Something more comprehensive is needed. Two surveys were made during the last five years and two programmes were prepared. Of these the one drawn up by Mr. Biss attracted considerable public attention. The central idea underlying his proposals is the formation of a network of schools so placed as to be within the reach of every household. To this end the populated portion of a given locality is to be divided into fixed school areas and served by central schools designed to accommodate the great majority of the boys of school-going age in the neighbourhood. He worked out for municipal areas detailed schemes showing the capital and recurring cost of making complete provision for all boys of primary school age who would be likely to attend free primary schools voluntarily, if and when such schools were opened; while, as regards rural areas, he drew up 204 union board schemes, including a complete system of schools for every union in the Hooghly district. Government made an offer to every local body of a grant to start new schools on a 50 per cent. basis. The response was disappointing, and the all-important question of the incidence of the cost,—whether it should fall wholly on Provincial Revenues or wholly on local funds, or partly on Provincial Revenues and partly on local funds—has not yet been settled. Meanwhile the local authorities on whom rests primarily the responsibility of providing primary schools are holding back, and there is a general feeling of hopelessness. And yet the expansion of primary education is one of the pressing political and social needs of the moment. On it depends the success of responsible Government and all that such success implies in the way of national progress. The question is therefore one for which a solution must be found. In the meanwhile, the ideas of Mr. Biss are being put to practical test by experiments in certain areas which were rendered possible by the Government offer cited above. These experiments are on the basis of half the cost being met by Government and the other half by the local bodies concerned. Thirty-six schools have been started in this way by various union boards and municipalities in different parts of the Presidency.

8. Pay and prospects of teachers.—One of the greatest defects of the existing educational system is that there is little incentive for men of the right sort to enter the teaching profession. The remuneration offered is so inadequate and the prospects are so limited that well-qualified men of vigour adopt that calling with reluctance. The matter has long been under consideration and steps have been taken during the quinquennium to place the pay and the prospects of the Government educational officers on a satisfactory basis.

The Indian and Provincial (now called Bengal) Educational Services were reorganized on the basis of time-scale pay with effect from the 1st December 1919, and separate cadres were formed for men and women.

Under the reorganization scheme the pay of the ordinary grade men's branch of the Indian Educational Service varies from Rs. 400 to Rs. 1,250 a month ; there are, besides, lower and higher selection grades, comprising 15 and 5 per cent. of the posts in the cadre, carrying salaries of Rs 1,250—50—1,500 and Rs. 1,550—100—1,750, respectively. An overseas allowance of Rs 150 rising to Rs. 250 per mensem according to length of service is also provided. Fifteen posts were transferred with their incumbents from the Bengal Educational Service to the men's branch of the Indian Educational Service during the year 1920-21. On the 31st March 1922 the men's branch of the Indian Educational Service consisted of 67 posts, including the post of Principal of the Government School of Art, Calcutta, which was then under the control of the Department of Industries.

The pay of the women's branch of the Indian Educational Service varies from Rs. 400 to Rs. 850 per mensem : there is a selection grade carrying a salary of Rs. 900 rising to Rs. 1,050 per mensem : a fixed overseas allowance of Rs. 50 per mensem is provided for members of non-Indian domicile. On the 31st March 1922 there were four posts in the women's branch of the Indian Educational Service.

The pay in the men's branch of the Bengal Educational Service rises from Rs. 250 to Rs. 800 per mensem, while in the women's branch of this service the scale of salary is Rs. 200—25—2—500 per mensem. On the 31st March 1922, there were 211 posts, including five temporary posts in the men's branch and 20 posts in the women's branch.

The teaching and inspecting branches of the educational services below the Bengal Educational Service were reorganised with effect from the 1st September 1921, when time-scales of pay were introduced. Fourteen posts of District Inspectors of Schools and 21 posts of Lecturers and Demonstrators in colleges were raised to the Bengal Educational Service and 79 Lecturers and Demonstrators were placed on Rs. 150—10—300 (efficiency bar)—10—400, with a selection grade of three appointments on Rs. 450. Differing scales of pay have been prescribed for other classes of officers, the lowest rate being Rs. 50 and the highest Rs. 250.

The reorganization was on a generous scale and service conditions have been brought into reasonable line with those of other branches of the public services. It is to be hoped that the Education Department will now attract the best talent of the country. This, however, only touches the fringe of the Problem. The question of improving the lot of the vast number of teachers in non-Government institutions still remains to be solved. These teachers are badly and often irregularly paid; they are constrained to supplement their scanty income by private tuition; it is not surprising that in some cases they take little interest in their work or in their pupils; there is no security of tenure and they are apt to leave their schools at the first available opportunity. Education and discipline suffer under such conditions, and the development of the finer traits of character or the attainment of a high degree of intellectual vigour or moral excellence can hardly be expected. One condition for the recognition of high schools by the University recently adopted is that outside Calcutta no headmaster should be given less salary than Rs. 65 a month and no teacher less than Rs. 20 a month. This is a move in the right direction, but it is necessary to do more and to prescribe minimum salaries for teachers of different qualifications, under-graduates, graduates, pandits or maulvies, honours graduates, holders of the M.A., the M.Sc, or B.T. degrees. The salaries should preferably be progressive and there should be provision for a provident fund. It is imperative that every teacher should have a living wage and fair prospects, and the question of improving the pay and status of the teachers and instituting a provident fund is under consideration.

It is partly this condition of affairs and partly the lack of training facilities that are responsible for another defect in the educational system, viz., that properly trained teachers are sadly to seek. It is now recognised all over the world that the art of teaching has to be learnt, like all other arts, and yet out of a total of 20,404 teachers in Bengal only 3,952 are trained. Government recognize that, to deal with the situation, more training institutions are needed, but financial considerations have hitherto obstructed progress.

Secondary education is not only the foundation of higher education; it is also the basis of all technical, industrial and commercial training, and it provides or should provide those who are going to teach in primary schools. The majority of the high schools in Bengal are unaided and their resources are entirely inadequate to their needs. They exist from hand to mouth, and, when any special difficulties such as those caused by the non-co-operation movement, have to be faced, it is the already miserably paid teachers whose pittances are still further reduced. The situation constitutes a problem of far-reaching political and social import. The Ministry of Education are trying to set on foot a scheme of additional grants to be devoted to teachers' pay, and to inaugurate a Provident Fund scheme. The difficulties in the way of securing adequate funds are great; and the whole-hearted co-operation of school authorities with the Ministry is essential, if any real improvement is to be effected.

9. Professional and technical education.—The law departments attached to various arts colleges as also the pleadership classes have ceased to exist, and the only institutions for the study of law at present are the University Law College, the Law Department of the Ripon College, and the Law Department of Dacca University. Even though the profession of law is overcrowded, its study still attracts a large number of students and on the 31st March 1922 the total number of law students was 2,439 against a total number of 2,912 students on the corresponding date of 1917. It has been stated in one of the earlier paragraphs that there is now a feeling of general revulsion against a purely literary type of education. The strength of this feeling may be gauged from the statistics of medical and technical institutions.

In the Medical Colleges the number of students has almost doubled during the last five years.

The Civil Engineering College, Sibpur, now called the Bengal Engineering College, had 356 students on the rolls on the 31st March 1922 against 284 on the 31st March 1917. The number of Civil Engineering students increased by 21 and that of mechanical, electrical and mining class students by 54, while the number in the industrial classes fell off by 3. In 1921-22 24 candidates appeared for the B. E. Examination and 12 passed, while 61 appeared for the I. E. Examination and 51 passed. During the quinquennium 106 students appeared at the B. E Examination and 66 passed, while 174 students sat for the I. E. Examination and 142 of these passed. The Board of Control for Apprentice Training took in hand the revision of the mechanical and electrical classes and also made arrangements regarding the apprentice examination, to assist workshop authorities in the selection of apprentices for training. The Ministry of Education contemplate the opening of a higher mechanical class as soon as their resources permit.

The enrolment in the Ahsanullah School of Engineering, which now teaches the upper and subordinate courses of the Joint Technical Examination Board, corresponding to the overseer and sub-overseer courses, has risen from 118 on the 31st March 1917 to 297 (excluding 78 pupils of the Artisan Department) on the 31st March 1922, the increase being due partly to the rush of pupils seeking admission to the upper subordinate department, as that department in the Bengal Engineering College has been closed. Indeed, the school has become so popular that steps have been taken to duplicate all the classes from the beginning of this session.

The Calcutta School of Art, the Government Commercial Institute, Calcutta, and the Serampore Weaving Institute, the control of which was transferred from the Education to the Industries Department during the period under review, have attracted no less attention. In the Government Commercial Institute the number of students in day classes has increased from 64 in 1917-18 to 254 in 1921-22 and the number in evening classes from 203 to 545. To cope with the increased work, additional teachers have been appointed in the subjects of English, commercial geography, book-keeping and typewriting. The need for more accommodation necessitated the removal of the Institute to new and more commodious quarters. Evening classes in accountancy and auditing have annually attracted a large number of students who want to prepare for the recognized diploma in accountancy. which is still the diploma awarded by the Government of Bombay.

In the Government Weaving Institute at Serampore the progress has been equally satisfactory. In 1917 there were 78 students on its rolls. In 1922 there were 187. Dyeing, bleaching and printing have been added to the curriculum of the higher classes and the course of instruction has been extended from two to three years. Short-term courses of practical instruction in weaving were arranged at six centres.

10. The education of Indian women and girls.—The purdah, the custom of early marriage and the general apathy of the people continue to hamper rapid expansion, but there are signs to show that these obstacles are giving way before the growing enlightenment of public opinion. This is exemplified by the fact that the number of schools have increased during the last five years by 28·9 per cent. and the number of pupils by 16·9 per cent. A satisfactory feature of this improvement is that this increase has taken place among both Hindus and Muhammadans. The standard of education, however, is still very low, for out of every hundred girls under instruction no less than 98·94 are in the primary stage. A great deal, therefore, remains to be done before it can be said that there has been any real advance in the education of girls. Departmental action alone will not suffice. The public must decide what they really want and be prepared to make some sacrifice to get it. The policy of Government is to improve and expand their own institutions, but at the same time to encourage and, where possible. to supplement the efforts of other agencies. While therefore they have, in order to provide greater facilities for collegiate training in their own institutions, raised the Eden Female School at Dacca to the status of a second grade college and arranged the extension of affiliation of the Bethune College in several subjects, they have enhanced the grants-in-aid to the Diocesan College, Calcutta. Similarly, in the case of high English schools, larger grants-in-aid have been made to the United Missionary Girls' High School, the Brahmo Balika Bidyalya, the Victoria School and the Gokhale Memorial School, so that these institutions, all of which are in Calcutta, may be placed on a more efficient basis. And as, owing to the social usages of the country referred to above, the great majority of girls must leave school while they are still quite young, it was contemplated that a survey should be made of all the middle schools for girls in the Bengal Presidency, with a view to organizing them in such a way as to provide a self-contained course of elementary education, including such subjects as hygiene, nursing, needlework, cookery and domestic science, either as compulsory or optional subjects, and that a committee, on which women should be well represented, should be appointed to consider the question of curriculum. Financial considerations, however, stood in the way and the matter has had to be postponed for the present. Side by side with these steps, attempts have been made to enlist, by liberal grants, the active sympathy of every private organization working in the field of female education, but so far the Nari Siksha Samiti is the only body that has come forward to co-operate with Government. An annual grant of Rs. 6,500 has been made to this Samiti.

With the advance of girls' education, the need for trained teachers is acutely felt. The Diocesan College and Loreto House, Calcutta, prepare candidates for the B. T. and L. T. Examinations; for the training of teachers of a lower grade there are four institutions managed by Government and eight aided by the Education Department. These arrangements are neither adequate nor satisfactory, and the question of providing a well-equipped training college for women is under consideration.

The education of zanana women by governesses who teach them at their houses has not been a very successful experiment, and requires reorganization; but the scheme of teaching needle work through the agency of peripatetic mistresses has worked well, and it is reported that in the towns proficiency in needle-work has much improved, and that increasing numbers of girls compete in the needle work diploma examination which was instituted at the instance of Lady Carmichael.

11. The education of Europeans and Anglo-Indians. Institutions and pupils.—At the close of the quinquennium under review the number of institutions were 87. This figure includes 3 technical institutions, 20 special classes, one training class for teachers, and one for defective children. The institutions increased during the quinquennium by 8 and the pupils by 1,068—from 9,634 to 10,702. The enrolment comprises 1,570 non-Europeans, the number of such pupils having more than doubled itself during the period under review. It is noticeable that of the non-European pupils in European schools 83 only are returned as Indian Christians, while 108 are returned as Muhammadans. The local distribution of schools and pupils continues much the same. Calcutta and Howrah still lead with 6,722 pupils, Darjeeling, Kurseong and Kalimpong come next with 2,067 pupils; then Asansol with 396. The Roman Catholics manage 42 schools and educate 5,726 pupils or 53·50 of the total enrolment. Next come various forms of management which are classed as undenominational (railway companies and the Young Women's Christian Association). They have 20 institutions and deal with 1,987 boys and girls, or 18·57 of the total. The Church of England comes third with 15 schools and 1,776 pupils, viz., 16·60 of the enrolment. The Church of Rome has increased her lead during the quinquennium.

Types and grades of education.—The number of European and Anglo-Indian students in professional colleges and schools actually declined during the quinquennium from 119 to 109. This is greatly to be deplored. The number of such students in University arts college increased slightly, viz., from 25 to 33. The number of women students remained stationary, but the number of men increased from 8 to 21. The returns show that during 1921, 178 boys and girls passed the Departmental Examination for Primary Schools, while 204 passed various Cambridge University School examinations. Only two boys and one girl secured the Cambridge Higher School Certificate in that year. Few European school pupils go beyond the Cambridge Senior Local Examination stage and many close their education at the Junior Certificate stage. There is some-thing wrong somewhere.

Finance.—The total cost of the education of Europeans and Anglo-Indians for the year 1921-22 is returned as Rs. 36,11,840—an increase of over Rs. 8½ lakhs in the quinquennium and of over Rs. 17½ lakhs on the preceding decade. The schools spent in 1922 about Rs. 1,16,000 more on buildings and equipment than they spent in 1917; but they spent in 1922 on boarding charges no less than Rs. 3,93,000 more than they spent on these charges in 1917. The incidence of the increased cost during the quinquennium may be assigned as follows:—Rs. 4,76,000 to fees; Rs. 3,22,000 to Provincial Revenues; Rs. 1,15,000 to subscriptions and donations. The receipts from municipal funds show a falling-off of about Rs. 5,000 and the receipts from endowments a decrease of about Rs. 47,000. When the Reformed Government was started, fears were expressed that the education of the domiciled community would be neglected by Government. The Bengal Legislative Council has, up to the present at any rate, belied these fears. The total cost to Government of the Kurseong Institutions was in 1921-22 Rs. 2,08,511 as against Rs. 1,47,556 in 1916-17.

Teachers.—The position as regards the qualifications of teachers in European schools in Bengal is slowly improving, though it cannot yet be described as satisfactory. Out of 657 teachers employed in 1921-22, 312 or 47·5 per cent. were trained as against 211 out of 546 or 38·6 per cent. in 1916-17. But there are still 160 teachers who hold no certificates at all.

The Government Institutions at Kurseong.—The staffs have been reorganised and the buildings increased and improved. Governing bodies have also been appointed: the training class for teachers which is attached to the Dow Hill School is now working under more satisfactory conditions. Owing to the munificent generosity of Sir Percy Newson it has been possible to start the construction of a new dormitory at Dow Hill. This new dormitory will not only raise the whole standard of accommodation, but it will also enable the school, for which there is a great demand, to increase the number of its pupils. In connection with the Dow Hill training class it has been suggested by the Principal that a certain number of Indian girls should be admitted, provision for them being made in a cottage specially constructed and arranged for them. This suggestion which is now being considered is an interesting recognition of the demand among certain classes of Indians for the general training which schools for Europeans seek to provide.

The Bengal Retrenchment Committee in commenting on these Kurseong Schools and their cost to Government suggested that, while there was a good case for the education of European children in hill schools of this kind, the case for Anglo-Indian children was not equally good. The Government of Bengal have rejected this suggestion.

General remarks.—The present is, as Mr. Holme suggests, a time of stress for the domiciled community. The general trade conditions of the world have hit the community hard. There is unemployment and poverty and these evils re-act at once on the children who are taken away from school sooner than they should be. The feature of the present situation indeed seems to be that full advantage is not being taken of the educational facilities which are available. Then again the schools are hard hit financially. Many require new buildings, but how is the capital to be raised? People generally are earning less money and there is consequently less to give away. Government are paying therecurring grants which the schools may earn under the Code, but large capital grants are entirely beyond their resources. In times like this people are apt to become impatient, to criticize what is and to proclaim that salvation lies on some quite different road. The domiciled community's great need is unity; their great hope, so far as education is concerned, lies in the able and self-sacrificing men and women who are directing and working in their schools and in the awakened public interest in all problems connected with the community's welfare. The Government of Bengal realize fully the political, social and economic importance to India of the domiciled community. It is their policy that the community should be given every reasonable chance to work out its own welfare.

12. The education of Muhammadans.—One of the interesting features of the quinquennium is the advance made by Muhammadans in the matter of primary education. There are now more boys of that community (52·6 per cent.) in that stage of education than those of other communities. It is regrettable that their progress in the higher grades has not been proportionately as great. In colleges they form only 12·8 per cent. of the students; in professional colleges 9·4 per cent., in high schools 14·9 per cent., and in middle English schools 25·1 per cent. It is clear, therefore, that they still have much leeway to make up and, to encourage them, the following additional scholarships have been instituted:—

(i) Three junior scholarships of the value of Rs. 10 per mensem each, tenable for two years in any intermediate college within the Dacca University area.

(ii) Nine junior scholarships of the value of Rs. 10 per mensem each, tenable for two years in any college affiliated to Calcutta University.

(iii) Six senior scholarships of the value of Rs. 10 per mensem each, tenable for three years in Dacca University.

(iv) Six senior scholarships of the value of Rs. 10 per mensem each, tenable for two years in any college affiliated to Calcutta University.

(v) Two graduate scholarships of the value of Rs. 25 per mensem each, tenable for one year in Dacca University.

(vi) Two graduate scholarships of the value of Rs. 25 per mensem each, tenable for two years in Calcutta University.

(vii) Two scholarships of the value of Rs. 25 per mensem each, tenable for three years in the mechanical and electrical engineering classes of the Bengal Engineering College, Sibpur.

(viii) Two scholarships of the value of Rs. 25 per mensem each, tenable for three years in the mining classes of the Bengal Engineering College, Sibpur.

(ix) Four scholarships of the value of Rs. 15 per mensem each, tenable for two years in the sub-overseer classes of the Ahsanullah School of Engineering, Dacca.

While these steps have been taken to promote education on modern lines, purely Islamic education has not been neglected. The syllabus of studies for the junior department of madrasahs has been revised; Islamic Matriculation and Intermediate examinations have been introduced under the control of the Intermediate and Secondary Education Board, Dacca, and Islamic intermediate classes have been opened in connexion with the Dacca Madrasah. The report of the committee appointed in 1920 to enquire into the general conditions of the Calcutta Madrasah and to make proposals for its improvement is under consideration.

13. Backward classes.—As in the case of Muhammadans, the backward classes, and notably the Namasudras, have made considerable headway in primary schools—a fact which indicates that classes hitherto almost inaccessible are coming under the influence of new forces. In stages higher than the primary, however, they lag behind, and it has been found necessary to institute a large number of scholarships, to enable them to take better advantage of the facilities that exist. These scholarships are as follows:—

(i) One graduate scholarship of Rs. 30 per mensem, tenable for two years in Calcutta University, and another of the same value, tenable for one year in Dacca University.

(ii) Four senior scholarships of the value of Rs. 15 per mensem each, tenable for two years, one of which will be tenable in Dacca University and the remaining three in any college affiliated to Calcutta University.

(iii) Four junior scholarships of Rs. 10 per mensem each, tenable for two years, one of which is tenable at colleges within the Dacca University area and the remaining three in colleges affiliated to Calcutta University.

(iv) Thirty-three middle scholarships of Rs. 4 per mensem each, tenable for four years.

(v) Sixty upper primary scholarships of Rs. 3 per mensem each, tenable for two years.

Of the backward classes the most advanced are the Namasudras: education has spread amongst them to such an extent that it is doubtful whether they should now be included among the backward classes.

14. Physical and moral training.—The purely intellectual education which has hitherto been imparted in the schools and colleges has undermined many of the old moral and social bonds which have so far kept society together, but it has done nothing to replace them by western ideals of discipline and self-control. Add to this the "drabness and joylessness" of a student's life in Bengal, and the wonder is that the spirit of restlessness which prevails in the student community at the present day is not greater than it is. The spirit is none the less one which requires control. Religious and moral instruction is sometimes put forward as a corrective, but there are so many difficulties in the way that it has not been found possible to devise a practical method for the general dissemination of such instruction. Another remedy attempted has been the establishment of hostels in which pupils and teachers can be brought into personal contact with each other and corporate life among the students themselves may be encouraged. Ninety more hostels have been constructed during the quinquennium, of which the most important are the hostels attached to the City, Ripon, Bangabasi and Vidyasagar Colleges for undergraduates and the Carmichael Hostel for Muhammadans. These hostels were all built with money provided by Government. Efforts in this direction are being supplemented by the encouragement of games, the cost of which is met partly from fees realised from the students and partly from Government grants. A post in the Bengal Educational Service has recently been created and the duties of the officer appointed to it are to systematise games and to supervise physical education These measures will, it is hoped, go some way towards counteracting the evil to which reference has been made and which all right-thinking men must deplore. But the real remedy lies with the public.

15. Conclusion.—The thanks of Government are due to the various officers who have administered the Education Department during the quinquennium under review and to Mr. Holme for a very able report.

ORDER.—Ordered that copies of the Resolution be forwarded to the Government of India, Department of Education, Health and Lands, to the Director of Public Instruction, Bengal, to all Commissioners of Divisions, and to the Local Self-Government Department of this Government for information.

ORDERED, also, that the Resolution together with the Report be published in the Calcutta Gazette.

By order of the Government of Bengal
(Ministry of Education),

J. A. L. SWAN,
Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

PROGRESS

EDUCATION IN BENGAL

1917-18 to 1921-22.

SIXTH QUINQUENNIAL REVIEW.

Introductory.

1. The area dealt with is the Presidency of Bengal, exclusive of Native States, 76,843 square miles.

2. By census of 1921, population of this area is 46,695,536; 24,151,222 males and 22,544,314 females: Hindus 20,203,527, Muhammadans 25,210,802, Christians 147,081, other communities 1,134,126. The Presidency contains 130 towns with population 3,186,300 and 84,981 villages with 43,509,236 and has 25 district board areas with population of 43,604,742 and 116 municipalities with 3,070,400.

3. (a) Percentage of men and boys under instruction in 1921-22 to the total male population—6·38, against 6·92 in 1916-17. (b) Percentage of women and girls under instruction in 1921-22 to total female population—1·54, against 1·36 in 1916-17. (c) Percentage of both sexes under instruction in 1921-22 to total population—4·05, against 4·21 in 1916-17.

CHAPTER II.

THE EDUCATIONAL SYSTEM.

Statistics of Management.

4. Public and private institutions.—In 1921-22 there were in the Presidency 53,767 educational institutions, viz., 40,959 for men and boys, and 12,808 for women and girls. The figures for 1916-17 were 48,373; 38,489 and 9,884. Thus the increase during the quinquennium amounted to 2,470 or 6·4 per cent. in institutions for males and 2,924 or 29·6 per cent. in institutions for females. The increase was mainly in primary and special schools.

5. Departmental standards.—The number of institutions for both sexes which conformed to departmental standards in 1921-22 was 51,927 against 46,104 in 1916-17, an increase of 5,823 or 12·6 per cent.

6. Public and private management.—Of the 51,927 institutions conforming to departmental standards, 3,613 or 7 per cent. were under public management and 48,314 or 93 per cent. under private management; 41,545 or 80 per cent. being aided.

7. Primary, secondary and special schools.—Primary schools in 1921-22 were 47,783 of which 3,315 or 6·9 per cent. were under public management. Secondary schools were 2,678; 139 or 5·2 per cent. under public management. Of 1,420 special schools, 143 were under public management, of which 121 were for the training of teachers.

8. Colleges.—Of 46 colleges, 16 were under public management. Of the 36 arts colleges, 9 were under public management and 27 under private management; of the latter, 13 received aid from provincial revenues. In 1916-17 there were 51 colleges in the Presidency including law-colleges and classes, some of which have since been abolished.

9. Summary of management.—The proportion of institutions of all classes under public management to those under private management was 1 to 14, as against 1 to 13 in 1916-17.

10. The Education Budget.—Sanctioned estimate: Receipts, 1916-17, Rs. 9,05,000; 1921-22, Rs. 11,00,000. Increase during the quinquennium, Rs. 1,95,000. Sanctioned estimate: Expenditure, 1916-17, Rs. 88,30,000; 1921-22, Rs. 1,26,05,000. Increase during the quinquennium, Rs. 37,75,000.

11. The increase under the heading receipts is due to the increase in fee-income, which in turn has been brought about by (a) the greater number of pupils and students in certain classes of institutions, and (b) by increases in the rate of fees. The increased expenditure is naturally largely due to the increase in the prices of commodities, due to post-war conditions. Much of the increase is accountable for under the following heads :—

(a) increased grants to district boards and other local authorities and to aided colleges and schools;
(b) the reorganisation and improved pay of the educational services;
(c) the establishment of the Dacca University and of the Board of Secondary and Intermediate Education at Dacca;
(d) additional appointments in schools and colleges, and (e) increased allotments for contingent expenditure.

Controlling Agencies.

12. General remarks.—The superior educatonal services have been reorganised during the quinquennium mainly on the basis of the recommendations of the Public Services Commission. The terms and conditions of the teaching and inspecting branches of the subordinate educational services were improved in accordance with the advice of a special committee formed by Government under the presidency of Mr. W. C. Wordsworth. The revision of pay of ministerial and other officers of the department was considered by the same Committee and its recommendations are under the consideration of Government.

13. Administrative changes.—The most important event during the quinquennium was the introduction of the necessary administrative changes, consequent upon the introduction of the new Government of India Act. Under the new administration, education (excluding European education) has become a transferred subject, controlled by a responsible Minister. The Hon'ble Mr. P. C. Mitter, M.A., C.I.E., became the first Education Minister of Bengal in January 1921. Till the close of the financial year 1921-22, he was assisted by the Director of Public Instruction, Bengal, working as ex officio Deputy Secretary to Government in the Department of Education. European Education was at the same time placed under a Member of the Executive Council. During the quinquennium a new department called the Department of Industries was created and the control of all technical and industrial institutions (excepting the Bengal Engineering College, Sibpore, and the Ahsanullah School of Engineering, Dacca) was transferred from the Education Department to it.

14. The Educational Services.—The details of the various services are given below:—

(A) Indian Educational Service.

15. The Indian Educational Service was reorganised with effect from 1st December 1919. Instead of the former single cadre on incremental pay from Rs. 500 to Rs. 1,000 by an annual increment of Rs. 50 with in addition three first-grade personal allowances of Rs. 250—50—500 and four second-grade personal allowances of Rs. 200—10—250, there is a service of two distinct cadres carrying different time-scales of pay for men and women, each divided into three groups, administrative, collegiate and special.

16. Men's branch.—The men's cadre includes, besides the ordinary grade, two selection grades—higher and lower—comprising 5 and 15 per cent. of its total strength. The pay of the ordinary grade is from Rs. 400 to Rs. 1,250. The pay of the lower selection grade posts is from Rs. 1,250 to Rs. 1,500, and of the higher from Rs. 1,550 to Rs. 1,750. In addition all members of the men's cadre who were permanently in the Indian Educational Service on 1st December 1919 have been granted overseas pay of from Rs. 150 to Rs. 250. Of officers appointed subsequently only those of non-Indian domicile draw overseas pay. A local allowance of Rs. 250 per mensem has been sanctioned for the Principal of the Presidency College and of Rs. 150 for all other college principals (excluding intermediate colleges); and the two Assistant Directors of Public Instruction have been granted duty allowances of Rs. 150 per mensem. On 1st April 1917 appointments for men numbered 49, 48 on the ordinary rates of pay, 1 on a special rate. Three new posts on ordinary rates of pay were added to the cadre before the reorganisation of the service. Thus, on the 1st December 1919, the men's branch had 52 appointments. In February 1921, 15 new posts were added to the service for the promotion of Indian officers from the Bengal Educational Service, a corresponding reduction being made in its cadre. Thus, on 31st March 1922, the men's branch of the Indian Educational Service had 67 posts, including 3 posts in the higher selection grade, and 10 in the lower. Of these 67 posts one appointment, on a special rate of pay, the Principalship of the Government School of Art, Calcutta, is under the control of the Department of Industries.

17. Women's branch.—The women's cadre of the Indian Educational Service includes one selection grade. The pay of the ordinary grade is from Rs. 400 to Rs. 850 and that of the selection grade post rises from Rs. 900 to Rs. 1,050 with in all cases overseas pay of Rs. 50 for numbers of non-Indian domicile. There were three women in the Indian Educational Service on the 31st March 1917. The post of the Principal, Dow Hill School for Girls, Kurseong, has since been raised to the Indian Educational Service, making four posts on 31st March 1922, including one post in the selection grade.

(B) Bengal Educational Service.

18. Men's branch.—The Bengal Education Service was recognised with effect from 1st December 1919, two separate cadres on different rates of pay being constituted for men and women. The time-scale of pay for the men's cadre of the Bengal Educational Service is from Rs. 250 and rises to Rs. 800, with two efficiency bars at Rs. 460 and Rs. 650; that is, at the end of the 12th and 20th years of service. Men's appointments on 31st March 1917 were 151, 150 permanent and 1 temporary. During the quinquennium, 79 permanent appointments and 4 temporary posts were created and 23 posts abolished. Thus, on 31st March 1922, there were 211 appointments, of which 5 were temporary. Of the 83 new posts, 79 permanent and 4 temporary, created since 31st March 1917, 38 posts were for professors and lecturers, 15 for inspecting officers, and 30 for head masters of high schools, who were included in this service as a part of the scheme for improving secondary education. Nineteen lecturers and 14 district deputy inspectors were promoted to the Bengal Educational Service as part of the reorganisation of the educational services below the Bengal Educational Service. Nineteen posts of professors were created in consequence of extended affiliation of colleges and one post of second Inspector of Schools, Rajshahi Division, was created to assist the divisional inspector. Of the 23 posts abolished, 5 were attached to the old Dacca College, 16 were raised to the Indian Educational Service, one post was attached to Dacca Training College for the Nature Study class, and one was the head mastership, Victoria School, Kurseong, which became a post outside the grades.

19. Women's branch.—The time-scale of pay sanctioned for the women's branch of Bengal Educational Service, is Rs. 200—25/2—500 with an efficiency bar at Rs. 325, after 12 years' service. On 31st March 1917, there were 12 Bengal Educational Service appointments for women. During the quinquennium 8 new posts were created, three for Head Mistresses of Government high schools for girls, whose posts were raised from the Subordinate Educational Service to the Bengal Educational Service under the Secondary Education Scheme; two for Assistant Inspectresses of Schools in Eastern Bengal, two for lecturers, whose posts were raised to the Bengal Educational Service by the reorganisation of the Subordinate Educational Service and one for the Principal, Training School for Female Teachers, Calcutta. on 31st. March 1922 the cadre had 20 posts.

(C) Subordinate Educational Services.

20. In terms of Government Resolution No. 872-T. Edn., dated 9th October 1920, a Committee of those noted below was appointed to examine and report upon the pay and prospects of officers of the Education Department below the Bengal Educational Service and to recommend such changes of organisation as they considered desirable with special reference to the question whether the graded system should be replaced by a time-scale of pay :—

CHAPTER III.

University and College Education.

36. Main features.—The outstanding features in University and Collegiate education have been—

(a) the firmer establishment of the Calcutta University as a teaching body, more especially in the post-graduate departments,

(b) the report of the Calcutta University Commission and the beginnings of legislation to put its recommendations into force, and

(c) the establishment by charter of the Dacca University.

37. Post-graduate teaching.—The beginning of the quinquennium saw those changes in the Calcutta University Regulations by which the whole of post-graduate teaching passed under the control of the University, the Colleges, with the exception of one or two mufassal colleges, which retained affiliation in English, losing their M.A. affiliation in those subjects in which they had previously been teaching agencies. The change has caused not so much an increase in the number of students in the M.A. classes, as an enormous increase of the teaching staff. This was brought about largely by the appointment of many whole-time lecturers, but also by engaging, as part-time workers, most of those teachers who, under the older regime, had taught their subjects to the M.A. classes in the colleges. This large expansion is shown by the figures for the beginning of 1916-17 and 1920-21, the last year for which returns are available. At the beginning of the academic session 1916-17, there were 1,258 students in the University M.A. classes, with 46 teachers, whose work was, however, eked out by the appointment of certain outside lectures on a part-time basis. In addition there were 326 M.A. and M. Sc. students in Presidency College, 23 in the Scottish Churches College, and 115 in Dacca College. In 1921, there were 1,234 students (though this number, possibly through non-co-operation, showed a drop from 1,420 in the previous year). For these 1,234 students, there were 233 professors, assistant professors and lecturers, including the part-time teachers. This disproportion of teachers to taught is not so glaring as might at first appear. It is due largely to the extension of science teaching, which, before 1917, the University did not undertake at all. Thus, of the total 1,234, 189 were in the science classes with a staff of 54, or 1 teacher to 3·5 students, as against 1,045 students in Arts, with a teaching staff of 179 or 1 teacher to 5·8 students, though again this proportion is largely influenced by the fact that in such subjects as anthropology (8 teachers, 9 students) and experimental psychology (8 teachers and 9 students), there is a much greater disparity. There is much debate whether the change has been for the better. Previously to the great growth of purely University post-graduate teaching, the colleges, and especially Presidency College, endeavoured to restrict the numbers of those who entered their M.A. and M.Sc. classes by demanding a certain degree of attainment, marked by honours or distinction, in the post-graduate subject proposed. Apparently in the University classes, there is no such small-meshed sieve before entrance: in practice a graduate, Pass or Honours, is admitted to the post-graduate course in any subject he chooses. The result is that the supposedly "soft options," English, Economics, Philosophy and History attract the average graduate who has no particular bias to any particular subject, while the Indian classical languages are comparatively neglected. It may be argued, however, that the increased percentage of passes in the M.A. examination, and the steadiness in the percentage of passes in the M.Sc. examination implies at least that the new system is as efficient as the old, but this increase, and this steadiness in the percentage of passes in the M.A. and M.Sc. examinations respectively, is accompanied by a very large increase in the percentage of passes in other examinations, and he would be a bold eulogist who would maintain that both schools and colleges in Bengal have improved their methods and standards in the last 5 years commensurately with the steady rise in the percentage of passes. It is therefore difficult, if not impossible, to draw any safe conclusion as to the success of the new scheme from the statistics of examination results. The increasing activities of the post-graduate department have been made possible to some extent by endowments. Thus, in the previous quinquennium, the University College of Science was founded out of the gifts of Rs. 14 and Rs. 10 lakhs, respectively, made by Sir Tarak Nath Palit and by Sir Rash Behari Ghosh. In the present quinquennium a further gift of the capital value of some Rs. 5½ lakhs was made by the late Kumar Guruprosad Singh of Khaira. Out of the interest of this, the University has established five new chairs, in (i) Indian Fine Arts, (ii) Phonetics, (iii) Physics, (iv) Chemistry and (v) Agriculture, the occupants of which take part in the general post-graduate work of the University. Another gift. of Rs. 2½ lakhs, under the will of the late Sir Rash Behari Ghosh, established a number of travelling research fellowships, open to graduates of the University. A further interesting development of University work has been started by the beneficence of Mr. Prankrista Chatterjee, who in 1921 made over 100 bighas of land and an endowment of Rs. 1,800 per annum to start a University Mining School, which when organised will presumably train students of the Mining Course leading to the B.E. degree of the University.

38. The Calcutta University.—The vast mass of the Calcutta University Commission Report has been public property since early in 1919. It has been discussed, criticised destructively and constructively, and has formed the basis of a scheme for reform. At present, however, this scheme lies in abeyance till the financial sky is fairer, and its first-fruits, the establishment of the University of Dacca, have still to stand the test of experience. Certain minor changes have, however, been made. By Act No. VII of 1921 of the Indian Legislature the Governor of Bengal becomes Chancellor of the University of Calcutta, the Government of Bengal nominates the Vice-Chancellor, and, in general, the local Government possesses the powers previously held by the Governor-General in Council. One of these powers has been already exerted to the extent of appointing the Ministers for Local Self-Government, Education and Agriculture and Industries, Bengal, and the Minister for Education, Assam, as ex officio fellows of the University. A change has also been made in the jurisdiction of the Calcutta University by the formation of an educational enclave at Dacca. By the Dacca University Act, the schools within that enclave lost their connection with Calcutta, but the Dacca University was given no power to recognise secondary schools or intermediate colleges. By a resolution, dated the 7th May 1921, there was formed a Board of Secondary and Intermediate Education at Dacca, which, mutatis mutandis, exercises in the Dacca area much the same sort of control over education up to the Intermediate Examination as is exerted by the Calcutta University within its jurisdiction. This is, indeed, the only change of any magnitude, apart from the calling into being of the Dacca University, as yet accomplished in pursuance of the recommendations of the Commission.

39. Examinations.—The following table shows the results of the University Arts and Science examinations for the past five years:—

40. Examination standards.—These tables are curiously instructive. It will be seen that a large and steady rise in the percentage of passes has ocurred in every examination during the quinquennium. This would argue either (a) a correspondingly steady increase in the efficiency of such institutions as prepare for these examinations, or (b) a correspondingly steady lowering of the standard of pass. But the cumulative evidence of almost every report of the arts colleges during the quinquennium suggests that progress in methods of teaching, or improvement in the human material upon which that teaching is exercised, is almost non-existent. Neither the arts college nor the high English School has advanced sufficiently to account for the steady rise, and the only alternative conclusion is that there has been a steady lowering of standard. Another feature is interesting, the decrease in the number of students taking the purely literary arts courses, correlated with the increase in those taking science. This reflects the growing demand for something supposedly more useful in after-life, a demand intensified by political developments in the last two years of the period.

The University of Dacca.

41. The foundation of the Dacca University.—The history of the scheme to establish a teaching University is set forth in detail in the Report of the Calcutta University Commision, and it is hardly necessary to summarise it here. Financial considerations have caused many modifications both in the original scheme, the result of the work of a committee formed in 1912 under the chairmanship of the late Mr. (afterwards Sir Robert) Nathan, and in the scheme proposed by the Commission. The main outlines of the latter scheme have, however, been adopted, and embodied in legislation, to the effect that the University should be unitary, teaching and residential. The Act establishing the Dacca University came into force on the 1st July 1921, and on that date the departments of English, Arabic and Islamic Studies, Persian and Urdu, Sanskrit and Sanskritic Studies, Philosophy, History, Economics and Politics, Mathematics, Physics, Chemistry, Education and Law began their work. Later, at the beginning of the session 1922-23 a Department of Commerce, closely associated with the Department of Economics, was added. The original intention had been to staff these departments by recruitment in England, but financial considerations caused the abandonment of this policy, and recruitment was local, largely from the Dacca and Jagannath Colleges, which ceased to exist on the establishment of the University. At present the staff consists of 9 professors (1 acting), 2 heads of departments (1 honorary, 1 acting), 16 readers, 39 lecturers (5 part-time), 19 assistants, and 4 honorary teachers.

42. Entrance.—The tests for entrance are the Intermediate Examinations of the Indian Universities, and thus the recommendations of the Calcutta University Commission regarding the separation of existing Intermediate courses from University organisation and control have been put into force. University teachers are thus freed from the burden of what is really school work, requiring methods different from those of purely University instruction.

43. Organisation.—The first Annual Report of the University thus summarises the general organisation. The University has been planned approximately on the model of the modern British Universities. The Governor of Bengal is the Chancellor; the Vice-Chancellor is the academic and executive head of the University.

(a) The supreme body is the Court, which is a large body of ex officio elected and nominated members, at present 158 in number. The Chancellor is required in nominating members to ensure that so far as possible half the non-European members shall be Muhammadans. The Court makes new statutes on the recommendation of other University bodies and may cancel new Ordinances made by the Executive Council. It also has the power of reviewing and passing resolutions on the annual budget and report and it has constituted a Budget Committee to assist it in this function.

(b) The chief executive body is called the Executive Council and consists at present of 15 persons, viz., the Vice-Chancellor, the Treasurer, the Commissioner of the Dacca Division, the Provost, the Deans of the Faculties, two non-Muhammadan and two Muhammadan representatives of the Court, and four persons (including two teachers) appointed by the Chancellor. The Council, as constituted at present comprises 4 Europeans, 5 Hindus and 6 Muhammadans.

(c) The chief academic body is the Academic Council, including the Vice-Chancellor as Chairman, the Deans, the Provosts, the Professors, the Librarian, and a certain number of Readers and Lecturers. The total number at present is 19.

(d) There are at present three Faculties—a Faculty of Arts with 28 members, a Faculty of Science with 15 members, and a Faculty of Law with 15 members. For reports on special subjects the faculties constitute Committees of Studies.

44. Residential and tutorial organisation.—The main new features in the University are connected with its elaborate arrangements for residence, and for tutorial supervision. There are three "Halls"—the Dacca, the Muslim and the Jagannath Halls, each controlled by a Provost, who is assisted by two house-tutors, and by the University teachers distributed for this purpose among the three Halls. Each student is assigned specially to one of these teachers for general guidance, and thus the pass degree tutorial guidance is accomplished. Honours students in addition are under the direct tutorial supervision of the head of the department. An attempt is thus being made to provide something different in kind from the "tutorial" assistance given in most colleges in Bengal, which is as a rule a sort of intensified coaching for an examination. To quote the report, the object of the tutorial class is "to encourage originality and individual effort, to ensure that each student shall be enabled to learn something of intellectual production as well as of reproduction, so that when he enters the world he will not find himself for the first time confronted with intellectual problems to which he has not been taught the answers beforehand." Further, as an incentive to constant and uniform effort through a student's career, the tutorial record is, by ordinance, taken into account at the settlement of examination results. A student not resident in a Hall must be attached to one, for tutorial purposes, and for the social benefits which the system is specially devised to procure for him. Actual residence is cheap enough, some 10 or 12 rupees in addition to seat-rent, which varies from two to four rupees. In the Muslim Hall, the arrangements for food are in the hands of the staff, while in the Dacca and Jagannath Halls, the students themselves, with occasional guidance of the staff, run the arrangements on a sort of communistic basis.

45. Site and buildings.—The University is particularly fortunate in situation and in the external shell of its corporate life. It occupies nearly a square mile of park-like land, and its buildings include many of those which formerly housed the Government of Eastern Bengal and Assam. The former Secretariat contains now the University office, the lecture-rooms, class-rooms and common-rooms of the faculties of Arts and Law, while other parts are temporarily used for the residence of students. Government House contains the Court-house and residences for members of the staff. The old Dacca College has been turned into physical laboratories, and the Curzon Hall, once the College Assembly Hall, has become the meeting place of Convocation. The Dacca College Hostel, and the buildings intended for the hostels of the Jagannath College, are now the Dacca and Jagannath Halls; the Muslim Hall, pending the erection of a new building, occupies part of the old Secretariat. Games have ample accommodation, for in addition to a central gymnasium, there are two playing fields close to each Hall, and much further space which, at a small cost, may provide even more opportunities as the University expands.

46. Libraries.—Dacca College and the Dacca Law College have provided the nucleus of the main University Library, and in the first year of its life, the University has spent about a lakh of rupees on additions, chiefly by increasing the number of scientific and literary periodicals. A beginning has also been made with departmental libraries, intended for Honours and M.A. students, while arrangements have been made for the ample provision of books to poor students, beyond the ordinary limits of the lending regulations.

47. Laboratories.—The buildings of the old Dacca College now house the Physics Department, with certain adaptation of space to ensure facilities for individual research work. Equipment has been added to considerably, and a new workshop built. The chemical laboratories are in a separate building, with ample equipment, and with space for very large expansion.

48. Students.—On 31st March 1922, there were 400 B.A., 100 B.Sc., 95 M.A., 30 M.Sc., and 177 Law students, a total of 802. This included 2 women—one in the B.A., the other in the M.A. class. Of the total number, 162 or 20·2 per cent. were Muhammadans and 35 or 4·3 per cent. belonged to the depressed classes. There was one Indian Christian. In addition, 154 students of the Dacca Medical School took physics and chemistry in the University, 67 students of the Dacca Training College read in the Department of Education, and there were 7 research students.

49. Examinations.—The following table gives the number and percentage of passes in each examination held in 1922:—

	Number appeared.	Number passed.	Percentage.
B.A.	223	180	80·7
B.Sc.	37	31	83·8
B.T	50	47	94·0
L.T.	17	15	88·2

ARTS COLLEGES.

50. Numbers.—There has been an increase of three arts colleges during the quinquennium: Carmichael College, Rangpur, the Rajendra College, Faridpur, and the Bagerhat College, Khulna. The figures are—Government colleges 8, municipal 1, aided 13, unaided 14, total 36 against 33 in 1916-17.

51. Classification by division and grade—

—	First grade.		Second grade.		Total.
	1916-17.	1921-22.	1916-17.	1921-22.	1916-17.	1921-22.
Burdwan	3	3	4	4	7	7
Presidency	3	3	1	2	4	5(a)
Calcutta	11	13	3	1	14	14
Dacca	4	3	...	2	4	5(b)
Chittagong	1	2	1	...	2	2
Rajshahi	1	2	1	1	2	3(c)
Total ...	23	26	10	10	33	36

(a) Khulna. (b) Faridpur. (c) Rangpore.

The Dacca figures are arrived at by the classification of the Dacca and Jagannath Intermediate Colleges as second grade colleges, and by the opening of the Rajendra College, Faridpur, recently raised to the first grade.

52. Students.—The total number of students on the rolls of Arts colleges was on 31st March:—

1917	...	...	...	18,478
1918	...	...	...	20,479
1919	...	...	...	20,780
1920	...	...	...	21,557
1921	...	...	...	19,788
1922	...	...	...	16,942

Thus during the quinquennium there was a total decrease of 1,536 students or 8·3 per cent. In Government colleges the decrease was 560 or 15·3 per cent.; in aided colleges 198 or 3·3 per cent., and in unaided colleges 719 or 9·1 per cent. The only municipal college, Midnapore College, increased by 13 or 8·1 per cent. The proportion of students in Government colleges compared with the number of students in all colleges fell from 20 per cent. to 18·3 per cent. The annual returns are more illuminating than the quinquennial; thus 1920 saw the maximum number of students in colleges 21,557; while in the two following years the number decreased by 4,615, or 21·4 per cent.

53. Students by communities—

			1916-17.	1921-22.
Muhammadans	...	...	1,639	2,175
Hindus	...	...	16,255	14,394
Other communities	...	...	584	373

The proportion of Muhammadan students to the total rose from 8·8 per cent. in 1916-17 to 12·8 per cent. in 1922.

54. Staff.—On 31st March 1922, there were in the arts colleges of the presidency, 739 professors, lecturers and demonstrators, of whom 20 were returned as trained, and 63 as not having University degrees, as against 620 professors, lecturers, etc., in 1916-17. The average proportion of students to teachers was 22·9 to each teacher, on the 31st March 1922, as against 29·8 in 1917, though in the general organisation of work in Bengal colleges this does not mean that each teacher was responsible for the supervision of 22·9 students, nor that outside supervision is more effective in 1922. Of the total number of 211 professors, lecturers, etc., in Government colleges, 26 were in the Indian Educational Service, 108 in the Bengal Educational Service and 77 in the Subordinate Educational Service. This decrease of students and increase in staff has to some extent eased the difficulties referred to in paragraph 50 of the previous review. Colleges have been able to extend the tutorial system, especially in English.

55. Expenditure.—The total expenditure on arts colleges was:—

			Rs.				Rs.
1916-17	...	...	18,84,996	1919-20	...	...	23,24,083
1917-18	...	...	19,98,661	1920-21	...	...	26,61,642
1918-19	...	...	21,07,604	1921-22	...	...	26,51,435

Thus the large increases noted in the last review have continued, and add point to the suggested explanation of the very considerable decreases in numbers given elsewhere in this report; that is, want of means rather than absence of desire for higher education. In 1921-22, 16,942 students paid Rs. 12,71,953 in fees, an average of Rs. 75 per head while in 1916-17 18,478 students paid Rs. 10,71,061, an average of only Rs. 57 per head.

Buildings and Equipment.

60. Expenditure on buildings and equipment of colleges for the year 1921-22—

Unaided	13,165	......	86,917	1,00,082
Total ...	48,283	1,039	1,72,247	2,21,569

These figures show notable decreases compared with 1916-17, when provincial revenues disbursed Rs. 89,923, private funds Rs. 2,11,645. The figures shown against Government colleges represent merely the amounts spent departmentally on equipment, and do not include the sums spent directly by the Public Works Department. The decreases may be explained by the fact that the year 1916-17 came at the end of a period of large expansion in laboratory and library equipment. The quinquennium under review has witnessed certain verv necessary increases in the salaries of college staffs, which has almost inevitably led to curtailment of expenditure in other directions. Few colleges however, can be said to be adequately equipped for science teaching, while the libraries of many, teste the Calcutta University Commission Report, are woefully ill-fitted for the function they are supposed to perform.

61. Cost of educating a student.—The average annual cost of educating a student in an arts college is shown in the following table:—

—	Government College.			Aided College.			Unaided College.
	Public funds.	Other sources.	Total.	Public funds.	Other sources.	Total.	Total.
	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
1916-17 ...	140	91	231	21	70	91	56
1921-22 ...	278	97	375	29	98	127	89

The figures are averages, but figures showing the range in annual cost are also interesting. Thus a student at Presidency College cost in 1921-22, Rs. 500, against Rs. 343 in 1916-17. In the mufassal, the average cost of educating a student in a Government college was Rs. 294 in 1921-22, Rs. 180 in 1916-17. The range of cost in private colleges is enormous, from Rs. 57 to Rs. 270, as against Rs. 25 to Rs. 207 in 1916-17.

62. Comparison of figures.—Certain trains of thought inevitably follow an examination of these figures. To take extremes, a student may, in a private unaided College, receive a year's tuition at a total cost of Rs. 57, most, if not all, of which he provides himself in the shape of fees: and if he passes all his examinations at the first attempt, he graduates for Rs. 228. A student at Presidency College similarly graduates for Rs. 2,000 of which he provides about Rs. 500, being subsidised to the extent of some Rs. 1,500. At Krishnagar the figures are even higher. The cost per student in 1921-22 was Rs. 630, of which Government paid Rs. 539. The question arises, is this very disproportionate expenditure of Government money justifiable by results? And further, is the system of choice sufficiently discriminating to ensure that those lucky individuals who enter the gates of the Presidency

College are worthy recipients of a free gift of nearly Rs. 400 each per year for 4 years? The choice of candidates is always made with the most scrupulous care, despite an amount of importunity from those interested which adds greatly to the difficulties and responsibilities of the Principal, but this care can never be leisurely. University results are published so late, often long after the college year has commenced, that selection must be hindered. In this connection it is pertinent to draw attention to the harmful effects of present practice on boys at the threshold of their University career. Their school-life closes usually in December: their Matriculation Examination is held in March: if they cannot be admitted to colleges until September, they have wasted many months at the most impressionable age. It was remarked in the last review that "there are some private colleges which maintain a standard of efficiency which is quite equal to that of any Government college." If the truth of this statement, undisputed in 1917, still remains unchallenged, it would seem that Government is paying a disproportionately high price for a result provided elsewhere much more cheaply. Naturally there are many imponderables in judging human material; the one solid fact stands out, however, that loath though one may be to accept examination results as a sole criterion, they must be taken as affording some working standard of comparison. It cannot be said that examination results, standing alone, justify this disproportionate expenditure. Thus in the year 1920, in a fairly typical series of examinations, Presidency College obtained the following percentages of passes:—I. A. 92 per cent., I. Sc. 95·7 per cent. B.A. 89·8 per cent. B.Sc. 72·9 per cent., against average percentages which the whole number of affiliated colleges had of 63·4 per cent., 70·6 per cent., 73·4 per cent. and 67·1 per cent. in the respective examinations. Yet, though the examination results of Presidency College are consistently above the average in all examinations taken together, and in particular are much above the average in honours and distinctions, there are private colleges which by the one test of percentage of success either surpass or approach very nearly, the results in each separate examination, obtained by Presidency College. It has been suggested that certain results apart from examination success, accrue to Government from its apparently disproportionate expenditure upon the colleges which it manages. They may be regarded as models, as standards of achievement; the men they produce may go to leaven the staffs of other colleges with a leavening of a perhaps higher educational ideal; or they enter into the public life of Bengal, into Government service and the professions, to set a high ideal of public service. These are things not to be measured by the success of an institution, or of an individual, in an examination, and it remains for others to judge whether these imponderable factors are of sufficient importance to justify the large expenditure of public money indicated above.

63. Total expenditure on scholarships during 1921-22.—The total expenditure on scholarships held in arts colleges amounted to Rs. 1,49,782 of which Rs. 94,631 came from provincial revenues. In 1916-17, the amounts were Rs. 1,48,393 and Rs. 1,10,217 respectively. The scheme by which scholarships and stipends were awarded and paid remained unaltered during the quinquennium, with the exception of the administration of the Mohsin fund, reference to which is made in the chapter on Muhammadan education.

Grants to private colleges.

64. Grants paid from provincial revenues.—For the year 1921-22 Government allotted Rs. 1,14,308 for the maintenance of private colleges. In each of the previous years, Government spent Rs. 98,458.

65. Grants from Imperial allotments.—The figures quoted above do not include the amounts allotted from Imperial grants which are noted below:—

				Rs.
1917-18	...	...	...	40,394
1918-19	...	...	...	40,384
1919-20	...	...	...	41,394
1920-21	...	...	...	41,394
1921-22	...	...	...	41,394

In addition to these special Imperial grants the Government of India annually allot a sum of Rs. 1,29,000 for the improvement of the buildings and equipment of private colleges. The grant is distributed by Government on the basis of the recommendations of the Syndicate of the Calcutta University which appoints a special sub-committee to consider its distribution.

Presidency College.

66. General.—The quinquennium has seen continued success, and statistics show that the college still retains its place in the regard of the public of Bengal. Disaffiliation in post-graduate teaching has not affected the work of the under-graduate departments; the system by which former teachers of M.A. subjects are transferred as part-time lecturers in the University post-graduate department works well, so that the college, staffed originally to cope with the large amount of post-graduate work in the college itself, retains its personnel unreduced. It is, therefore, fortunately placed as regards its under-graduate teaching, as the whole highly-qualified staff takes part in it.

Pending legislation, the future of the college is uncertain. The Calcutta University Commissioners have recommended that it should be removed from Government control, that its governance should be invested in trustees mainly appointed by Government, and that Government should make an inclusive grant for its financing. Thus " the college would become a distinct corporation," a constituent, not an affiliated, college of the new teaching University in Calcutta, with fuller liberty in the appointment and payment of its staff, and in the co-operation of its efforts with those of the other constituent colleges.

67. Teaching.—During the latter half of the period, an interesting, and it is believed, successful series of experiments has been conducted in the teaching of the first-year classes. It is notorious that a student enters upon his University course usually ill-prepared in oral English, the medium of his instruction. The first three months of a student's course in English at Presidency College is now passed in an attempt to give him some command over English expression, especially oral. Formal lecturing is abandoned, and frequent exercises in spoken English are substituted, while small groups are taken by the European and certain other members of the staff, who talk, and make the students talk in reply. Their pronunciation and turns of expression are corrected, and the process has been found to be fruitful in result. A second innovation, extremely popular, was the delivery of a course of lectures in general science to arts students. As was more or less expected, the number of students in the post-graduate classes retaining their connection with the College has considerably declined. This may be accounted for by the increased library and tutorial facilities provided by the University.

68. Discipline.—A striking feature of the period has been the great improvement in discipline. The last review had to put on record many serious cases of indiscipline, rooted in political causes. Hostel searches, arrests and internments formed an unhealthy undercurrent. But the new political atmosphere consequent on the Reforms announcement of August 1917 has produced a very different state of affairs, so that, during the troubles of the two periods of stress, Presidency College students showed their good sense by refraining from participation in the wilder demonstrations indulged in by many other colleges. It is a significant fact that of all the colleges of any size, Presidency College was the only one to increase its numbers between August 1920 and August 1921.

A further illustration of this good will was the willing co-operation of students, both younger and older, in the census work of 1921. The work was difficult, for the quarter allotted is largely inhabited by Chinese, but it was entirely successful. The student-enumerators worked under 8 supervisors, elected by them.

69. Control.—In this connection the Principal observes:—"The Governing Body, as at present constituted, consists of the Director of Public Instruction as ex officio President, 3 nominated members, unconnected with the College, one of whom is Vice-President, 3 elected members of the college staff, and the Bursar and Principal, ex officio members, the Principal acting as Secretary. It is probably desirable that the Director should be a member of the Governing Body; and it is natural that, being a member, he should be President. It is perhaps not equally clear why the Principal should not combine the offices of Vice-President and Secretary. Nor is it very easy to explain on what principle the constitution of the Governing Body is based. A tribute, however, is due to the disinterested care and goodwill with which the members have dealt with the affairs of the college. During the quinquennium full disciplinary powers were transferred from the Governing Body to the Principal, a step which facilitates prompt action where prompt action is supremely necessary."

70. Corporate life.—Here again the Principal's report may be quoted: "It is not easy for students who come to college in the morning for lectures, and go away in the afternoon, to develop any strong corporate feeling. Accordingly it is in the hostel that this feeling is chiefly found; though I have no doubt that the prestige which attaches to the college is valued by nearly all its members, and the spaciousness and dignity of the libraries and laboratories are appreciated. The space at our disposal for games is very limited; and though there is always a small body of students who play games (especially tennis) with keenness and skill, they are a mere handful among the thousand students of the college. English games are expensive and take up a great deal of room. So far as the majority of students are concerned, we are obliged to dispense with the moral and physical discipline which games can give. It is some consolation to reflect that English people are disposed to make far too great a fetish of the whole matter. It may be noted here that the Students' Welfare Committee formed by the University conducted, during the year 1921-22, an elaborate enquiry into the health of students. Their report showed that a somewhat high proportion of students suffer from minor defects. So far as serious disease is concened, the record of the College is satisfactory. There have been several bad outbreaks of small-pox in Calcutta, but students have shown entire readiness to submit to vaccination and have been unaffected. The College Union which was revived during the period under review has had a certain measure of success, though its continuance probably depends on the energy of a very small number of students. Some of its debates have been well attended and have aroused interest; and it has held some well-organized 'Re-unions,' but the attendance of old members of the college at these functions has been rather meagre. The College Magazine preserves a very fair standard, but here again it is the energy of a few rather than the interest of the many that keeps it alive."

71. Affiliation.—Affiliation to the I. Sc. standard in Botany has been obtained, so that it is no longer necessary for students who wish to take this subject to begin acquiring the elements of it in their third year.

72. Examinations.—The statistics for success in examination of all colleges are to be read in the light of the remarks made in connection with the general University Examination table in paragraph 39 of this report.

Rajshahi College.

74. General.—Here the quinquennium has seen considerable expansion, and the future of the college, which as an institution has several unique features, will be interesting to watch. In ten years the number of students has increased from 522 in 1912 to 819 in 1922, and these increases have necessitated considerable additions to the staff, which during the quinquennium was strengthened by the inclusion of 1 professor, 3 lecturers, 2 demonstrators and a laboratory assistant. A scheme is under the consideration of Government for the establishment of M.A. classes in History, Mathematics, Philosophy and Chemistry, and of classes in Law. The aim is to make a self-contained mufassal college as contemplated by the Calcutta University Commission Report. The outstanding feature of the scheme is its part financing by private endowment and local contributions. The college is particularly fortunate in this respect. It already enjoys considerable endownments, amounting to some Rs. 10,000 per annum, while Rs. 32,000, promised by Raja P. N. Roy of Dighapatia and his brother the late Kumar B. K. Ray, will be used for the erection of an urgently needed extension to the college buildings. Furthermore, the Kumar on his death left the sum of Rs. 2½ lakhs for the purpose of " making proper arrangements for the advanced teaching of such sciences as botany, zoology, etc., in Rajshahi College, with a view to the introduction as soon as possible of a higher agricultural course therein." It is possible to see in these germs the promise of a highly efficient institution, self-contained because of its varied offerings of cultural and vocational courses, and meeting many of the needs of a large tract of Bengal remote from the two main centres of education in the Presidency. A tentative effort was made, with a certain amount of success, to introduce agriculture as a subject of study in 1919. Students receive training both theoretical and practical in the district farm.

75. Medical Survey.—A further outstanding feature has been a medical survey, which, while disappointing in the nature of its revelations, may form the basis of more strenuous efforts towards the physical well-being of the students. Thus 86·1 per cent. of the students were defective in some way or other, 16·9 had defective eye-sight, and 41·06 per cent. defective teeth and gums.

The cost of educating each student was, in 1921-22, Rs 190 of which Rs. 101 came from provincial revenues, as against Rs. 119 and Rs. 54, the figures for 1916-17.

77. Staff.—The staff at the end of the period consisted of a principal, 1 professor who is also the vice-principal, 13 other professors, 11 lecturers, 5 demonstrators, 2 laboratory assistants and a gymnastic master.

79. Affiliation.—The extension of affiliation up to honours standard in Arabic was sanctioned in July 1921.

Hooghly College.

80. General.—The period has been one of steadily-maintained achievement, accomplished under difficulties, the chief of which has been the constantly recurring change of Principal, due to the war. Numbers have, after a slight increase, returned almost to the level of 1917—234 as against 230. Affiliation has been extended to include Philosophy and Economics to the pass standard, and it is proposed to add English honours. The Principal in his report pleads for ampler accommodation both for college and hostel purposes, and deplores the lack of adequate open space for college games, repeating a complaint made in the last Review. He emphasises the growing attraction of the science courses, and urges their success as a reason for further expansion. The college is noteworthy on account of its many-sided social activities carried on despite drawbacks in the way of accommodation. Its Poor Fund collects and disburses a considerable sum in aid of needy students; it has on several occasions organised relief funds in times of distress due to cyclone and flood; its magazine flourishes, as does an excellent debating society.

Thus the total cost of educating a student was, in 1921-22, Rs. 459 of which Government paid Rs. 385, as against Rs. 216 and Rs. 138, the respective figures for 1916-17.

82. Staff.—The staff was increased by an additional professor of English and by professors of Philosophy and Economics. At present it consists of a principal, a vice-principal, 9 professors, 4 lecturers, 2 demonstrators, 2 laboratory assistants and a gymnastic instructor.

83. Affiliation.—In 1919 the college was affiliated in Philosophy and Economics up to the B.A. pass standard. Affiliation in B.A. English honours is expected from the beginning of the next session.

Chittagong College.

85. General.—The quinquennium has been one of steady growth and progress. Numbers have increased from 275 to 353, despite adverse economic and political circumstances. Affiliation to the B.A. honours standard in English and Pali, in Political Economy and Political Philosophy to the B.A. pass standard, and in Logic to the Intermediate standard has been granted, while, though affiliation had been obtained in Philosophy to the B.A. pass standard, financial conditions made it impossible to introduce the course. This extension of affiliation has brought about the increase in the number of students noticed above, and has undoubtedly worked towards obviating that wander-lust forced upon many mufassal students by lack of facilities in the remoter parts of the province. But the familiar story of inadequate accommodation must be repeated. The science departments have reached the limit of growth imposed by their buildings. Various schemes to relieve pressure have been mooted, and are under consideration; till their realisation the present tendency of the college to expand must receive a set-back.

87. Staff.—The staff was increased by two professors (Philosophy and Economics) and five lectures (English, History, Arabic and Persian, Mathematics and Logic). It consists now of a principal and a vice-principal, 8 professors, 10 lecturers, 2 demonstrators, 2 laboratory assistants, and a gymnastic instructor.

90. General.—During the quinquennium the college has passed through certain vicissitudes. A steady rise of students, from 234 in 1917-18 to 281 in 1919-20 was followed by a drop to 227 in 1920-21 and to 204 in 1921-22. Increased affiliation caused the rise, political unrest and economic distress, with perhaps a decrease in the population of the district, caused the fall. In 1916 the first step in the improvement of the status of the college was taken by the appointment of an Indian Educational Service officer as principal. During the quinquennium, the affiliation of the college was extended by honours English, honours Mathematics, (B.A. and B.Sc.), pass Philosophy pass Persian, and pass Political Economy and Political Philosophy. The college with its ample grounds, its excellent equipment and staff, its fine and spacious buildings, should bring students even from Calcutta, but there seems in some curious way to be a fascination and a glamour that attracts the Bengali youth to the overcrowded barracks and back lanes of the capital.

Sanskrit College.

95. Numbers.—On 31st March 1922, students in the English department were 72 against 238 in 1917. This large decrease is accounted for by the Principal as due to the influence of the non-co-operation movement, and to the growing tendency among students to take up the I.Sc. and B.Sc. courses rather than the I.A. and B.A.

96. Expenditure.—The total expenditure in 1921-22 on the English department was Rs. 44,332, of which provincial revenues contributed Rs. 40,397, as against Rs. 26,004, and Rs. 12,999, the respective figures for 1916-17. Thus the large deficit due to the decrease in the amount realised from fees, has been met by Government. The cost per student, which was in 1916-17 Rs. 105, of which Government paid Rs. 53, rose in 1921-22 to Rs. 466, of which Rs. 425 came from provincial revenues. This large increase is due to the fall in the number of students, shown above, and to the increases in salaries granted in the last year of the quinquennium.

97. Affiliation.—The college is affiliated to the B.A. pass standard in English, Vernacular composition, Philosophy and History and to the honours standard in Sanskrit. The students are allowed to read honours in Presidency College.

98. Buildings.—"The accommodation at the disposal of the Sanskrit College is inadequate and bad.........A certain tradition attaches to these buildings, but they are not adequate to present requirements. It is difficult to alter or add to them as they are." These words from the last Quinquennial Review, are equally applicable to-day, though pressure has been eased by the drop in numbers. But the "complete scheme, dealing with the whole position," which was desirable in 1917, is as far off realisation as ever.

99. Recommendations of the Calcutta University Commission.—The recommendations of the Calcutta University Commission for dealing with the problem of the college are as follows:—

"The Sanskrit College, Calcutta, should be reorganised in three sections: (a) a high school and intermediate college which would take over the work of the present intermediate classes, as well as the "high" classes of the high school course, but would throughout lay special emphasis upon Sanskrit; (b) a constituent college of the Teaching University, arranged to accommodate say, 500 students; to this college should be attached the University chair of Sanskrit and the chair or readership in Pali, and its students should profit by the instruction of the pandits in the neighbouring tol department; this college would naturally be the principal centre of teaching in an honours school of Sanskrit; (c) a tol department which would work, as now, in connection with the Sanskrit Association and have no direct connection with the University. These three institutions should be housed in separate buildings side by side, on the site of the existing Sanskrit College and the Hindu School; the Library should be available for the use of all three. They should have distinct governing bodies, which would be in relation, respectively, with the Board of Secondary and Intermediate Education, with the University and with the Sanskrit Association; but care should be taken to ensure that there were common elements in all three governing bodies.

Students of the tol department of the Sanskrit College, if they pass the title examination, and are adequately qualified in English, should be encouraged to pursue their studies in western aspects of their subjects without going through the high school and intermediate course; and for this purpose the University should institute a diploma or possibly a degree, for such students, the course of study for which should include such subjects as comparative philology and archæology." So far, however, no steps have been taken towards realisation of the details of this scheme, which can be taken up only as part of a wide reconstruction of University education.

Dacca College.

101. General.—As such, the college ceased to exist on the foundation of the Dacca University. The graduate and post-graduate departments have been taken over by the University, while the Intermediate classes now form the new Dacca Intermediate College, separated from University control. Many of the staff have been thus absorbed, and most of the students have transferred their allegiance to the new University, which during the period of transition allowed them to complete their degree courses according to the curriculum of Calcutta. During the last four years of its life, the number of students dropped from 892 to 729, this being due almost entirely to the abolition of the mixed course which allowed an I.A. student to take Chemistry. Expenditure rose from Rs. 2,03,768 in 1916-17 to Rs. 2,67,523 in 1920-21, and the average cost per head from Rs. 232 to Rs. 341. Thus ends an eighty-year record of high educational tradition and achievement.

Dacca Intermediate College.

102. General.—The Dacca Intermediate College was started as a separate institution practically in July 1920. The intermediate classes of the Dacca College were at that time removed to an adjoining building which was formerly occupied by the Dacca School of Engineering and which became available by the removal of the Engineering School to the "Press" buildings. This was done in pursuance of the recommendations of the Calcutta University Commission which laid down that Intermediate Education should be separated from the graduate and post-graduate courses; and in anticipation of the establishment at Dacca of a University on the one hand, to provide graduate and post-graduate instruction, and of a Board of Intermediate and Secondary Education on the other, to supervise the High School and the Intermediate courses. From July 1920 to June 1921, the college was under the same Principal and had the same Governing Body as the Dacca College and was simply the Intermediate section of the latter institution. With the establishment of the Dacca University, the Dacca Intermediate College became an independent institution with effect from the 1st July 1921, with its own Principal and new Governing Body.

103. Main feature.—The main feature of the college is that students are taught in small sections of thirty each excepting for lectures in scientific subjects. This brings the pupils in much closer touch with their teachers and allows the latter opportunities to know their pupils better and to give them more individual attention than is possible with larger classes. The science students are taken together for lectures, but work in sections of thirty in the laboratory where their work is supervised by teachers.

104. Numbers.—There were 327 students on 31st March 1922, 203 Hindus, 124 Muhammadans.

105. Expenditure.—The total expenditure was Rs. 88,950 and the cost per head Rs. 268, of which Government contributed Rs. 188.

107. Courses taught.—The college taught the I.A. and I.Sc. courses of the Calcutta University; but the second-year students were examined by the Board of Intermediate and Secondary Education, Dacca, at the end of their course. Next session the second-year students will read the I.A. and I.Sc. courses of the Calcutta University, but the first-year students will read the courses prescribed by the Dacca Board.

(a) The figures show that the rapid elimination of middle vernacular schools noted in the last review continues.

(b) The loss in middle schools is greater than the increase in high schools.

(c) Much of the increase is due to the turning of middle English schools into high schools.

(d) The decrease in middle schools, both English and vernacular is chiefly in private schools.

(e) Public institutions were to private in 1922 as 1: 19.

(f) Aided to unaided schools were as 1 :1, a slight increase over the figures for 1916-17.

109. Distribution of English Schools.—The curious variations in the distribution of secondary schools throughout the Presidency, noticed in the last report, continue, as the following table shows :—

Number of English schools for boys per district in each division.

	1916-17.	1921-22.
Presidency (excluding Calcutta) ...	88	92
Chittagong	86	83
Burdwan	77	84
Calcutta	75	78
Rajshahi	44	50

This table is of further interest, as it shows that the greater portion of the decrease in the number of schools is reported from Eastern Bengal, Dacca and Chittagong being the only divisions to suffer a net loss.

110. Number of pupils—

	High English.	Middle English.	Middle Vernacular.	Total.

113. Analysis of statistics of schools and pupils.—These tables are perhaps the most instructive, as on the surface they are the gloomiest of all statistics concerning education in Bengal during the quinquennium. The total secondary school-going population has decreased by nearly a quarter, and while the decrease in the number of pupils in middle schools may in some measure be accounted for by the closing of many, and the raising of the status of others, we cannot fall back on this explanation in the case of high schools, for while their number has increased 25 per cent., the number of pupils has decreased some 12½ per cent. The greater part of this decrease occurred in 1920-21, when numbers fell from 233,429 to 207,207, a loss of 26,222, though the drain went on the following year when numbers dropped by 16,577. The year 1920-21 was the year of great non-co-operative activity in the student world, and though this activity persisted in 1921-22, it did not as a rule take the form of a persuasion to boycott schools and colleges, except temporarily and as a means of political protest. This would point to the fact that there is some deeper-lying motive, which, on examination of the economic state of Bengal for the last two years, reveals itself as poverty. The increase in the number of high schools connotes greater accessibility; the decrease in the number of pupils, apart from purely political considerations, must imply either an inability to take advantage of that increased accessibility, or a growing distrust of the value of the article supplied. In the last review it was observed that " parents prefer to send their children to secondary rather than to primary schools." If this were so in 1917, and if no basic change has occurred in the attitude of parents since then, it would seem that it is lack of means, not lack of will, that has caused these disturbing decreases. We see that primary education, though exhibiting certain relative decreases, has not been affected to anything like the same extent as secondary education, which again seems to strengthen the argument that, politics apart, the apparently decreased popularity of the secondary school is a thing enforced by economic causes.

114. And yet there may be after all something of good in this, at least for the present generation of pupils, for the average strength of a secondary school has very considerably dropped, from 312 to 217 in the case of the high school, from 100 to 74 in middle English, and from 61 to 49 in middle vernacular. If this has not meant a wholesale reduction of staff, especially in unaided schools, then it is all to the good, since the smaller the class, the greater the teacher's opportunity. On examination of the figures, it appears that in 1916-17, there was one teacher to every 19 pupils in secondary schools, while in 1921-22, there was one to every 16 pupils, a distinctly healthy sign. In schools organised on the yearly class basis, proportions of this kind have a meaning which they have not in colleges where classes are subdivided for various subjects.

115. To sum up, it would seem that on the evidence of these figures alone, the progress shown in secondary education during the previous quinquennium has been wiped out during the last, for the secondary school pupils are not many more than they were ten years ago (309,844 as against 300,319), while with the increase in population, shown by the recent census, this absolute gain in numbers is turned into a large relative decrease. Thus in 1921-22 one male in 146 was in the secondary stage of English secondary schools, and one in 13,388 in the secondary stage of vernacular schools as against one in 119, and one in 5,965 in 1916-17.

121. The Cost of Secondary Education.—The tables are instructive. Mr. Hornell said in the Quinquennial Review of 1916-17:—"The average cost of working an English secondary school has risen enormously during the last ten years. The cost of maintaining a middle vernacular school has similarly risen." To show how this increase continues, the above tables for the average monthly cost of secondary schools, and the average annual cost per pupil have been made to cover the period 1912—22, and illustrate the change from pre-war to post-war conditions. In these ten years, the cost per pupil in a high school has risen over 50 per cent., in a middle English school 80 per cent., and in a middle vernacular school over 80 per cent. Certainly the proportion of this cost met from fees has decreased, yet even so, the additional burden to be borne by a parent is enormous. This fact bears out strikingly the argument put forward above that it is poverty and not indifference, that prevents parents from sending their son to a secondary school. Other features of the main table are of interest. The proportion of fees to the total has decreased though absolutely the figures are much the same. As, however, they apply to a much reduced number of pupils, they indicate a considerable advance in the amount of fees paid per head. This again would seem to point to the fact that those parents who just succeeded in keeping their boys at secondary schools—and there were many—had to give up the struggle when fees were increased and the cost of living rose. Those parents who could afford, with ample margin, the pre-war cost of this type of education are still able to afford it. One encouraging feature is seen under the heading " Other Sources," for this includes subscriptions and endowments, and the large increase under this head would seem to indicate a growing sense of responsibility among the wealthier sections of the community.

122. Government contributions.—The remarks made in the Chapter on collegiate education concerning the large contributions of Government towards the total cost of Government institutions apply, though perhaps with rather less point, to the expenditure on high schools, as the following table shows :—

Total expenditure on High Schools for Indian boys according to Sources.

Management.	Total gross cost per annum.	Income from fees.	Income from other sources.	Net cost to Government.	Cost per head.	Cost to Government per head.
	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
Government ...	8,63,560	2,99,649	3,327	5,60,584	74·01	48·04
District and Municipal Board.	79,744	53,901	3,494	22,349	39·8	11·1
Private aided ...	24,58,994	16,59,890	3,27,904	4,71,200	35·4	6·7
Private unaided ...	29,73,640	23,83,026	5,90,614	...	29·3	...

Thus it will be seen (a) that the contribution of Government per head in a Government high school is greater considerably than the total cost per head in every other kind of school, (b) that it is nearly double the expenditure met by fees in a Government school, and (c) that in schools other than Government by far the larger part of the cost is met by fees, that is, by the contributions of parents. Further, Government spends on its 40 schools, with 12,765 pupils, nearly a lakh more than it does upon 334 aided schools, with 71,968, while it spends nothing on 500 unaided schools, with 103,712.

Grants-in-aid.

123. System of grants-in-aid.—In 1918, the systems of administration of grants-in-aid were revised, the two systems for Eastern and Western Bengal which differed in points of procedure, being co-ordinated. Applications for grants to schools conducted under specific trusts are dealt with by the Director, those for other schools by the Inspectors and Inspectresses, in consultation with the District Officer, or ultimately, in case of disagreement, with the Commissioner. Sanction is granted after a reference to Government. The amount of grant-in-aid does not ordinarily exceed, in the case of high schools for boys, one-half the amount contributed from private sources, and in the case of middle schools (boys and mixed) more than two-thirds. In all other cases, the amount does not ordinarily exceed the total amount from private sources. Conditions are laid down as to management and conformation to departmental rules. Grants may be recurring for the ordinary maintenance charges of the school, or capital, for the acquisition or purchase of land, for building, repairs, or purchase of furniture, or for the payment of debt.

Curricula and Examinations.

125. Curricula.—There has been little or no change in the curricula of secondary schools during the quinquennium, and pending the constitution of the new Board of Secondary and Intermediate Education, the schools will naturally continue under the older schemes.

126. Examinations.—The Matriculation and the Middle and Primary Scholarship Examinations are the public examinations for schools in Bengal. The Scholarship Examinations are open to a limited number of candidates selected by the Assistant or Deputy Inspector.

Scholarships.

129. Expenditure.—The amount spent on scholarships in secondary schools in 1921-22 was Rs. 84,533, of which Rs. 76,054 came from public funds against Rs. 79,870 and Rs. 72,014 in 1916-17. The scholarship rules, and the rules for the grant of free-studentships remained unchanged.

Teachers.

130. Numbers.—Although the number of teachers dropped from 20,240 to 19,821 during the quinquennium, the average proportion of teachers to pupils rose from 1 :19 to 1 :16, owing to the large decrease in the number of pupils.

131. Salaries.—The remarks made as to the inadequacy and irregularity in the payment of salaries made in the last review apply equally to-day. In Government schools, much has been done to improve the salaries and status of teachers as set forth in the chapter of this review on the educational system. In aided and unaided colleges, however, the position is much as it was, and the scandal of paper-salaries, exposed in paragraph 187 of the last review, probably still continues, and the slavery of private tuition necessary to eke out the teacher's exiguous income still remains a blot on the system.

132. Provident Funds.—A system of provident funds is under the consideration of Government, for the teachers in Government high schools but few or none of the private schools have a sufficient margin to consider the introduction of such schemes.

133. Manual Instruction.—The scheme was in operation in 21 Government and aided high schools and in 1 middle English school. The charges amount generally to Rs. 75 per month for each school for pay of teachers and contingencies. The work of boys in the Kharagpur Bengal-Nagpur Railway High School is said to be eminently practical and successful. The subjects which are usually taught in these schools are carpentry, spinning and weaving. The Inspector of Schools, Chittagong Division, is of the opinion that the co-operation of the officers of the Department of Industries is necessary for infusing more life and earnestness into the work of the manual training classes, a criticism that suggests that the schools in this division are for some reason unable to get full advantage from the opportunities offered, and that our own inspecting officers are unable to infuse the vigour and interest necessary. At the end of the period proposals were under consideration for extending the scheme to other schools. A carefully devised scheme of manual instruction may possibly go some way to arrest the rapid decrease of pupils in high and middle schools as a result of the non-co-operation propaganda.

The recognition of high schools by the University.

134. Changes in conditions of recognition.—The following changes were made in 1919 in the conditions of recognition of high schools:—

(1) The teaching staff should contain not less than three graduates and not more than two matriculates.

(2) Outside Calcutta, the head master should be paid not less than Rs. 65 a month and no teacher less than Rs. 20.

(3) The library allotment should be Rs. 5 per month instead of Rs. 3.

There is still room for much improvement in the conditions imposed as precedent to recognition.

The Report of the Rajshahi Inspector contains the following significant observations:—

"Recognition has become cheap and shows a tendency to become cheaper still. An impression is gaining ground that it may be had for the asking, seeing that cases are very rare in which it has been refused. Action is taken by the Syndicate, from a distance of more than one hundred miles in the majority of cases, generally on the application submitted by the school authorities, whether supported or not by the departmental officers, who alone may be said to be, and generally are, in a better position to give an opinion or pronounce a judgment. Oftener than not, recommendations of inspecting officers of the department carry little or no weight, and recognition is given to even such schools as scarcely survive the exhilaration of obtaining it. Recognition in fact is considered to be the summum bonum in the career of a school, and all incentive to improvement disappears as soon as it is obtained.

for the authorities of the school are pretty sure that, once granted, it will never be snatched away. When the truth is told by any Inspector, and when his criticism happens to be unfavourable, an outcry is raised that the department is out to annihilate higher education."

135. Future developments.—Secondary education, as preparing for entrance to a University, came within the purview of the Calcutta University Commission. They dealt exhaustively with its defects, and their suggestions for improvement are far-reaching and fundamental. They concern curricula organisation and control, and are so framed as to be essential to the carrying out of the reforms in the University itself. As yet, little has been done, for financial considerations forbid at present any sweeping change. Briefly the recommendations concerning organisation and control are as follows:—(i) the separation of the Intermediate courses from the University curriculum, (ii) the constitution of a new authority to control secondary and intermediate education, and (iii) the establishment of a system of intermediate colleges some of which are to contain the higher classes of present high schools. So far a Board of Intermediate and Secondary Education has been established at Dacca, a step automatically made necessary by the changes in territorial jurisdiction consequent on the passing of the Dacca University Act. Government is at present considering legislation for the constitution of another similar body for the rest of Bengal. Pending that constitution, secondary education bides its time. Thus it may be said that the defects in the system, indicated in the last Quinquennial Review, and repeated at greater length and with a wealth of detail by the Commission, still persist. It is hardly possible in this Review, which should be a report on "Educational Progress," to indicate anything but a sort of negative progress, a standing still, if not a definite retrogression. In Government schools, something has been done to raise the future status of teachers by an increase in salary calculated to attract a better type of man; but the privately-managed school, aided or unaided, is still largely staffed by men little qualified and uninterested in their work, who drift into teaching after failing in other directions, and who are the passive victims of a system which recruits its teachers by the method of appointing the man who, other things being equal, is willing to come on the lowest pay.

Curriculum.

136. Changes.—A certain number of changes have been made in the syllabus for the Matriculation Examination, but as these have been mainly concerned with optional subjects, the curriculum of the secondary school has been affected to a very small extent. Thus the remarks concerning the deadening effect of the Matriculation Examination as the ultimate goal of secondary education, recorded in the last review, still hold good, and until the high school is relieved of that dead weight, there can be little or no progress. The weight must be lightened, or the school must be freed from the obligation to shoulder it. The University itself, realising the alternatives, has perhaps anticipated the second in an endeavour to accept responsibility for the first, by what appears to be a leap in the dark. The Senate has recently passed a resolution which, if carried into effect, changes the medium of instruction from English to the vernacular and puts English into the position held previously in the curriculum by the Vernacular. If carried out, it is hardly possible to envisage the ultimate results educational, social, political, of such a radical change of policy. This decision of the University, if made operative will presumably not bind anybody to which the control of high school education may pass in the near future.

137. The proposed new regulations.—The following are extracts from the draft Matriculation Regulations recently considered and adopted by the Senate, as published in the Calcutta Review:—

"The Matriculation Examination shall be a general test of fitness for a course of University studies.

Instruction and examination in all subjects other than English shall be conducted in the vernacular:

Provided that the Syndicate may, in special cases or class of cases, make exceptions to this rule or postpone its operation for a prescribed time.

* Of this total, 42·6 per cent. were not reading printed books, against 37·6 per cent. in 1916-17.

146. Analysis of statistics.—The above tables disclose certain features of interest in primary education. The central fact is that primary education is decreasing either in popularity or in accessibility, for the proportion of boys in primary schools to the total male population of school age has declined from 17·3 per cent. in 1917 to 17·0 per cent. in 1922. There might, indeed, have been some ground for rejoicing in this decline, if it had been accompanied by a corresponding increase in the popularity of the secondary school. Unfortunately this is not so, for the large decrease in the pupils of secondary schools, a decrease which started in the first year of the quinquennium and which has gathered pace ever since, indicates that there has been no gain on the part of secondary education at the expense of primary. It has been pointed out elsewhere that non-co-operation was a largely operative cause of the unpopularity, probably temporary, of the secondary school; though the figures for each year of the quinquennium, showing as they do a constant decline (399, 682—396, 460—388, 038—380, 225—341, 382—309,844), would indicate that economic distress has been equally operative. With the primary school the case is different. Here non-co-operation, according to the consensus of opinions expressed by Inspectors of Schools, does not enter; it would seem that the relative decline is due almost wholly to war-time and post-war economic distress. On the other hand, there are certain encouraging aspects of the figures. The large increase in the number of lower primary schools more than compensates for the decrease in the number of upper primary schools, so that the area and the numbers of towns and villages served by a primary school have slightly decreased. Similarly, and from the same cause, the average strength of a school is smaller, and thus the slight improvement noted in the last Quinquennial Report has been maintained. Thus in 1912 it was 37·5, in 1917 35·5, and in 1922 32·6.

147. Primary education of Muhammadans.—The progress of Muhammadan primary education is also illustrated, and the progress noted in the last report continues. While Hindus in primary schools have decreased 4·3 per cent. in number, Muhammadans have increased 5·0 per cent. Thus while the Hindus, who in 1917 had 33·3 per cent. of their boys of school age in primary institutions, have now 32·2 per cent., the Muhammadans have maintained their proportion of 29·9 per cent.

148. Decrease in upper primary schools.—The decrease in the number of upper primary schools noted in the last report continues, and for much the same reasons. Many are reduced, owing to the lack of pupils, to the status of lower primary schools; in East Bengal pupils migrate to the nearest high English school, which type of school has increased from 344 in 1917 to 468 in 1922, and the curriculum is supposed to lead nowhere, since there is no school-leaving examination at the end of the primary stage. This latter cause is perhaps the one most operative in making the upper primary school unpopular.

149. Increase in lower primary schools.—The large increase in the number of lower primary schools is due to the provision of panchayati union schools during the quinquennium, to the lowering of the status of many upper primary schools, and to the opening of many new aided schools.

150. Government aid to primary schools.—The primary school system of Bengal is largely one of private effort encouraged by aid from local bodies and the poor pandit with very humble qualifications, who sets up a village school and persuades children to go to it, is perhaps the most useful element in spreading or maintaining primary education. Thus, it will be seen that of the whole system, 81·2 per cent. of the number of schools are aided, while only 8·9 per cent. are under public management, that is, are under the direct control of Government or of municipal or local boards. The tendency during the quinquennium has been the reverse of the preceding quinquennia: in 1912, 5·2 per cent. of schools were under public management, in 1917 9·1 per cent., and in 1922 8·9 per cent.

	Rs.	Rs.

154. Total cost of primary education.—The total cost of primary education during 1921-22 was roughly about Rs. 1,05,38,700, against Rs. 69,24,000 in 1916-17. This includes the cost of primary schools, of the primary department of secondary schools, of maktabs and other schools teaching the primary standard, of buildings, scholarships, pay and allowances of the subordinate inspecting staff and 80 per cent. of the pay and allowances of the deputy inspectors (now replaced by district and subdivisional inspectors).

155. Analysis of statistics of expenditure.—The main table above is chiefly remarkable as showing the increased part taken by public bodies in primary education. In 1911-12 the proportion of public expenditure was 28·7 per cent., in 1916-17 43·4 per cent., and in 1921-22 49·3 per cent. The large increase under provincial revenues is due to the fact that the contributions handed over to district boards are now derived from provincial revenues, Imperial grants being a thing of the past. The subsidiary tables show that the large increases recorded in the average cost per student in an Arts college, or per pupil in secondary schools, are not accompanied by a corresponding increase in the cases of primary schools, with the exception of those under Government management, where the increase is some 40 per cent.

Teachers.

156. Numbers and qualifications.—Teachers employed in primary schools for boys at the end of 1921-22 numbered 44,446, as against 40,169 in 1916-17. Of these 10,685 were returned as trained, against 6,480 an increase of 4,205; those possessing "other qualifications" numbered 30,635, against 28,625, an increase of 2,010, while wholly unqualified teachers dropped from 5,064 to 3,126, a decrease of 1,938. Thus during the quinquennium considerable improvement has taken place in at least the paper qualifications of the primary teacher. In 1917, only one teacher in six was trained; in 1922 one in four. The teachers who in 1917 had no particular qualification for their work are either being gradually eliminated, or have since obtained some qualification by training, for while they numbered one in eight five years ago, they are now one in fourteen. Similarly, the proportion of teachers who have only passed the lower primary examination has decreased from 10·2 per cent. in 1917 to 7·06 per cent. in 1922.

157. Salaries.—If this apparent improvements in the qualifications of primary school teachers had been accompanied during the quinquennium by a corresponding amelioration of their conditions, the outlook for primary education would be brighter than it is. The subjoined table, however, while it records certain large increases in maximum salaries earned, shows many actual decreases in average salary both in privately and in publicly-managed institutions. It remains for time to show whether the suggestions relating to primary education, contained in Mr. Biss's report, will so raise the status of the primary teachers as to remove the anomalies disclosed by the table.

158. Teachers as postmasters.—At the end of 1921-22, there were 556 schools in which one of the teachers was in charge of the postal work of the village in addition to his ordinary teaching work. The remuneration from the Postal Department ranged from Rs. 3 to Rs. 15 per month. At the end of 1916-17 the number of such schools was 673.

Scholarships.

159. Expenditure.—The total expenditure on scholarships held in primary schools for boys and girls during 1921-22 is returned as Rs. 18,658. Of this, Rs. 18,646 came from public funds. The corresponding figures for the year 1916-17 were Rs. 7,359 and Rs. 7,339, respectively.

Night and Continuation Schools.

160. Night Schools.—These are ordinary primary schools held outside the usual hours. The following table gives details :—

161. Continuation Schools.—These are intended for those who have passed the primary school stage, and are divided into two groups, I continuing the work of the primary schools, and II giving some elementary instruction in professional or technical subjects. Continuation schools numbered 112 in 1921-22, with 3,018 pupils against 107 and 2,739 in 1916-17. Group I is growing in popularity, group II has proved more or less a failure. The total cost was Rs. 21,234 against Rs. 14,226 in 1916-17.

Panchayeti Union Scheme.

162. Numbers.—Further extension of the Panchayeti Union Scheme was postponed from 1914-15 to 1917-18 through financial stringency. An Imperial grant of Rs. 5½ lakhs enabled the department to resume operations in 1918-19. It was observed in the last review that to complete the scheme in both parts of the Presidency, 2,450 board primary schools would have to be erected. This table shows the number of board primary schools for which funds were allotted during the quinquennium :—

Years.	For boys.	For girls.	Total.
1918-19	119	30	149
1919-20	102	30	132
1920-21	102	30	132
1921-22	95	25	120
Total ...	418	115	533

163. Progress of the scheme.—The cost of building each school is Rs. 1,000. The recurring cost for a boys' school is Rs. 10 a month and a girls' school is Rs. 10—15. The scheme makes slow progress.

The district boards have their difficulties; contractors are often not willing to take up the construction of a building for Rs. 1,000 while building materials are dear, and instances are not rare in which they have thrown up the work after beginning. Further, the expectations and uncertainties consequent upon the great attention recently paid to primary education have interfered with due interest in this scheme, local authorities being inclined to wait developments and inspectors of schools being helpless in consequence. Despite many defects, the scheme still stands as the best attempt in the history of the province to give the rural areas a network of moderately efficient schools at reasonable cost. These schools are undoubtedly far better than private primary schools, are better housed, and usually better taught. But the teacher's remuneration is not attractive, the aided school teacher often gets more, partly through his own energy in inducing children to come to school, but often because the site of the board school has not been chosen primarily with a view to the convenience of children. The local authority that has to provide the site often chooses one that may most conveniently be spared.

Curriculum.

164. Revision of Curriculum.—As a result of the two conferences referred to in paragraph 278 of the last Quinquennial Report, a co-ordinated curriculum for primary schools has been drawn up and was issued during the quinquennium. The curriculum before final adoption was published in the gazette for criticism, on receipt of which, and of newspaper opinion, the final curriculum was approved by Government and published for general information. The curriculum did not, however, come into operation during the quinquennium for its introduction has been postponed till 1923. It has been also decided that the old curricula should be retained in certain selected districts so as to enable the department to compare the working of the syllabuses side by side. The important point about the new curriculum is the inclusion of teaching of English as an optional subject and the emphasis it lays on the teaching of hygiene.

165. General remarks.—Primary education during the quinquennium has thus marked time, for the increase in the number of institutions and pupils is not even proportionate to the increase of population. The main features have been tentative and sporadic efforts to improve the kind of education given by modifications of curriculum, and two more or less exhaustive surveys of the whole field. One basic fact, often forgotten, is this, that the people of Bengal who send their children to primary schools are willing to pay, and do pay for about half of what they receive. In no great country with an extensive primary educational system is the proportion of fees to total expenditure so high as it is in Bengal, in no other province in India, even, is the voluntary contribution so great as in Bengal. It would seem, therefore, that there is a strong foundation of public opinion, expressible in rupees annas and pies, upon which the fabric of a reformed primary education may be built. It is for the future reformer, also, to consider whether this very practically expressed desire for education, even of the sketchiest kind, is to be suppressed or modified; whether the present system of aided private effort is to be replaced by a uniform system of State education, centralised or decentralised, in which voluntary contributions are to be transformed into a perhaps grudging payment of an educational cess.

166. It is well that the aim of primary education should be kept in view. As expressed in the Quinquennial Review for India (1712—17), it is that a child's education should continue to a stage when he may be regarded as permanently literate. Beyond that, the present system does not pretend to go; beyond that, no new scheme can afford to go. At present, it is probable that, with all the attendant evils which have been pointed out ad nauseam for the last 20 years, the system, even with its misdirected effort and its overlapping and rivalries of neighbouring schools does give to a certain proportion of the population a certain degree of literacy at an extraordinarily cheap rate. The total cost of educating a boy for 5 years in a primary school is Rs. 20. What is given in return may not be the best of its kind, but, considering its price, the marvel is that it should be so good.

167. The worst features of the present system are these:—The basis of its cheapness is sweated labour. And the basis of the two schemes for reform, which have been placed before the public during the quinquennium, still remains sweated labour. Mr. West's double scheme provides two alternatives: (a) where the average salary of a teacher would be Rs. 8 per mensem, and (b) where it would be Rs. 16 per mensem. Mr. Biss says, "I take my stand on a minimum of Rs. 15 per mensem in towns, with a chance of rising to Rs. 30 or Rs. 40 as headmasters, and minimum of Rs. 12 with free board and lodging in country districts with a chance of rising to Rs. 24 in the case of larger schools as headmasters." The Khansama's Union demands Rs. 35 as a minimum monthly wage. Mr. Biss estimates a recurring expenditure for 35 municipalities on staff and contingencies of Rs. 3,85,300 of which eleven-twelfths is expenditure on staff. If teachers' salaries are to be doubled, and thus brought almost up to the level of the khansama's demand for himself, the estimate for these 35 municipalities must be increased by Rs. 3,53,191. This suffices for 37,570 boys. Multiply this sum by forty, and we have nearly a crore and a half of rupees necessary to give the primary teachers of the province an addition to their salary which would make it something approaching a living wage. One is almost forced to the conclusion, therefore, that the present basis of the system must remain what it is; and forced also to rely on the permanence in the social fabric of Bengal of that element which can induce a man to work for the present pay of a primary teacher. The only alternative is to wait for that change of heart which will make people realise that they get for their offspring that kind of primary education for which they are willing and able to pay, to wait also for their realising the truth that the formative years of a child's life should be placed in charge of a person qualified to direct its activities and guard its intellectual expansion. And for Rs. 20 they will get 20 rupees worth and no more.

168. Arising out of this system of sweated labour is the second evil element; the teachers, though possibly the best procurable at the price, are not of the type to which the fundamental education of the people of Bengal should be entrusted. The primary teacher is as essential a cog in the educational machine as is the University teacher, and he should be as well equipped for his task. But the system by which the small proportion of trained teachers in primary schools is actually trained is very much in the nature of the blind leading the blind. It is for consideration whether the present system of guru training schools should not be very considerably modified.

169. Although the suggestions made in Mr. Biss's report are still as a whole under consideration, tentative beginnings have been made with certain selected municipalities and district boards. The reception of the report, as a report, has been almost entirely favourable, but this does not imply any wide-spread ability or readiness to find the funds required, or enthusiasm about the imposition of cesses. Many local authorities enter a very definite non possumus; others request a modification of the incidence of cost in their favour, with a corresponding demand for increased Government aid; while a few have accepted the scheme in full, and have agreed to shoulder the burden of cost.

Primary schools in Calcutta.

170. Numbers.—The returns for Calcutta showed 296 primary schools for boys, with 16,656 pupils on 31st March 1922 against 337 schools with 17,229 pupils on 31st March 1917. The number of Hindu pupils increased, while that of Muhammadans decreased during the period under review. The number of pupils in the primary classes of secondary schools increased from 10,349 to 10,810 or by 4·45 per cent.

171. Teachers.—Of the 475 teachers working in Calcutta in the boys' primary schools, 71 were trained, 23 were matriculates, 128 passed the middle examinations, 9 passed the madrasah central examination, 39 passed the primary examination and the rest were uncertificated. The remarks made in the last Quinquennial Review about the proprietor-teacher held good during the quinquennium 1917—22. The average pay of the teacher of an aided primary school during the quinquennium under review was Rs. 23·5 against Rs. 16·9 in 1916-17, while that of the teacher of an unaided primary school remained almost stationary at Rs. 5·6. The income of the teacher of an aided primary school in Calcutta, Rs. 23·5, is not to be considered very high in view of the facts—(1) that rent for the school-house has to be paid out of it, and (2) that the cost of board is higher in Calcutta than in the mufassal. The minimum rent for a pucca school-house is Rs. 15 a month and that for a tiled hut Rs. 10.

CHAPTER VI.

The Training of Teachers for Indian Schools.

Colleges.

172. General.—There are in Bengal two Training Colleges for men, preparing students for the B.T. degree and for the Licentiate in Teaching, viz., the David Hare Training College and the Dacca Training College. In both institutions the methods of recruitment are similar, three classes of students being admitted: (1) teachers and inspecting officers in Government service, (2) teachers from aided schools, and (3) other candidates desirous of qualifying themselves for the teaching profession. It may be said that the curriculum enjoined upon these recruits demands a standard of general education rarely found among them, and that in consequence time has frequently to be devoted to a sort of preliminary polishing process which leaves less opportunity for purely professional training. Again, the curriculum is conditioned by requirements which seem to have little relation to the requirements of an Indian school, or to the capacities of the candidates whom it was supposed to attract; so that the course, say for B.T., is more or less that for the teachers' Diploma in an English University. The Calcutta University Commission has pointed out that the heavy burden of pure theory in the course is largely valueless, but their recommendations concerning the re-moulding of the course must await the settlement of the general case. At the same time, there is no doubt that the courses are appreciated, for there is an increasing demand for admission, and an increasing eagerness among school authorities to appoint the trained products of these colleges. Thus, in 1916-17, there were 93 students in training, and 118 in 1921-22. This increase is due partly to the institution of L.T. classes at the David Hare Training College. Expenditure has increased from Rs. 95,443, of which Rs. 92,743 came from provincial revenues to Rs. 1,50,942, of which Rs. 1,45,812 came from provincial revenues.

David Hare Training College.

173. From its foundation to the year 1920, the college carried on its work in the face of many physical obstacles. It was housed in quarters entirely unsuited to the purpose; it had an uneasy consciousness of possible eviction streaked by the possible realisation of a long-deferred and ambitious scheme. Eviction came, though the contemplated removal to specially built and spacious premises in Ballygunge resolved itself into the renting of a house in Harrison Road. The move, however, has done away with the old cramped conditions, and has made it possible to have the hostel accommodation beneath the same roof. In 1918 the L.T. class was opened, as a result of the closing of the London Missionary Society's classes for the training of undergraduate teachers in Western Bengal. This necessitated the appointment of an additional professor. The number of students increased from 27 in 1916-17 to 50 (30 in the B.T., 20 in the L.T. class) in 1921-22, while the total expenditure increased, from causes noted above, from Rs. 24,661 to Rs. 61,601, the whole sum in each case being met from provincial revenues.

Dacca Training College.

174. The main feature of the working of the College has been its transfer from the jurisdiction of Calcutta University to that of Dacca University. Thus its students now read for the Dacca degree of B.T., and for the Licentiateship in Teaching, while it also opens its doors to research students for the new degree of Master of Teaching. To some extent, this has led to a broadening of the basis of work, and to a modernisation of methods. Students are allowed a liberal choice in the methods of teaching special subjects: a new subject "The Physical Life of the child," including Physiology, Hygiene and Physical Drill is included, while for B.T. candidates a course in Educational Measurement—"the methods of objective measurement of class-room products and the application of statistical methods to educational problems"—has been added. The History of Education, that ambitious survey of civilisation included in the Calcutta course, has been made a non-examination subject, probably to the vast relief of both lecturer and student. A further improvement has been a valuable extension of the tutorial system, by which a student's fate no longer depends upon the sometimes chance-ruled conditions of an examination spread over a few days, but depends to a much larger extent upon the continuity of his effort throughout his course. Naturally, the transition in the nature of an experiment. To quote the Principal:—

> The present stage of development in the college is somewhat transitional. The new course has started well but needs much further working out. This process is made the more difficult by the fact that educational ideas are at present everywhere very fluid. Five years ago there were clear objectives and the problem was how to attain them: those objectives are now being questioned and nothing finished or positive has replaced them. Any large expansion in the immediate future before the objectives of the college are clearer and its new organisation more consolidated, might be very disastrous. The next quinquennium is likely to be a period more concerned with the searching out of purpose and new means than with multiplication of numbers and courses.

175. Statistics.—Numbers have increased slightly, from 59 (35 L.T., 24 B.T.) to 68 (18 L.T. 50 B.T.) during the quinquennium, and expenditure from Rs. 57,462 (of which Rs. 54,762 came from provincial revenues) to Rs. 89,341 (of which Rs. 84,211 came from provincial revenues).

Training Schools.

(i) First Grade Training and Normal Schools.

176. General.—There are six schools of this grade in the presidency, the same number as five years ago. With the exception of the school at Krishnagar managed by the Church Missionary Society and aided by Government, they are Government Institutions. The number of students rose during the quinquennium from 456 to 469, and the total expenditure from Rs. 87,028 to Rs. 1,16,898, the amount contributed from provincial revenues being Rs. 1,11,117 as against Rs. 82,056 in 1916-17. This has been caused largely by the increase in the stipend given to the students in training.

177. Possible Improvement.—There has been a growing opinion that the work done by this class of training school has deteriorated to such an extent that the expenditure of public money upon it is largely a waste. In Eastern Bengal, where the course extends over two years, the opinion of the inspectors is that the system has been tried and found wanting. "In the first place, the course is short, and not much can be accomplished during this period. Secondly, the inferior quality of the output of middle schools has reacted on the work of these institutions. Thirdly, the course is too low, and the class subjects prescribed are almost precisely of the same standard as that of those the teacher will be called upon to teach." It remains to be seen whether the increased stipend will attract a better type of student, say a matriculate. This is doubtful; formerly the hope of obtaining a junior position in a Government school was some inducement to young men of moderate qualifications to join these schools. This hope having been destroyed by recent reorganisations, staffing Government schools only with graduates, deterioration of quality has been very marked.

178. Reorganisation.—During the quinquennium the question of the reorganisation of the normal schools engaged the attention of the department. The proposals that were formulated may be summarised briefly as follows:—

(1) The initial qualification for admission should be either Matriculation or any higher certificate.

(2) The course should extend over a year.

(3) The rate of stipends in the case of intending teachers should be Rs. 12.

(4) The curriculum should consist of the following :—

COMPULSORY.

(i) Elementary Science.

(iii) Manual Work.

(iv) Principles and methods of training.

ADDITIONAL SUBJECTS.

(i) Bengali.

(ii) English.

(iii) Indian History.

(iv) Geography.

(v) Elementary Mathematics.

Every candidate shall be required to specialise in three out of the five subjects, one of which shall be either Bengali or English.

(ii) Guru and Muallim Training Schools.

179. General.—These schools train teachers for primary schools, the Muallim school especially for maktabs. There has been a large decrease in their number during the quinquennium, from 118 to 102, brought about by the creation of a new type of central training school, which has involved the closing of many smaller ones. Despite this fact, however, the number of students in training has increased from 1,988 to 2,047. The total expenditure in 1921-22 was Rs. 3,02,132 of which Rs. 2,87,333 came from provincial revenues, against Rs. 2,36,174 and Rs. 2,17,986—the figure for 1916-17.

180. Examinations.—The following table gives the number of gurus who have obtained the certificate of the guru-training schools during the quinquennium :—

181. The future of the guru-training schools.—The problem of the training of primary teachers is an urgent one. Two diametrically opposed sets of opinions seem to exist; there is one school that considers that the kind of teaching at present existing in primary schools can be done almost by the light of nature, and requires little or nothing beyond an acquaintance on the part of the teacher with the very rudimentary knowledge which he is required to impart. Opposed to this opinion is that which considers primary education as fundamental, and the preparation of the primary teacher as vital to its success. The upholders of the first opinion demand the abolition of the guru-training school, the upholders of the second look forward to a costly and elaborate system of training. It may perhaps be that here the middle course is most rational and most efficient, for financial stringency forbids, for example, the costly experiment of founding such institutions as the present training colleges, solely for primary teachers, while naturally one must pause before smashing an apparently essential wheel in the educational machine. And yet there seems to have been created a vicious circle which it should not be beyond the wit of man to break. At present the salary offered to a trained teacher in a primary school is not sufficient to attract that kind of man who in an ideal system would be regarded as sufficiently equipped for a teaching career. By holding out the bribe of a stipend, and perhaps by the use of some thinly-veiled compulsion, there are gathered into the guru-training schools a number of teachers whose knowledge of the subjects they teach is little above that of the unfortunate taught. Here they attempt, in one year or in two, to go through the whole upper primary or middle vernacular course with a top-dressing of the Art and Theory of Teaching superadded. There are no foundations on which to build, so that it is not surprising, to quote the Inspector, Dacca Division, that "the actual work done by the trained teachers in primary schools is cruelly disappointing." And it will continue to be so until the pay of the primary school teacher is sufficient to attract men whose initial equipment is sufficient to make the additional professional training of any avail whatever, or alternatively to make them fairly satisfactory teachers of primary schools without any special training. The vicious circle can be broken, at a price which fortunately can be expressed in rupees, annas and pies. The problem is part of the general problem of improving education at all stages, which improvement itself produces teachers of better calibre. Training as interpreted in relation to primary education in Bengal is merely a despairing attempt to supply by special means some part of what is wanting in the teachers' general equipment. Special qualifications acquired through special training have their value, but can never take the place of an adequate general education.

182. The new type of guru-training schools.—Some change has been attempted by the institution of the improved type of guru-training schools, sanction for which was received from the Secretary of State. The scheme contemplates (i) the provision in each subdivision, of a reformed training school with class-rooms and hostels for 40 students, at a cost of Rs. 25,000 for each school; a cost which has now been more than doubled: (ii) the adoption of a course of training lasting for one year, (iii) the improvement of the staff. There are now 22 schools of this new type opened and working, though the scheme is still in an experimental stage.

The training of women teachers.

(i) Training of Women Teachers for Higher Classes of Secondary Schools.

183. There were two institutions of this type in Bengal, the Loreto House Training Class (unaided), which prepared candidates for L.T., and the Diocesan College (aided), preparing both for B.T. and L.T. Concerning these two institutions, certain remarks were made in the last Quinquennial Report. They may be repeated with added point to-day:—

> The existing arrangements for training women teachers for secondary schools are expedients which have been adopted because, in the present financial difficulty caused by the war, it has not been found possible to start the Government training college for women which has been long under consideration. . .

In March 1913, the Female Education Committee of the Presidency considered the question of the secondary training of school mistresses and recommended that a general training college for women teachers should be established in Calcutta. Accordingly in February 1914 a fully representative committee was appointed to discuss details in connection with the establishment of such a training college. Details were settled and a definite scheme was submitted to Government. It was suggested that the college, which should be of the residential type, should be located to start with in rented premises at Ballyganj. The ultimate cost of the scheme was estimated at Rs. 46,724 a year recurring and Rs. 16,160 non-recurring. A sum of Rs. 40,000 was reserved in the recurring Imperial allotment of Rs. 2,44,000 for the purpose and it was suggested that the non-recurring part of the scheme should be met out of the savings in the recurring allotment just referred to. Government generally accepted the scheme but decided to keep it in abeyance owing to financial conditions.

184. Present difficulties.—The scheme remains in abeyance, and the Lady Principal of the Diocesan College repeats in 1922 the complaint made in 1917 as to the hopeless nature of attempting to cover the course in the time devoted to it:—

We lament the shortness of the course; ten months is utterly inadequate for all that has to be done. The theoretical course is stiff, some students' English lacks grounding and so hinders the expression and grasp of the subject in hand. Then so many are realising the importance of Geography, but if they have never studied it in the senior school, much less in College, it is nearly impossible to give them the opportunity of learning to teach it in ten short months. The same applies to History and Nature Work. There is a great demand for trained teachers, but they should be trained, not quickly pushed through a heavy syllabus.

185. Examinations.—The following table gives the result of the work of the two institutions which train women teachers for secondary schools:—

(ii) Training of Women Teachers for Primary Schools and the Lower Classes of Secondary Schools.

186. General.—Some expansion has taken place in the work of training schools of this type. In the Presidency division, three new schools have been opened during the quinquennium, the Bhahmo Girls' Training Class in 1919, the Moslem Training Class in 1919, and the Elementary Training Class of the Baptist Zenana Mission Entally, in 1918. On the other hand, the training class at Bankura, controlled by the Wesleyan Mission, has closed, though with some hope of being able to re-open. In the Dacca Division, the Vernacular Training Class of the Eden High School has been separated and placed on an independent footing. Thus there is a net gain of 3 institutions, 12 as against 9 in 1917. The need for further expansion is indicated in the report of the Inspectress of Schools, Presidency and Burdwan Divisions:—

The schools realise the need for trained women teachers and are always asking us to let them have such teachers. They are willing to provide quarters and to give any salary we suggest, still we are unable to supply even a fourth of the number wanted.

Similarly the Inspectress of the Dacca Circle writes:—

The problem still remains practically unsolved, as the supply of teachers is quite inadequate. It would be advisable to establish training centres at divisional headquarters and at district headquarters where there are already good schools.

Another problem still to be faced is the accommodation of these teachers when trained. Quarters are provided in very few schools and the authorities of the schools do not at present realise their responsibility to teachers out of school hours. If hostels are provided, no responsible person is generally placed in charge and the difficulties arising are numberless.

The primary education of the girls in Eastern Bengal will remain poor, so long as the teacher's question is unsolved. The question of funds does not really affect the conditions of the schools so directly, as even if money can provide the house and accommodation for staff, no teachers are available at present for all the schools that wish for their services.

These comments on present conditions may be accepted as indicating present difficulties, but the want of women teachers is not to be explained only by inadequate training facilities, but also by the general backwardness of women's education, and by a social organization that spares few women for other than domestic lives.

187. Numbers and cost.—In 1916-17 there were 2 Government and 7 aided Missionary Institutions for the training of lower grade teachers. In 1921-22 there were 4 institutions managed by Government and 8 aided by the department. They are enumerated below with the cost to Government directly or in grants-in-aid together with the number of pupils under training for the financial year ending 31st March 1922.

Government Institutions.—(1) The Hindu Widows' Training Class at Ballygunge: 14 pupils, Rs. 11,886.

(2) The Trainnig Class for Moslem Female Teachers, Calcutta: 5 pupils, Rs. 7,572.

(3) The Vernacular Training School for Female Teachers, Dacca: 44 pupils; and

(4) English Training Class attached to Eden High School, Dacca: 1 pupil, Rs. 19,900 in all.

Aided Institutions.—(5) The United Free Church Training Class, Calcutta: 9 pupils; Rs. 2,559.

(6) Lee Memorial Training Class, Calcutta: 15 pupils, Rs. 3,486.

(7) The United Missionary Training Class, Calcutta: 30 pupils, Rs. 7,200.

(8) The St. Mary's Training Class, Calcutta: 10 pupils' Rs. 960.

(9) Baptist Mission Society Elementary Training Class, Calcutta: 15 pupils, Rs. 612.

(10) Brahmo Training Class, Calcutta: 19 pupils, Rs. 8,400.

(11) The Kalimpong Mission Training Class, Darjeeling district: 12 pupils, Rs. 1,200.

(12) The Church of England Zenana Mission Training School, Krishnagar: 26 pupils, Rs. 3,330.

188. Courses of studies and examinations—Eastern Bengal.—The vernacular Training Class at Dacca was separated in March 1921 and placed under the control of the Inspectress of Schools, Dacca Circle. The English Training Class which trains only matriculates or those who have come up to that standard continues to be under the control of the Principal, Eden High School, but the class is not popular.

The following table indicates the number of candidates presented for the examination and the number of successes during the quinquennium :—

189. Western Bengal.—The training classes in Western Bengal prepare girls for junior and senior vernacular teachership examinations conducted by the Inspectress of Schools, Presidency and Burdwan Divisions. These classes follow courses laid down by the Inspectress, under whose general supervision and control they work.

The Law Departments attached to other Arts Colleges as well as the Pleadership classes are no longer in existence. The total number of Law students attending these 3 institutions on 31st March 1922 was 2,439 against 2,912 on the corresponding date of 1917. The total expenditure on the Calcutta University Law College and the Law Department of the Ripon College amounted to Rs. 2,25,647 in 1921-22; the expenditure for the Dacca University Law Classes is included under the head "University."

Medical Colleges and Schools.

193. Colleges, students and expenditure.—At the end of the quinquennium under review the number of medical colleges was two, the same as at the end of the previous quinquennium. On the 31st March 1922, there were 1,584 students on the rolls of the two Colleges against 964 on the rolls on 31st March 1917. The number, therefore, increased by 620 during the quinquennium, and that of the Medical College, Calcutta by 124. ENGINEERING COLLEGES AND SCHOOLS.

The Bengal Engineering College.

196. General.—Higher Engineering training leading to the B.E. degree is confined to the B.E. College, Sibpur, where a course of 4 years at college followed by 1 year's practical training is in vogue. The Public Works Department Reorganization Committee are in favour of lowering the age of entrance and for taking one year from the college course to add it to the period of practical training. The admission standard of most of the present candidates at Sibpur is the I.Sc. First Division or the B.Sc.

197. Students in the various departments.—On 31st March 1922 there were 356 students on the rolls of the college as against 284 on 31st March 1917. The number of Civil Engineer (formerly called Engineer) students increased by 21 and that of Mechanical and Electrical and Mining Class (formerly named apprentice department) students by 54, while the number in the industrial (formerly called Artisan) classes has fallen off during the quinquennium by 3.

198. Classification of students according to race or creed.—The number of students classified according to race or creed in the various departments of the college on 31st March 1922 was as follows:—

	Civil Engineering classes.	Mechanical Electrical and Mining classes.	Industrial classes.
Europeans and Anglo Indians	4	49	...
Hindus	92	151	38
Muhammadans	7	8	3
Indian Christians ...	...	...	3
Buddhists	1	...	...
Total	104	208	44

199. Expenditure.—The total expenditure on the college during the year 1921-22 amounted to Rs. 3,25,965, the cost to provincial revenues being Rs. 2,93,798. The proportions met by fees and other sources were Rs. 30,076 and Rs. 2,091, respectively. In 1916-17, the total expenditure was Rs. 2,33,795 of which Rs. 2,09,750 came from provincial revenues, Rs. 19,233 from fees and Rs. 4,812 from other sources.

200A. B.E. and I.E. Examinations.—In 1921-22, 24 candidates appeared for the B.E. Examination and 12 or 50;0 per cent. passed; 61 appeared for the I.E. Examination and 51 or 83·6 per cent. passed. In 1916-17, 11 candidates appeared for the B.E. and 6 or 54·5 per cent. passed; 37 appeared for the I.E. Examination and 13 or 35·1 per cent. passed. During the quinquennium under review 106 students were presented for the B.E. Examination of whom 66 or 62·2 per cent. passed. For the I.E. Examination, 174 students were sent up of whom 142 or 81·6 per cent. passed. The newly-created Board of Control for apprenticeship training took in hand the revision of the mechanical and electrical classes at the Bengal Engineering College and made arrangements for the apprentices' admission examination to assist workshop authorities in the selection of apprentices and also introduced the improved scheme of training at the Kanchrapara Workshops.

B. Changes during the quinquennium.—The name of the college was changed from Civil Engineering to Bengal Engineering College. It was also decided to retain the college on its present site. An independent water-supply scheme and an improved sewerage system were taken in hand; and a new Assembly and Examination Hall was completed. The apprentice classes were to disappear from the college finally after July, 1922. Th system of appointing practising engineers as visiting teachers on subjects as water-supply, drainage, irrigation and structural engineering, which was instituted during the period under review has met with considerable success.

The Ahshanulla School of Engineering, Dacca.

201. Scope.—The departments at the beginning and end of the quinquennium were:—

Session 1916-17.	Session 1921-22.
(i) Sub-overseer Department.	(i) Lower Subordinate Department.
(ii) Overseer "	(ii) Upper " "
(iii) Artisan "	(iii) Artisan "

The amin department was abolished in the session 1921-22.

202. Students.—On 31st March 1922, there were 375 students on the rolls of the school against 118 on 31st of March 1917. As the artisan department was returned in 1916-17 as a separate school, the latter figure does not include the number on the rolls of that department which then stood at 56.

The former figure includes 78 pupils of the artisan department. Of the 375 students on 31st March 1922, 336 were Hindus, 36 Muhammadans and 3 Indian Christians. On 31st March 1917, there were 108 Hindus, 7 Muhammadans and 3 Christians besides 49 Hindus and 7 Muhammadans in the artisan class. The increase in the number of students is due to the great rush of pupils seeking admission in the Upper Subordinate Department, the Sibpur College having relinquished this course. The pressure for admission has indeed become so great that it has been decided to duplicate all three classes of that department from the beginning of the 1923 session.

203. Improvements.—The school with the workshops was removed to the building occupied by the Secretariat Press and severed all connections with the Dacca College. The Head Master has been styled Principal and an Assistant Principal has been appointed. In place of the Overseer and Sub-Overseer courses, the Upper and Lower Subordinate courses of the Joint Technical Examination Board have been substituted.

204. Examinations.—The following table shows the results of the school at the Overseer and the Sub-Overseer examinations held during the five years of the quinquennium:—

		1921-22.			1920-31.			1919-20.						1917-18.
						Percentage.	Appeared.	Passed.				tage.
Overseer and upper subordinate.	39	33	84·6	42	32	76·2	32	17	53·1	28	20	71·4	.6	29	80·6
Sub-Overseer and lower subordinate.	53	31	58·5	40	23	57·5	42	21	50·0	50	35	70·0	50	40	80·0

205. "B" Classes.—In the beginning of the quinquennium "B" Classes existed in connection with the following schools in the Presidency:—

(1) The Dacca Collegiate School.
(2) The Pabna Zilla School.
(3) The Rungpur Zilla School.
(4) The Rajshahi Collegiate School.
(5) The Khulna Zilla School.

None of these classes were abolished during the quinquennium. They had 108 pupils on their rolls and in the final "B" Class Examination 27 passed out of 43 in 1921-22. In 1916-17 the number of passes was 25 out of 46, the total numerical strength on 31st March 1917 being 165.

206. Mining Education.—This is under the control of the Mining Education Advisory Board with the Chief Inspector of Mines as President. The Board works under the Industries Department. The instruction given is of the three grades, viz., (i) higher instruction undertaken at the Bengal Engineering College, passed students obtaining Colliery Manager's Certificates and getting suitable employment, (ii) part-time classes in coal-fields, at present at three centres—the course extending over two years; the development of these classes was linked with the formation of a school of Mines at Dhanbad, (iii) local classes of an elementary character conducted through the medium of Bengali and held at three centres.

207. Instruction at the Mining Centres.—The returns for the Evening Mining Classes cover the period from 1st April to 31st March and those of the vernacular classes for two months, September and October, during which the respective classes are held. The number on the rolls of the evening classes stood at 198 at the end of the quinquennium under review—an increase of only 12 over the number on 31st March 1917, whereas the vernacular sections comprehended 151 pupils as against 122 during the quinquennium ended 31st March 1917. No fees are charged for the vernacular classes, while the rate of fees for the whole course of the evening classes is Rs. 5. The total expenditure of Rs. 6,109 for the evening classes was met from provincial revenues, Rs. 5,119, and fees Rs. 990. The cost of the vernacular classes was met exclusively from grants from provincial revenues to the amount of Rs. 351. Of the total number of pupils in the evening classes 191 were Hindus, 4 Christians, 2 Parsees and 1 Muhammadan. One hundred and twelve Hindus, 2 Muhammadans and 37 belonging to other non-aboriginal races represented the number in the vernacular classes. Out of 49 candi dates appearing at the Mining Sessional Examination 31 passed.

The Teaching of Surveying.

208. Instruction in Surveying is under the supervision of the Survey Education Board, the President of which is the Director of Surveys, Bengal.

The Mainamati Survey School, Comilla, occupies a most prominent place in the teaching of Surveying. It is under the direct control of Government and has 53 pupils on the rolls. The main building having been struck by lightning and burnt down, the school at present has to be held in buildings of a temporary character. The school has a two years' course and admits Amin students and Kanungoes for training. The first year examination of the school was merged into the Amin examination and both the 1st and 2nd year Examinations are controlled by the Board. Other Survey classes with two years' course lead up to an examination controlled by the Board.

209. Pleaders' Survey Classes and Examination.—These have been regularly held in Bengal and Bihar and Orissa. An improved scheme of training has been put forward. The Principal of the Bihar School of Engineering has been appointed Joint Secretary to be responsible for the Board's work in Bihar and Orissa.

210. Joint Technical Examination Board.—The three years' Upper Subordinate course and a separate two years' Lower Subordinate course are now followed in the Bengal Engineering College and the Ahshanulla School of Engineering, Dacca. Only a limited number of the Lower Subordinate passed men are admitted to the second year of the Upper Subordinate course. Upper Subordinates after passing the examination spend a year on approved practical training on works before getting the complete certificate granted by the Joint Technical Examination Board. The training of Lower Subordinates for whom there is still a considerable demand, is confined to the Dacca School of Engineering and a few improved Technical schools.

The three years' course in the Electrical Engineering at the Bengal Engineering College, Sibpur, leads up to an examination held by the Joint Technical Examination Board and successful students find suitable employment in Electrical Engineering posts without difficulty.

Commercial Schools.

The Government Commercial Institute, Calcutta.

218. Administration.—During the period under review the control of the Government Commercial Institute was transferred from the Department of Education to the newly created Department of Industries. The Institute remained under the charge of Mr. G. K. Sen, Officiating Principal, as a permanent Principal, who is to be an officer in the Indian Educational Service, has not yet been recruited. The institute is rapidly increasing in popularity; and to cope with the increased work it has been necessary to appoint additional lecturers in English, Commercial Geography, Book-keeping and Typewriting. The need for larger accommodation necessitated the removal of the institute to premises at No. 285, Bowbazar Street. There is in operation a system under which other Schools can obtain affiliation to this Institute and can send up candidates for its examinations.

219. Number of Students.—The number of students on the rolls of the institute in the day and evening classes was 287 on the 31st March 1922, against 276 in 1916-17. The following table shows the number of students who joined the different classes during each year of quinquennium under review:—

This course is designed to meet a very pressing need, viz., the efficient training of professional accountants in this country. Mercantile firms are now beginning to take in passed students of this institute. The students who have completed the Commercial Institute Course are also eligible for admission into the Lower Division of the Secretariat and attached offices. The Bengal Chamber of Commerce, the Bengal National Chamber of Commerce and the Remington Typewriter Company have continued, as before, to award prizes to successful students of the Institute in order to encourage the growth of a class of youths well-trained in the actual methods and machinery of business. The officiating Principal notes with pleasure that one of the ex-students of the institute has been taken on the European staff of a big European firm; another ex-student has become a Chartered Accountant.

223. Private Commercial Schools.—Nineteen aided and 18 unaided commercial schools are reported to have been in existence at the end of the year 1921-22; they had 453 and 1,034 pupils, respectively on their rolls. Of the aided and unaided schools, 12 were for girls with 166 pupils in them. The total expenditure on these schools amounted to Rs. 70,370 of which Rs. 20,086 came from provincial revenues.

The Government Weaving Institute, Serampore.

231. Improvements.—(1) A system for the award of Government loans to ex-students at a nominal rate of interest has been instituted to enable them to purchase improved machinery on the completion of their course. The loans are repaid with fair regularity.

(2) To enable the students to keep themselves in touch with the market they are allowed to canvass orders from the local merchants and to do weaving work at the institute under the instruction of their teachers.

(3) Through the agency of the district and peripatetic schools over 5,000 fly-shuttle sleys have been taken into use thus enabling the weavers to increase their productive capacity in a considerable degree.

(4) Dyeing classes have been opened since the year 1918-19.

It will enable a greatly improved training to be provided for apprentices and others employed in engineering work in or near Calcutta, besides forming the nucleus of a technological institute which will provide higher technical training in various subjects. The Government grant to the school was increased during the period under review. Another step in the same direction is the opening of a school at the Kanchrapara Workshops of the Eastern Bengal Railway where educated Indians may take a full course of apprenticeship combined with technical instruction such as will enable them ultimately to attain good positions in mechanical and electrical works. These new developments are being worked up in constant touch with the Board of Control of Apprenticeship Training thus securing a close relationship to the actual requirements of the Engineering industries.

CHAPTER VIII.

The education of Indian girls and women.

233. General.—The last review summarised the problem of the education of Indian girls and women in Bengal thus:—

The field has been well mapped and a comprehensive system has been evolved. . . Is it too much to hope that we shall be able so to order things that the education given will be a reality? There is only one way of accomplishing this, and that is by securing cultured and sympathetic women to work as inspectresses, and in Colleges and Schools, and by giving these women as free a hand as possible. If we determine to do this, and do not shrink from the bill—it will not be an unlimited liability—we shall be giving Indian women a chance.

It is to be seen, whether, since these words were written, we have been "giving Indian women a chance," and whether they have taken advantage of it. On the whole, it may be said that in this particular branch of educational work, the progress has been steady and continuous, despite special circumstances which seem to have reacted more upon girls' than upon boys' education; as for example, the ravages of the recurring epidemics of influenza during the period, which in many cases completely blotted out a good deal of whole-hearted effort. It is pleasant to observe in the words of the Inspectress of Schools, Presidency Division, that "Indian public opinion is slowly changing from its former attitude of positive dislike to the education of women," and is progressing through apathy to cordial co-operation. Thus in the district of Mymensingh, where in 1917 there were 6 aided girls' schools, there are now 39, while in the Chittagong division " the number of Primary Aided Schools has increased to such an extent as to make it almost impossible for one Inspecting Officer to supervise them." The figures, indeed for all primary schools in that division show an increase of 1,108 or 69 per cent.

The Calcutta University Commission.

234. The recommendations regarding the education of women and girls, put forward by the Calcutta University commission, are as follows :—

We have been deeply impressed by the very great importance of encouraging a more rapid development of women's education in Bengal, by the social difficulties with which this problem is surrounded, and by the extremely slight progress which has hitherto been made. But we are of opinion that owing to the directness with which it touches deep social issues, this problem ought to be dealt with by bodies especially conversant with the needs and interests involved.

(i) There should be a standing committee of the Board of Secondary and Intermediate Education to deal with the education of girls, such committee to include women and to be empowered to consult bodies consisting of women only, in which purdah women could take a part.

(ii) An attempt should be made to organise purdah schools for Hindu and Muslim girls whose parents are willing to extend their education to 15 or 16.

(iii) In view of the small number of women candidates for University courses, the intermediate classes should not be separated from the degree colleges for women.

(iv) We realise that an increasing number of women students will require the most advanced teaching that the University can provide. We hold, therefore, as a matter of principle, that women should be admitted as far as possible to the instruction provided or organised by the University. But we recognise that in the special circumstances existing in Bengal, the main provision for women's higher education must be made in distinct institutions and under special direction.

(v) A Special Board of Women's Education should be established in Calcutta University, and should be empowered to propose special courses of study more particularly suited for women, and to organise co-operative arrangements for teaching in the women's colleges, more particularly for the training of teachers and in preparation for medical courses.

(vi) Relations should be established between this Board and the Governing Body of the Lady Hardinge Medical College for women at Delhi.

Pending the constitution of the Board of Secondary and Intermediate Education, pending also legislation concerning the reform of Calcutta University, these recommendations must await decision.

235. Schools and Pupils.—

—	Schools.	Pupils.	Muhammadan pupils.	Hindu pupils.
1916-17	9,520	2,85,398	1,31,380	1,46,224
1921-22	12,280	3,33,870	1,73,989	1,51,523

Thus schools increased 28·9 per cent. and pupils 16·9 per cent. Muhammadan pupils increased by 32·4 per cent. and Hindus by 3·6 per cent.

236. Girls in various stages of instruction.—Over 98·94 per cent. of girls in all schools were in the primary stage in 1921-22, ·47 per cent. in the secondary and ·19 per cent. in the High, against 99·54 per cent., ·45 per cent. and ·17 per cent. in 1916-17.

237. Expenditure.—The total expenditure on schools and colleges was Rs. 17,11,666 of which public funds paid Rs. 10,59,680 or 61·9 per cent. against Rs. 11,13,718 and Rs. 6,90,289 or 62 per cent. in 1916-17.

238. The Inspecting staff.—Two more Assistant Inspectresses have been appointed during the quinquennium, so that the staff consists now of two Inspectresses, each having six assistants. To cope with the increase of work, both Inspectresses consider that a further increase is necessary, more especially to obviate the present system by which much of the inspection of the remote schools is done by men.

Collegiate Education.

239. General.—There are four arts colleges for women, three in Calcutta, the Bethune College, a Government Institution, the Diocesan College, and the Collegiate department of Loreto House School for Girls, one of which is Government aided. In all except the last, there has been a steady growth in numbers. The Bethune College grew from 78 in 1917 to 114 in 1922, and the Principal reports that no further increase is possible without extension of premises. The Diocesan College grew from 50 in 1917, to 71 in 1922. The Loreto House Collegiate department has maintained its numbers—some 16 throughout the period. Here the limit of accommodation has long been reached, nor does the system adopted in the Convent admit of larger numbers. The fourth institution is the Intermediate department of the Eden High School for Girls at Dacca, founded automatically on the disaffiliation of the School from the University of Calcutta, consequent on the establishment of the University at Dacca. The department was started on short notice, and at present teaches only English, history, logic, Sanskrit, mathematics and Bengali. Students on the 31st March 1922 were 12, in the first-year class.

240. Examinations.—The following table gives the successes of women at the university examinations during the quinquennium:—

The Bethune College.

241. General.—The increased numbers noted above reflect the increased usefulness of the institution. This has been achieved in the face of constant difficulty due largely to lack of accommodation. As the Principal says—"The buses are crammed; the hostel is crammed; the lecture rooms are crammed." She outlines a scheme for extension both of hostel and lecture-room accommodation, and justifies her appeal for increased funds by the fact that every year she is forced to reject many applications for admission both to the college and to the hostel. The increasing demand for a scientific education, noted among men-students is also being made by women, and the Principal bases upon this her claim that the college be affiliated in chemistry and physics to the intermediate standard, a claim which at the end of the period was not far from acceptance. During the quinquennium the college has been the subject of much discussion, and in 1918 a Committee was appointed to consider the whole question of its future, though financial considerations here as elsewhere make large expansion at present impossible. However, Government has accepted certain principles upon which possible advance may be made, e.g., (i) that the school staff should, as far as possible, be composed of women, (ii) that certain extensions of premises should be made, though so far only a small building for science teaching has been added, and (iii) that a revised curriculum should be introduced, though the settlement of its details must await the constitution of the Board of a Standing Committee for female education to be formed in accordance with the recommendations of the Calcutta University Commission.

242.—Affiliation.—During the period, the college received further affiliation in English (honours), Sanskrit (honours), economics (pass), mathematics (pass) and botany (pass). Thus it is affiliated to the honours standard in English and Sanskrit, to the pass standard in Philosophy, History, Bengali and Botany to the intermediate standard in logic.

243. Staff.—Increased affiliation has led to a considerable increase in staff, there having been added 4 lecturers to the staff, as it stood in 1917, of a principal, 3 professors and 4 lecturers.

*244.—Examinations—

	Candidates appeared, 1921-22.	Candidates passed, 1921-22.	Percentage of passes, 1921-22.	Percentage of passes for Quinquennium 1912-17.

From fees and other sources ...	10,368	4,692

The average annual cost per pupil was Rs. 555 in 1921-22 as against Rs. 461 in 1916-17, of which Government paid Rs. 506 and Rs. 424, respectively.

246. The Diocesan College, Calcutta.—Here again the story must be repeated of possible expansion and greater usefulness handicapped by want of money. Increased numbers have entailed increased hostel accommodation, and two new outside hostels have been leased and opened. The Principal reports an encouraging and growing interest of the students in social questions, and a very satisfactory development in the physical side of the college life. But the financial outlook is black. The recurring grant of Rs. 7,200 is expended in salaries, as also the hostel grant of Rs. 720. The additional hostel grant of Rs. 4,320 does not cover the rent of one of the new Hostels. Despite raised fees, despite the fact that the post of Principal is an honorary one, the position of the college is precarious, dependent as it largely is upon the generosity of a religious community. This is unfortunate, for the College is working towards a high ideal, and its staff is highly qualified and devoted to that ideal.

247. Loreto House, Calcutta.—Since 1917, the college department has been affiliated to the B.A. standard, and though the number sent up for this examination is small, there is a very consistent record of success.

Secondary Education.

248. High Schools.—The quinquennium has seen the failure of an experiment made after much anxious thought and careful preparation. The matriculation examination has long conditioned the curriculum and methods of secondary schools, even those for girls. It is unnecessary to labour here the peculiarly inappropriate nature of such a course, but some idea of its fulility may be gathered from the fact that in an average year of the quinquennium 1912-17 there were some 2,700 girls in high schools; these girls were all being taught according to a curriculum laid down for an examination which in 1916, 65 girls passed, of whom only about half proceeded to a higher University Examination. To remove this anomaly, Miss Brock endeavoured to concentrate in one or two schools all preparation for the matriculation examination, thus leaving other schools to give a more fitting education to their girls which should include hygiene, nursing, needle-work, cookery and domestic science. The missionary authorities keenly appreciated the value of the suggested change. Thus, the Baptist Zenana Mission, and the Wesleyan Mission agreed to send their girls to the London Missionary Society School for the Matriculation Course. Christ Church Girls' School and the United Free Church School joined forces to teach the new curriculum; in each case the experiment was a failure, deplorable indeed, but unavoidable so long as public opinion demands the matriculation examination as a sacrosanct test of the excellence of a high school education. Thus a well-planned, well-proportioned common-sense scheme has failed because it was not in accordance with present opinion. The schools have reverted to their original status as defined by the matriculation course. It was pointed out by Mr. Hornell in 1917 that the necessary preliminary, in an examination-ridden country, to a decently-planned course for girls' secondary schools, is an examination, " inaugurated by Government and conducted by a recognised public authority, a test which can be adjusted to the varying needs of the different classes of pupils." The five intervening years have seen the fundamentally reconstructive recommendations of the Calcutta University Commission in this respect, but the state of affairs is exactly as it was when the above words were written.

249. Numbers.—There are 13 high schools for girls, 8 in West Bengal, 5 in East Bengal, as against a total of 14 in 1917. Although the middle English school for girls at Barisal has been raised to the status of a high English school, yet the number of high schools has fallen because of the ill-success of the scheme mentioned above, as the Wesleyan Mission High School, Barrackpore, has become a middle school. The Gardener Memorial School also closed permanently in 1918, through financial reasons connected with the war. Miss Brock wrote in her report for 1918-19 :—

> It was a private institution, which had gradually been deteriorating and the closing of it can hardly be considered a misfortune, more especially as I believe the girls belonging to it have all found their way to other high schools.

The natural result has been the still further overcrowding in Calcutta of the remaining 8 schools. Thus in the 13 schools at the end of the quinquennium there were 2,744 pupils including 104 boys, as against 2,059 in 14 schools in 1917. Of these 639 girls were in the high stage of instruction, against 488 in 1916-17.

250. Expenditure.—Expendiutre rose from Rs. 2,15,967 of which Rs. 1,12,673 came from provincial revenues, to Rs. 3,24,795 in 1921-22, of which Rs. 1,55,111 came from provincial revenues.

251. Middle Schools.—The declining popularity of middle schools for boys is not observable in those for girls. As the Inspectress of the Presidency Division remarks :—

The middle schools are most important, for few Hindu and Muhammadan girls study beyond this stage. They now form a distinct class of schools of a superior type, and in almost all of them there are trained and qualified head mistresses, and the majority of teachers are trained. Very sound education is being given in these institutions, and they are highly appreciated by the people.

Although in Eastern Bengal the Inspectress is not so unqualified in her praise, she reports steady progress in most of these schools under her control. And this advance is shown also by the figures.

252. Institutions and pupils.—In 1922 there were 28 middle English schools with 3,509 pupils and 29 middle vernacular schools with 3,100, a total of 6,609 pupils, against 20; 2,585; 30; 2,923 and 5,508, corresponding figures for 1917.

253. Total expenditure on secondary schools for Indian girls.—The total expenditure on secondary schools for Indian girls and women was Rs. 5,84,889, against Rs. 3,75,537 in 1916-17. Public funds contributed 50·2 per cent., fees 23·4, and other sources 26·4, against 51·2 per cent., 16·9 per cent., and 31·9 per cent. in 1916-17. The cost per head rose from Rs. 53 to Rs. 64, the disproportion between the cost of educating a girl and a boy, noticed in the last review, continuing, the corresponding figures for boys being Rs. 19 and Rs. 28.

Primary Education.

254. Schools and pupils.—There were in 1922, 196 upper primary schools and 11,955 lower primary schools for girls, with 12,188 and 255,430 girls. Upper and lower primary schools for girls, on the 31st March 1917 were 228 and 9,134 with 13,129 and 197,162 girls. In boys primary schools there were 55,076 girls, against 64,484 in 1917. Thus the total number of girls in primary schools increased from 274,775 to 322,694 or 17·4 per cent.

255. Management.—Of the 12,151 schools, 153 are under public management, the rest being generally aided by Government, municipalities or district boards.

256. Expenditure.—The total expenditure on primary schools for Indian girls was Rs. 8,45,232 of which Rs. 6,01,638 or 71·2 per cent. came from public funds, against Rs. 5,85,562 and Rs. 3,99,410 or 68·2 per cent. in 1917. Thus expenditure increased by Rs. 2,59,670 or 44·3 per cent. the contribution from public funds increasing by Rs. 2,02,228.

257. Cost of maintaining a primary school.—The average cost of maintaining a primary school for girls was Rs. 69·5 in 1921-22, against Rs. 62·6 in 1916-17, public funds contributing Rs. 49·5 and Rs. 42·7. The figure is low in comparison with that for a boys' school, because the separate girls' classes in many boys' schools are returned as girls' schools, and for them the pandit receives only a small extra payment, and few girls pay fees. Thus again, the cost per head is low, Rs. 3·3 in 1921-22 against Rs. 2·9 in 1916-17.

258. Types of primary schools.—At different times, various types of primary schools for girls have been established, between which the main difference is the source of aid. Both Inspectresses deplore the condition of most of them in building and equipment, especially of those aided by district boards, though gradually by the establishment of district board or panchayeti union model schools, the standard is rising. Model schools, managed by the department through a Consulting Committee, have made the status of their teachers more attractive, there being two grades with maxima of Rs. 110 and Rs. 90. The peasant girls' schools in the Presidency Division continued their work in backward and remote districts.

259. Imperial grants.—During the quinquennium whatever extension and improvement in the primary education of women and girls have been made were brought about largely with the help of Imperial allotments. Thus in 1918-19, apart from other minor schemes, may be mentioned (a) an increase of Rs. 2 in the pay of the teachers in schools aided by local bodies; (b) an addition of Rs. 34,000 per annum in the grant-in-aid allotments of the Inspectresses; (c) provision of funds for the extension of panchayeti union schools and for the construction of model school-houses. These grants were continued although the Imperial allotments ceased in 1920-21

260. Curriculum.—Although much discussion has taken place; no change has been made in the curriculum for primary schools, and East and West Bengal use the unco-ordinated curricula in use during the previous quinquennium. Certain revisions will, however, take effect from January 1923, though for purposes of comparison, the old curriculum will be followed in certain selected districts. It may, however, be wondered whether it would not be wise to have fewer rules and less prescription of curriculum for girls' schools other than those controlled by university syllabus. Girls have so few years of school, public opinion is so uncertain as to what their education should include, and teachers with a wide range of capacity are so few, that it is for consideration whether schools should not within generous limits be permitted to decide their own curricula with reference to local opinion and the capacity of the teachers available, subject always to the one condition that the chief subject shall be the girl's own language, literature and traditions. If they can be given a love for this during their short school life they have been given a permanent possession which will be of inestimable benefit to themselves and their children.

261. Needlework.—The scheme by which needlework is taught by peripatetic mistresses has worked well, though additional funds are necessary for increased travelling allowance and for the increase in the grant of one rupee sanctioned to those schools taking the subject. In the towns, the needlework has much improved, and an increasing number of girls compete in the Lady Carmichael Needlework Diploma Examination.

262. Scholarships.—There has been no change in the system for the award and payment of scholarships. The following table gives the number available for girls only:—

		East Bengal	West Bengal.

Co-education.

263. Girls in boys' schools, and boys in girls' schools.—In 1921-22 girls in boys' secondary schools were 343, and boys in girls' secondary schools 409, as against 320 and 251 in 1916-17. The girls in primary schools for boys were 55,076 and boys in primary schools for girls were 2,709 as against 64,484 and 3,788 in 1916-17. In special and other schools for boys there were 284 girls as against 425. Girls and women in all classes of public institutions for men and boys were 55,703 on the 31st March 1922, as compared with 65,229 in 1917. In the last review the question was raised as to the advisability of encouraging co-education in Bengal, despite its unpopularity. The situation is unchanged, there being still the system by which girls in the remoter districts unprovided with a girls' school come to the boys' school, or the pandit of the boys' school holds, or is supposed to hold separate classes before or after ordinary school hours, receiving in either case extra remuneration. The figures show that, with the establishment of more girls' schools, the tendency is to remove girls from boys' schools, thus giving point to the concluding opinion of the last review, that "where a separate girls' school exists or could be established, no encouragement whatever (should) be given to pandits of boys' schools to admit girls."

The Education of Muhammadan Girls.

264. Girls in public institutions on the 31st March.—

		Muhammadans.	All other classes.	Percentage of Muhammadans to total number of girls.
1917	...	131,380	154,018	46·0 per cent.

265. Muhammadan girls in public institutions on 31st March.—

—	Arts Colleges.	High Schools.	Middle Schools.	Primary Schools.	Special Schools.
1922	2	76	389	173,160	362
1917	2	36	205	129,341	1,796

The progress of primary education among Muhammadan girls is well illustrated by these tables for the total increase in numbers is largely due to them. In 1921-22, of the total number of Muhammadan girls and women in public institutions, 99·5 per cent. were in primary schools, against 98·4 per cent. in 1916-17.

266. Girls in private institutions.—In 1921-22, 6,899 Muhammadan girls were in private institutions, against 9,099 in 1916-17. Of these, 6,534 were in Koran schools, against 7,393 in 1916-17.

267. The desire for education.—Both Inspectresses comment on the increasing desire among Muhammadans to send their girls to school. In the Presidency Division, 9 Muhammadan schools and 30 maktabs are receiving grants-in-aid, and many are applying for them. Since 1920, 19 primary scholarships have been reserved for Muhammadan girls, two middle English and two middle vernacular.

Zenana Education.

268. Future of Zenana Education.—There seems to be a consensus of opinion that the results of Zenana Education are not proportionate to the expenditure of public funds. The system makes little progress, very largely because the house-to-house visits, favoured by the women themselves and their relatives, are not conducive to economy of effort. Again, the standard reached by the pupils is very low, which is natural when it is realised that few of the teachers can teach beyond the lower primary standard. Here again the problem is largely financial, for low salaries and inadequate conveyance allowances do not make the post of a Zenana Teacher attractive. Yet it is not certain that other and better teachers would be available if pay were improved. In all branches of women's education a fundamental difficulty is that the supply of teachers of any sort is very limited. And yet as the Inspectress of Dacca Division remarks, "the success of these classes depends entirely on the personality and attainments of the Governess; where these are of a high order, the classes are an assured success. But the work is most discouraging, and the results generally not apparent. However, without the Zenana Governess many girls would miss the little education they have." This last sentence seems to sum up the matter; Zenana education must be a temporary make-shift till such time as "with the spread of primary education in Bengal every girl will have the chance of receiving primary education before her marriage." But there would still remain room for such an institution as that at Krishnagar, where married women may study beyond the primary stage.

274. Distribution of schools and pupils according to management.—

Armenian	...	1	...	116	...	1·08
Total ...	79	87	9,634	10,702	100·00	100·00

It will be seen that the preponderance in the number of schools and of pupils maintained by Roman Catholic authorities, noted in the last review, still continues.

Professional education.

Collegiate education.

276. General.—There were 38 European and Anglo-Indian students in arts colleges (21 men, 17 women) in 1921-22, against 25 (8 men, 17 women) in 1916-17. As stated in the last two reviews, " Collegiate Education for Europeans, as a thing apart from the collegiate education of Indians, is practically non-existent." In this connection, it may be well to quote the opinion of the Calcutta University Commission—" Separate institutions for University and Technological training should not be provided for Europeans and Anglo-Indians, because the expense of such provision would be prohibitive, and because it is desirable that, intending as they do to earn their livelihood in India, these younger members of the European domiciled community should be brought into association, during the years of their University and Technological training, with the young Indians with whom afterwards they will be brought into association in business or in other ways." On the other hand, " the domiciled European community should have effective representation upon the Governing Body of the University of Calcutta, ... and suitable residential accommodation should be provided in the University towns for students belonging to the domiciled community in order that the new opportunities for University education may be effectively opened to them."

279. Examinations.—The following table gives the results for 1921, the last year for which complete statistics are available, of the various examinations at which pupils in European Schools appeared:—

(a) Including the expenditure (Rs. 1,00,534 in 1917, and Rs. 75,614 in 1921-22) on the Boarding Departments of Victoria and Dow Hill Schools and the Training Class, Kurseong, all of which are Government institutions. The balance (Rs. 1,59,362 in 1916-17, Rs. 2,74,821 in 1922) was paid in free boarding grants.

* The decrease is due to the fact that in 1921-22 certain posts of teachers were vacant and the number of students was also very small.

284. Analysis of statistics.—The tables and figures given above show :—

(a) A considerable increase in the number of non-European children in European schools. This is explained partly by a belief that European schools give a better training, partly by the circumstances that the habits of many non-European families are such that their children are more at home in European schools. As will be shown later in this chapter, there has been much discussion over the functions which European schools should perform. The attempt to subdivide our educational system into two sub-systems, Indian and European, based on purely racial distinctions, has largely broken down : there is a steadily increasing pressure for the admission of non-Europeans which many think it desirable to encourage, regarding habits of life rather than difference of race as the proper basis of organization.

(b) A general unsatisfactory standard of work, as judged by examination results, particularly in the higher stages. The domiciled European is so handicapped by his environment that failure to achieve at school what he sets out to do is likely to react on his whole future.

(c) A considerable increase of expenditure. The general rise in the cost of living would have added largely to the cost of maintaining schools if there were no other necessity than to maintain former standards. But the great changes in the interpretation and practice of education that have come about in England in the last few years have begun to react on schools in India, and standards of work must be raised if the European in India is not to fall irretrievably behind the rest of his race.

285. General.—The quinquennium has been a time of great stress for the European and Anglo-Indian community and its schools, and little advance has been possible. Education, always largely a charity, has been more than ever busied with the charitable aspect of its work at a time when the resources of charity were diminished. The quinquenium also saw new political arrangements and adjustments which will react upon the community, and force it to strenuous efforts for improvement if it is to hold its own in the new conditions. In particular there must be more and better advanced work in schools and a greater readiness to take advantage of the opportunities of University study if the youth of the community is to hold its own in the competitive examinations recently instituted in India for the various Government services. There has developed no small body of opinion as to the suitability of the Cambridge examinations for European schools in Bengal. The matter being sub judice cannot be examined here. But it should be noticed that the University of Calcutta does offer to boys and girls of European schools generous opportunities, allowing them to graduate in two years after passing their higher school certificate, or alternately in four years after passing the school-leaving or senior local examination. It may also be noticed that only 7 pupils were presented for the higher school certificate in 1921, of whom 3 passed. It cannot be argued that the community is taking full advantage of its opportunities. The disinclination of boys and girls to stay in school after the age of 16 or 17, and the disinclination or inability of parents to keep them in school, is in great contrast with Indian practice. The difference in size in most schools between the Cambridge senior first and second year classes is a persistent cause of depression with teachers, who are more alive than pupils and their parents to the truth that no community can take a proper share in the responsible work of a country unless its youth is willing to undergo many years of discipline and preparation.

286. Definition.—The definition of European for the purposes of education remains unchanged, though it has received much attention. A new definition having been introduced for political purposes, it has been strongly contended that this should be adopted universally. A reference to this effect has been made to Government, but up to the present has not been accepted; should it be accepted, it will be necessary either to recast the code for European schools, or to make special arrangements for children excluded from these schools by the definition. Hitherto practice has been generous rather than precise, as these extracts from the report of the Inspector of European Schools show:—

The fact must not, however, be overlooked that there are large communities which, with the present definitions, used in our Code, have the right of access to these schools and which have enjoyed that right for a very long term of years. Amongst these individuals there are some who can make more than a merely nominal claim to be European or to be at least a product of the economic and social intercourse between Europe and Asia. In Calcutta, and in some few places in Bengal, children of these places are to be found in large numbers. The Kintals in Calcutta are full of children having a mixed parentage of European and Chinese, or some subvariant of the same, whilst the child of mixed parentage who, in name at least, claims descent from the first European nation to find the eastern sea-road is to be met with as frequently in Bengal as perhaps in any other province in India.

Then, again, we find in these schools large numbers of children from communities which may perhaps be termed quasi-European. Amongst these we find first the Armenians. It may be convenient here to refer to the original charter given in the days of the old East Indian Company which granted to the people of that race equal rights and privileges with the English, and which enjoined particularly that such rights and privileges were to be considered as given in perpetuo. In spite of that charter, the Armenian, though found in most of the European schools of the province, is classed as non-European. There are also the communities which adhere to the Jewish faith. These people, though all Jews, are yet not the whole community: in Bengal we have European Jews, and Jews of an undoubted Asiatic parentage. Hitherto these have all been classed as non-Europeans, and as such, with the Armenians and the Parsees have been generally placed under certain disabilities in respect to the regulations of the Code for European Schools in Bengal.

Thus then the term European School, as used in the report, possesses a very wide connotation. Such schools educate children of pure European descent, those of mixed descent, and those who belong to particular communities; they educate children who belong to various social classes. We find in them children whose parents are substantially well-off or who occupy important positions in the world of commerce and trade, we find also children of a very poor agricultural population, and we find children of parents who form merely a residuum of the casual workman type. These schools, while varying in social classes, vary too in grades according to the nature of the education they offer. In this way European education in this province presents a problem, diverse, complex, but ever interesting, the importance of which cannot be lightly passed over by any who desire to see a full and complete realization of the dawn of which the political horizon appears to give promise.

287. Classification.—The former classification of higher secondary, secondary, higher elementary and elementary has given place to the classification: higher secondary, secondary, higher grade, primary. The higher grade school gives an education of a practical nature, complete in itself, tending to equip a boy or girl to be able to take some definite position in life as soon as he or she leaves school. It does not aim at turning out a skilled craftsman: but like the central schools that have been instituted in England, aims at giving a good general education with a bias towards some particular kind of work, and it claims that because of the good general education and the particular bias its pupils are likely to be better craftsmen. Not all elementary schools can develop at once into this type, or perhaps wish to develop. The higher grade school teaches a curriculum designed for infants and classes I to VI, and in addition one or more of the practical courses prescribed for these schools (in classes VII and VIII), and it has been decided to allow a term of five years in which schools shall arrive at a decision whether so to develop or to remain elementary schools.

288. Secondary schools.—These formerly prepared pupils for the Cambridge senior, junior and preliminary examinations. In the previous quinquennium the preliminary was for educational reasons dropped, and the cycle increased by the adoption of the higher local examination for selected pupils. In this quinquennium the Cambridge Syndicate has from 1918 established a further examination called the higher school certificate examination, and has decided to eliminate the higher local. It has also in recent years introduced regulations for the subdivision of the old senior and junior local examinations into the senior certificate A, the senior local, the junior certificate and the junior local examinations, the certificate examinations being controlled by more rigid conditions. The new higher school certificate examination, to be prepared for by the thorough study of a selected group of subjects and a more general study of selected subsidiary subjects, is at once the completion of a good general education and for those who proceed to a University an entrance to more thorough and scholarly study, and in present circumstances offers the secondary schools of Bengal an admirable opportunity ty of developing the work at the top of the school. The University of Calcutta has been generous and alert to appreciate the innovation, and in the terms here quoted in full as valuable and interesting regulations has offered facilities to the European schools which may serve to bridge the present gap between European education and University education. As the statement is not infrequently heard that the University does not encourage European students to join the University, we wish to record our view that, whatever basis there may have been for this belief in the past, the facilities now offered are generous, and, if accepted, will do much for the higher education of the domiciled community.

289. Regulations regarding recognition of the local examination of the Cambridge University by the Calcutta University.—The Regulations are as follows:—

I. (a) That a student who has passed the Cambridge Senior Local Examination in English Composition and Literature (Arithmetic, Geometry, Algebra), Mathematics, a classical language and any two of the following: History, Geography, Trigonometry with Analytical Geometry or Calculus; Applied Mathematics, Chemistry, Physics, Experimental Science, Physical Geography, may, for the purpose of admission to the examinations, and courses of this University, be regarded as having passed the Matriculation Examination (provided the requirements of the existing regulation about age are satisfied).

(b) That in the case of women, the classical language be interpreted as any language other than English or an Indian vernacular and Mathemtics be as Arithmetic ...her with Botany or Physical Geography.

(c) That any non-European applying for exemption from the Matriculation Examination under the foregoing regulation may, at the discretion of the Syndicate, be required to give evidence or proof of proficiency in his vernacular.

II. (a) That a student who, having passed the Matriculation Examination of this University or of any examination that may be recognised as equivalent to the Matriculation Examination of this University, and who, after a further course of study recognised as satisfactory by the University, has passed the Cambridge Higher School Certificate Examination in Group II offering (1) Latin or French or German or an Oriental classical language; (2) English including (a) Shakespeare, (b) English Literature, (c) Prescribed Books, in the English Essay compulsory on all candidates, and in two of the following subsidiary subjects: (i) Logic, (ii) Mathematics (3 papers); (3) English History or English Colonial History or Modern European History or Greek History or Roman History (any two); (4) Physics or Chemistry or Botany or Physical Geography, shall, for the purpose of admission to the courses and examinations of this University, be regarded as having passed the Intermediate Examination in Arts.

(b) That any non-European applying for exemption from the Intermediate Examination in Arts under the foregoing regulation may, at the discretion of the Syndicate, be required to give evidence or proof of proficiency in his vernacular.

III. (a) That a student who, having passed the Matriculation Examination of this University or any examination that may be recognised as equivalent to it, and who, after a further course of study recognised as satisfactory by the University, has passed the Cambridge Higher School Certificate Examination in Group IV offering (a) either Physics or Chemistry or Experimental Science with Botany or Elementary Biology or Physical Geography and Geology, (b) Subsidiary subject—English Literature (with compulsory English Essay), (c) two of the following subsidiary subjects: Mathematics (3 papers), Botany, Physical Geography, may, for the purpose of admission to the courses and examinations of this University, be regarded as having passed the Intermediate Examination in Science.

(b) That any non-European applying for exemption from the Intermediate Examination in Science under the foregoing regulation may, at the discretion of the Syndicate, be required to give evidence or proof of proficiency in his vernacular.

IV. That while the present rule as to age for admission to the Matriculation Examination of this University remains in force exemption granted under these regulations shall not entitle any one to sit for the Intermediate Examination under the age of eighteen years, and the final under the age of twenty years, and that any modification of the present rule shall be followed by a suitable modification of this regulation.

V. That the existing regulations granting exemption under certain conditions from the Matriculation and Intermediate Examinations to students who have passed the Cambridge Senior Local Examination shall be applicable only to those who have passed this Examination in or before 1918.

Little advantage has yet been taken of this offer; the reason is to be ascribed to conditions other than disabilities inherent in the Examination System of the European Schools. It is hoped that the Dacca University will adopt the same policy.

290. Changes in examinations.—A further modification of examination procedure calls for notice. It was formerly necessary, in order to fulfil certain requirements of the European Schools Code, for all candidates at the Cambridge Examinations in Bengal to take a vernacular test. This was for many years purely departmental, and the attitude of some schools towards it was insincere and inconsistent with discipline. Recently the Cambridge Syndicate has consented to include in its curricula a scheme whereby candidates in India may be examined in the languages, classical and vernacular, of the country. These languages are now an intrinsic element in the Cambridge Examinations, to the great advantage of their teaching and study. In Bengal, Bengali or Hindi or Urdu is usually chosen. It is early to expect results of the innovation, but the courtesy of the Cambridge Syndicate is very much to be appreciated.

291. Consequences of change.—In order adequately to discuss the probable consequences of these changes a conference of the heads of European secondary schools were held in February 1922. The decisions may be summarised thus. A considerable body of opinion existed against the elimination of the junior examinations, but it was agreed that the schools should advance one stage and be graded as follows:—(a) Higher Secondary—preparing pupils for the Senior Certificate and the Higher School Certificate; (b) Secondary—preparing pupils for the Senior Certificate. This was under consideration at the end of the quinquennium.

292. Revision of the Code.—The regulations in force are in many respects inadequate to present conditions. Development of opinion and practice has been great since they were framed in 1910 and it has long been felt that improvement is possible. Various conferences have been held, to deal with this and other matters, and some progress towards adequate revision had been made by the end of the quinquennium. The most important questions are:—

(a) Whether the rule limiting Indians to 15 per cent. of the total roll should be modified or abrogated. The conference of February 1922 recommended—(1) that all limitations on the admission of non-Europeans into European schools should be eliminated from the Code, (2) that the school authorities be the sole judges as to the percentage of non-Europeans which they are prepared to admit, (3) that in boarding schools such non-Europeans as are admitted shall conform to the arrangements which the school is able to make for them, (4) that in the Code Jews and Armenians be classified as Europeans and (5) that scholarships awarded under the Code for merit in competition should be open to all pupils in European schools without any limitation of nationality.

(b) Whether scholarships and stipends given for any reason other than or in addition to merit as judged by school work should not be restricted to schools of a particular type or types, e.g., to schools which are of the nature of orphanages or charity schools.

(c) Whether there should not be a regrading of schools according to the work done and the examinations taken, with a view to bringing European schools in Bengal into closer correspondence with standards and practice in England.

(d) Whether an attempt should be made to develop European secondary schools, or some of them, into intermediate colleges working in affiliation with the University of Calcutta, and looking also to the Dacca University, where a Hall or Hostel might be instituted to encourage Europeans and Anglo-Indians to study for University Degrees—a view strongly urged by one influential section of the community.

These, and other proposals, are under consideration.

GOVERNMENT INSTITUTIONS AT KURSEONG.

Dow Hill Training College.

293. Numbers.—It is satisfactory to record that the Training College in 1922 reached once again its full complement of students. These figures show the number of students during the quinquennium:—

Year.	1917-18.	1918-19.	1919-20.	1920-21.	1921-22.
Number of senior students	8	10	7	7	9
Number of junior students	10	8	9	5	8
Number of students who passed out and obtained their certificate—
Seniors	8	8	6	4	2

This present desire of women to qualify as trained teachers is particularly encouraging in view of the great need which still exists for trained teachers.

294. New schemes.—A question which has recently been carefully discussed and which is of far-reaching importance is the need for ensuring that the students in training shall obtain higher academic qualifications. For this purpose the value and suitability of the Cambridge Higher School Certificate Examination has been specially considered. This would on all accounts seem to be the most suitable in that, while it demands a suitable standard of attainment, it has already been accorded a degree of recognition both in England and in Bengal to justify its selection for the purpose in view. It is hoped that the scheme which is now being fully elaborated may soon be operative. One essential feature will be the need of extending the training from two to probably three years. Another scheme under discussion, initiated by Miss Davies, the acting Principal, contemplates the training of a limited number of Indian girls who will be accommodated in a cottage specially constructed and arranged for them, where they can live in their own way, while in all respects members of the college. This association, it is believed, will be good for all concerned. Details are not at present fully worked out but the scheme is of special interest in relation to the proposals for free admission of non-Europeans to European schools.

Dow Hill School for girls and Victoria School for boys.

295. Building schemes.—There are three main points under which the progress of these institutions may be summarised: expansion, staff, control—

(a) During the quinquennium, schemes of expansion involving additional buildings have been considered and worked out in detail. These concern in one case both schools, while each institution has separately developed its own programme of expansion. In the first place reference may be made to the joint hospital which has been recently completed for both schools, and which stands on its own flat in a position between Victoria and Dow Hill. It consists of a centre block with two wings. The centre block contains quarters for a sister-in-charge and two nurses, together with the necessary medical and surgical administration rooms. The north wing, containing in its two storeys four wards in all, is for the girls of Dow Hill School. The south wing which has equal accommodation is for the boys of Victoria School. Upon the same flat are also the necessary kitchens, godowns and servants' quarters and other out-houses.

(b) Amongst building schemes which concern primarily one or other only of the two schools may be mentioned that for rehousing the servants of the Dow Hill School. This has been completed and the servants are now housed in these new and excellent quarters. This is not only a sanitary measure, but makes possible a further extension at Dow Hill, the effect of which will ultimately be to increase the boarding accommodation up to a maximum of 250 girls.

(c) Owing in part to the munificent donation of Rs. 10 lakhs made by Sir Percy Newson towards European and Indian Education it has been possible to work out plans for a new dormitory building at Dow Hill School. Of that sum, Rs. 2 lakhs was, with the approval of the donor, set aside for this purpose, and the remainder, amounting probably to some Rs. 3½ lakhs, will have to be found from other sources. Orders have been given that a start should be made with the erection of the new building according to the plans which have been approved, but it will be possible at first only to put up as much of the new building as the sum immediately available will pay for; this will provide accommodation for some 60 girls with quarters for matrons. It is hoped, however, that the whole scheme may shortly be completed. At present owing to lack of accommodation numbers of applications for admission have to be refused each year, and the school has in consequence an inordinately long waiting list of those seeking entry. That, however, may be a cause for satisfaction. In the one respect it is valuable evidence that the school is doing good work, and supplying a much felt need, and that the scheme of expansion is fully justified.

(d) At Victoria School plans have been prepared and accepted for the conversion of the old commercial block into a preparatory school for small boys who will thus be separated in all matters from the boys in the main boys who will thus be separated in all matters from the boys in the main school. The work was actually started in 1920-21, but owing to lack of of numbers in the main school, and is therefore to be considered as urgent.

(e) In addition to these schemes there are others, some of which have been completed and some which are still awaiting an allocation of funds. These are chiefly schemes for minor alterations or for the erection of smaller additional buildings the necessity of which arises out of the general scheme of expansion.

(f) Among the schemes which deserve attention in the future, two may be especially stated. Victoria School will require to be re-roofed, very probably in the ensuing winter. This must be considered as very urgent. Another imperative need is for further accommodation at Victoria School for staff, and more particularly must adequate provision be made of quarters for married masters, a matter which is receiving the attention of the Governing Body.

296. Staff.—During the quinquennium the necessity of reorganizing the staff at the two Government schools at Kurseong has been continually urged. The former terms of service under which they were engaged acted very hardly in the case of the assistant teachers. with the result that, when in the early part of the quinquennium prices made a very considerable rise, their case became acute and it was impossible to fill the vacancies that occurred. In 1918, therefore, an immediate measure of alleviation was given by means of compensatory local allowances, and it was understood that this temporary measure should not prejudice nor postpone a complete reorganisation of the staff. During 1921-22 that was finally carried into effect with the result that the assistant teachers are now in a satisfactory position. The following is the brief resumé of the scheme adopted and now in force:—

The reorganisation scheme—General.

1. All posts are now regarded as outside the graded services.
2. Teachers already on the staff, if appointed to a specialist post, started on the minimum of that scale: if put on any other scale, at one increment above the total of their previous pay and compensatory local allowance.
3. All salary scale now represents consolidated pay and local allowances have been abolished.

Three Lecturers on Rs. 400—20—600.

Suitable provision of a similar nature has been made for the subsidiary and clerical staff, while the scale of pay for menials has also been put on a sound basis. In the case of the teaching and the subsidiary staff these scales of pay carry with them the right of free furnished quarters, but there is no provision or allowance for board. The reorganised scales were introduced early in 1922 with retrospective effect from 1st of September 1921.

297. Control.—The quinqennium has seen a considerable change in the system of control of these two schools. Government have recently appointed Governing Bodies representative of various interests with powers of control and administration similar to those of certain other Governing Bodies of Government educational institutions. These Governing Bodies held their first meeting in May 1921. The full Board meets twice a year, usually in May and October. At the second meeting last year, a Standing Committee was appointed consisting of the Inspector of European Schools, the heads of the two schools and all the local members of the Governing Body. This Committee, meeting once a month, transacts on behalf of the Governing Body all the necessary current or urgent business. The meetings of this Committee have been very well attended and great benefit has resulted from this arrangement.

A further measure in control may be mentioned. In the reorganization scheme of the staff of the Dow Hill Training College and School it has now been finally stated that the Lady Principal will be in charge of both the Training College and the School, and that will be when the school has 250 pupils.

298 (A) The Sussex Trust.—In 1918 Mr. (now Sir Percy) Newson made a gift to Government of 10 lakhs of rupees for these purposes :—

(1) One lakh to establish a scholarship or scholarships for a European boy or boys at a University or other place of higher education in the United Kingdom.

(2) One lakh for a similar scholarship for a European girl.

(3) One lakh to provide opportunities of higher education for European and Anglo-Indian boys and girls.

(4) One lakh to assist selected students of the Bengal Engineering College to opportunities to higher engineering education in the United Kingdom.

(5) Two and a half lakhs to be transferred to the Irish Christian Brethren to enable them to build an orphanage for Anglo-Indian boys. This is approaching completion on an excellent site at Asansol.

(6) Two lakhs towards the cost of additional dormitory accommodation at Dow Hill School, Kurseong.

(7) One lakh for the establishment and maintenance of a primary school for Indian boys in Calcutta.

(8) Rs. 50,000 for the education of children of the depressed classes.

These endowments enabled the Director of Public Instruction, who is Administrator of the Trust, now known as the Sussex Trust, to send during the quinquennium 5 arts students to Universities in England and 4 engineering students to Engineering firms in England, and to give other opportunities to a large number of boys and girls in India.

298(B) Bruce institution.—The control of the institution is vested, as previously, in a board of 12 governors, of whom 7 are appointed by Government and 5 are ex-officio. The Director of Public Instruction is the Honorary Secretary to the Board.

299. State scholarships for Europeans.—Four were awarded to candidates from Bengal, 1 to a boy for the study of History at Oxford, 1 to a girl for the study of Modern Languages at Oxford, and 2 to girls for the study of Medicine in London.

The capital funds of the institution now amount to Rs. 10,69,400.

300. The Calcutta Domiciled Community Enquiry, 1918-19.—This Enquiry which calls for notice in a report on education, had its origin in correspondence that took place in 1918 between the late Right Reverend Bishop Lefroy, Metropolitan of India, and Mr. J. H. Hechle, relative to the desirability of measures for a closer co-ordination of effort in dealing with the social problems affecting the community. A main committee of eight gentlemen was appointed in a public meeting in July 1918, and other committees and sub-committees were subsequently appointed. A complete survey of the conditions of the community was made, and the report completed by December 1919, under the headings—General, Housing, Education, Technical Education, Employment, Health and Physique, Crime and Drunkenness, Available means of Relief, Hostels. The report has been printed by the Bengal Secretariat Press, and is a valuable basis for the consideration of all matters relating to European education. The findings under the heads of Education and Technical Education may be conveniently quoted from the conclusions with which the report begins.

Education.

Findings :—

(a) No child is debarred from attending school.

(b) The education provided gives the children of the community little chance.

Recommendations :—

(1) Preparatory schools should be strengthened.

(2) Elementary education to be simple and practical, with the object of turning out skilled workers.

(3) Secondary and university education—greater facilities needed.

(4) Curricula in all grades of schools should be lightened. Object: to secure greater thoroughness.

(5) Teaching in all grades of schools should be more practical.

(6) Correlation of the work of schools with the requirements of employers, with special preparation for livelihood, but should not be allowed to curtail a complete course of general education. No independent employment should be open to boys and girls below the age of 16.

(7) With regard to teachers it is essential—

(a) that a lay teaching profession be created by a proper and efficient system of training and by prohibiting schools from employing other than qualified teachers;

(b) that to obtain such men and women a career must be offered;

(c) that, therefore, the present scale of salaries must be completely revised;

(d) that a system of compulsory provident funds be introduced;

(e) with regard to (c), the special importance of expedition in the introduction of reform is urged; and

(f) Government must be looked to for assistance.

Findings:—

(a) Defective general education in very many cases makes assimilation of technical knowledge impossible.

(b) Various proposals made since 1886 for meeting the need for technical instruction.

(c) Apart from Sibpore the only progress made has been by private agency—

(i) in Railway and Engineering workshops;

(ii) in the Calcutta Technical Evening School founded and maintained by private agency, assisted by Government and housed in a Government building.

(d) Favoured treatment neither possible nor desirable.

Recommendations:—

(1) Improvement in general education given in schools. This is a sine qua non.

(2) The creation of the Technical Education Board in Calcutta.

(3) The establishment of a Central Technical Institute in Calcutta controlled largely by employers of apprentice labour.

(4) The absorption of the Calcutta Commercial Institute by the Technical Institute and the opening of the branches of instruction, as need arises in textiles, tanning, forestry, telegraphy, etc.

CHAPTER X.

The education of Muhammadans.

301. Proportion of Moslems to students of all creeds in general institutions.—

—	Arts Colleges.	Percentage.	Professional Colleges.	Percentage.	High Schools.	Percentage.	Middle English Schools.	Percentage.	Middle Vernacular Schools.	Percentage.	Primary Schools.	Percentage.	Total.
1916-17	1,639	8·8	308	6·8	45,179	20·5	54,039	33·2	8,258	34·1	680,278	49·5	789,691
1921-22	2,175	12·8	440	9·4	28,928	14·9	28,207	25·1	3,948	28·7	755,553	52·6	819,251

302. Stages of instruction.—This table, which deals with institutions and not with stages of instruction, shows the curious phenomenon that while in Arts Colleges and Primary Schools, Moslems have increased both absolutely in number and relatively in proportion to students of all other creeds, in the intermediate stages they have lost ground. An analysis of the figures for stages gives the following percentage of Moslems in the various stages of instruction to students of all creeds:—

	1916-17.	1921-22.
High stage	19·7	17·1
Middle stage	24·3	20·9
High and Middle stages combined ...	22·0	19·0
Primary stage	46·6	49·5

The difference between the percentages in the two tables is due to the fact that in high and middle schools there are primary classes.

303. Inspection of maktabs.—The Director of Public Instruction, Bengal, submitted to Government proposals for withdrawing one Sub-Inspector of Schools from the general staff in one district in each of the five divisions and for placing all the maktabs in the district under his charge. Government sanctioned the introduction of the scheme as an experimental measure for 3 years in the districts of Howrah, Murshidabad, Dacca, Tippera and Rangpore.

304. Recognition of old course madrasahs.—During the quinquennium the Dar-ul-Ulum madrasah at Chittagong and the Islamia madrasah at Noakhali were temporarily recognised for the purpose of sending up candidates for the Central Madrasah Examination.

305. Elimination of old course from Government madrasahs at Dacca and Chittagong.—The old course of studies was completely eliminated from the Dacca and Chittagong madrasahs during the quinquennium.

Hostels for Muhammadan students in Calcutta.

306. Continuance of the Taylor Hostel.—The period of 5 years for which the non-collegiate Muhammadan Hostel was opened by Government at No. 61/1-C., Wellington Street, under the name of "Taylor Hostel" in July 1915 having expired, the Government of India sanctioned its continuance for another 3 years.

307. Carmichael Hostel.—A non-collegiate hostel under the name of "The Carmichael Hostel" under the control of the University was opened in 1918, with accommodation for 184 boarders.

308. Revision of the course of studies for the junior department of madrasahs.—On the suggestion of the Assistant Director of Public Instruction for Muhammadan Education Government sanctioned in January 1918 the formation of a committee to consider the revision of the courses of studies for the junior department of madrasahs sanctioned under Government Resolution No. 450 T-G., dated 31st September 1914, and to revise the list of text-books prescribed under the resolution. The committee met in February 1918 under the presidency of the Assistant Director of Public Instruction for Muhammadan Education, Bengal, and made certain suggestions with regard to the course of studies and text-books prescribed for junior madrasahs. The recommendations of the committee with a few exceptions were accepted by Government and a revised syllabus for the junior department of madrasahs came into force in 1919.

309. Maintenance grants for madrasahs.—During the quinquennium an additional sum of Rs. 1,15,000 (Rs. 25,000 in 1917-18, Rs. 25,000 in 1918-19, Rs. 30,000 in 1919-20 and Rs. 35,000 in 1920-21) was provided for grants-in-aid to madrasahs under the reform scheme. There were no new grants for these institutions during 1921-22, but as the number of madrasahs has increased considerably and as the scheme is an expensive one additional grants will be necessary.

310. Conference of Special Assistant Inspectors.—During the quinquennium a conference of five Special Assistant Inspectors of Schools was held in Calcutta on the 4th and 5th of July 1921 with the Assistant Director of Public Instruction for Muhammadan Education as President. They passed various resolutions which are under the consideration of the Department.

311. Opening of Special Islamic Intermediate Classes and the Institution of Islamic Intermediate Examination.—The scheme for the establishment of the Islamic Matriculation Examination in 1919 and the holding of an Islamic Intermediate Examination from 1921 were sanctioned by Government in General Department letter No. 61 Edn., dated 25th April 1918.

312. Islamic Matriculation Examination.—The Islamic Matriculation Examination under the reform scheme was held in 1919 for the first time, Dacca being the only centre ; 42 candidates appeared, of whom 27 or 64·29 per cent. were successful. A second centre was opened at Chittagong in 1920. In this year 50 candidates appeared and 29 passed, and in 1921 46 appeared and 35 passed.

The first year Islamic Intermediate Class was opened at the Dacca Madrasah in July 1919, the second year in 1920; the students first appeared at the Islamic Intermediate Examination held in April 1921, Dacca being the only centre Eighteen appeared and 16 passed.

All these examinations were conducted by the department with the assistance of an Advisory Board, and certificates were granted by the Director of Public Instruction, Bengal.

313. Transfer of the control of the Islamic Matriculation and Intermediate Examinations from the Director of Public Instruction to the Intermediate and Secondary Education Board, Dacca.—The control of the Islamic Matriculation and Intermediate Examinations was transferred to the Intermediate and Secondary Education Board, Dacca, when this was instituted.

Mohsin Fund.

314. Conversion of the Mohsin Fund grant for short-fee payment into stipend.—The system of short-fee payments was found to be unsatisfactory. As the number of Muhammadan students has considerably increased since the system was introduced, the amount available could not meet any appreciable portion of the fees payable by the Muhammadan students in schools and colleges. It was therefore decided that the object of the grant would be much better attained by giving some material assistance to a few boys rather than by giving small sums to a large number of boys. The amount available has accordingly been converted into 75 college stipends of Rs. 5 a month tenable for 2 years, 2 technical stipends of Rs. 5 for 3 years, 113 school stipends of Rs. 4 for 1 year, and 114 school stipends of Rs. 3 for 1 year. Several Mohsin scholarships of different values were formerly reserved for students of Government madrasahs at Dacca, Hooghly, Chittagong and Rajshahi: these have been converted into stipends of Rs. 5 a month. These stipends together with others—those sanctioned for madrasah students—were redistributed to Government and private madrasahs.

315. Reservation of scholarships for Muhammadan girls.—There was formerly no scholarship reserved for Muhammadan girls, but in 1920 the following were reserved:—

2 Middle English scholarships out of 18.

2 Middle Vernacular scholarships out of 16.

17 Lower Primary scholarships out of 158.

316. Separation of the Hooghly Madrasah from the control of the Principal, Hooghly College.—The Hooghly madrasah and the Hooghly College being in the same building the madrasah was formerly under the general control of the Principal of the Hooghly College. This was altered in 1922. The madrasah is now under the control of its own Superintendent.

317. Calcutta madrasah.—In February 1915, a committee was appointed to revise the curriculum of the Calcutta madrasah. The committee met in July 1915 and drew up a report but in such general terms that no action could be taken. In February 1920, Government again appointed a committee to enquire into the general conditions of the madrasah and to make proposals for improvement. The Committee's report has just been received.

318. Junior madrasah examination.—During the quinquennium the junior madrasah examinations were held annually. In 1918 the examination was held in March: 203 candidates appeared, 94 passed; in 1919 in February, 343 appeared and 135 passed; in 1920 the examination was held twice—once early in January and once at the end of December: 490 appeared at the first examination, 221 passed; and 650 at the second, 460 passed; in 1921 the examination was held in November: 532 candidates appeared and 463 passed. The examination has been held a little earlier every succeeding year, so that it may ultimately be held in October and the results published in December before the madrasah session begins in January.

CHAPTER XI.

Education of Special Classes.

(A) Education of Chiefs and Nobles.

319. Nawab Bahadur's Institution.—The only institution of this nature is the Nawab Bahadur's Institution at Murshidabad, where boys of the Nizamat family are taught. They reside in a special hotsel managed by a European, assisted by a qualified Mussalman. The number of boys, 26, was the same in 1921-22 as in 1916-17, while the expenditure from provincial revenues was Rs. 4,400, against Rs. 3,740 in 1916-17.

(B) Education of Backward Classes.

320. Numbers.—The following table gives, according to the census of 1921, the approximate numbers of persons included in the castes or tribes which are regarded, in terms of the Government of India's orders, as depressed:—

A.—Depressed classes proper.

	Caste or tribe.	Number.		Caste or tribe.	Number.
1.	Bagdi	895,319	12.	Kora	29,881
2.	Bauri	302,891	13.	Mal	117,403
3.	Bhuinmali	79,605	14.	Muchi	413,578
4.	Bhuiya	59,936	15.	Munda	98,628
5.	Bhumij	78,795	16.	Namasudra	1,997,441
6.	Chamar	150,689	17.	Oraon	201,430
7.	Dhoba	226,681	18.	Pod	588,394
8.	Dom	149,450	19.	Santhal	710,775
9.	Dosadh	39,261	20.	Sunri	92,229
10.	Hari	148,329	21.	Tiyar	175,721
11.	Kaora	110,651

*B.—Aboriginal and Hill tribes.

	Caste or tribe.	Number.		Caste or tribe.	Number
1.	Chakmas	54,362	4.	Hajangs	25,016
2.	Garos	42,728	5.	Koches	46,619
3.	Hadis	26,212	6.	Tipras	35,950

*C.—Criminal tribes.

	Caste or tribe.	Number.		Caste or tribe.	Number.
1.	Bediyas	8,503	3	Kaoras, 24-Parganas ...	64,483
2.	Gains	380	4.	Lodhas	7,403

* In paragraphs B and C the figures quoted in Government of Bengal, General Department letter No. Edn. 7, dated 2nd January 1917 have been reproduced in the absence of the census figures for 1921.

321. Total number of pupils of depressed classes.—

—	1916-17.		Total.	1921-22.		Total.
	Boys.	Girls.		Boys.	Girls.
Arts Colleges	194	...	194	197	...	197
High Stage	2,022	...	2,022	1,368	...	1,368
Middle Stage	2,684	23	2,707	1,928	27	1,955
Primary Stage	70,861	8,908	79,769	80,080	11,183	91,263
Special and Indigenous Institutions.	1,293	42	1,335	1,586	183	1,769
Total ...	77,054	8,973	86,027	85,159	11,393	96,552

Thus it will be seen that against a large comparative decrease in the number attending high and middle schools—a decrease corresponding with the dercease in the number of pupils in classes other than depressed—must be set a very substantial increase in the number attending primary and special schools. This indeed is one of the most gratifying features of the quinquennium, for it shows that classes hitherto almost inaccessible are coming within the influence of new forces.

Education of Namasudras.

322. Numbers.—

	1916-17.	1921-22.
Arts Colleges	100	144
High Stage	1,489	1,025
Middle Stage	1,690	1,117
Primary Stage	37,225	45,978
Special and indigenous Institutions ...	601	1,009
Total ...	41,105	49,273

Thus the advance of primary education among Namasudras noted in the last quinquennial report is steadily continued, and Mr. Hornell's remark, that " their present position in education and their present social advancement bring them under a higher category " than that of a depressed class gains added point. The drop in the numbers of Namasudras in the higher stages of school education is a part of the general decline of higher education in the province, and is probably due to the same causes, though less to political than to economic. The community is raising its status rapidly, and, arguing mainly from its consistent educational advance, is constantly making out a case for being regarded as other than backward. There are special hostels for Namasudras at Dacca, Perojpur and Jhalakati attached to Government schools. Efforts are also made to provide separate accommodation for them in aided and unaided schools. It has been reported from the Bakarganj district that a number of schools—high and middle—have recently been started by the Namasudras for their children. The community was helped by the Depressed Classes Mission and Christian Missionary bodies.

Education of Santhals.

323. General.—The Boards of Sonthal Education in the districts of Midnapore and Bankura, formed during the previous quinquennium continued their work, both advisory and executive. The recurring grants made to these bodies were, in 1921-22, Rs. 25,158, as against Rs. 10,257 in 1916-17. During the quinquennium similar schemes were sanctioned for the district of Dinajpur. In Dinajpur, however, six out of ten new schools sanctioned have been built and opened, while the houses for two more schools have been constructed; two special lower primary scholarsiphs created, and a recurring grant of Rs. 3,924 made by Government. It is probable that a modification of arrangements including a special ad hoc committee with wider powers, would lead to greater improvement.

324. Education of other backward aboriginal and criminal classes.—(I) In Dacca Division, the Inspector reports:—

Of the 1,012 pupils of aboriginal and hill tribes the Mymensingh district returned 870. They were mostly in schools among the hill tribes living at the foot of the Garo hills. The progress of Hajangs and Garos was noticeable. The former had four boys in the high and eight boys in the middle stage of instruction. The latter had one boy in each of these two stages. In the same district there were 39 schools including six managed by the district board, chiefly intended for the aboriginal and hill tribes. One of these schools was of the middle English school status. The number of these schools on 31st March 1917 was 30. The Mymensingh District Board, the Australian Baptist Mission and the Society for the Improvement of Backward Classes contributed towards the maintenance of these schools. The Baptist Mission managed 9 primary schools attended by the hill tribes.

It may be interesting to note that 29 Dhupi, 10 Bhuinmali, 13 Tiyar and 3 Muchi boys were in the high stage of instruction. There were two special schools for Muchis in the Dacca district. One Muchi boy of the Dacca district was elected to a Middle Scholarship. There were two schools, one boys' and the other girls', in the town of Faridpur, taught by Buna teachers. The boys' school had 15 pupils and the girls' school 11 pupils under instruction.

(II) In Chittagong :—

All the schools in the Chittagong Hill Tracts are chiefly meant for aboriginal classes who form the majority of the population. Except the Rangamati High English School and two training classes at Rangamati and Chandraghona, others belong to the primary class. The Rangamati High English School had 193 pupils on its roll in 1921-22 and cost Rs. 21,325 against Rs. 10,219 in 1916-17. There were 172 primary, 3 special and 38 indigenous schools for aboriginal pupils. Of the two training classes, one was attached to the Government high English and the other to an aided middle English school, both for the benefit of the Hill Tracts. There was one hostel attached to the Government high English school (which accommodated 50 free boarders) and three attached to primary schools. Besides the above, 1 unaided high English school at Ramu, 12 primary schools for Arakani Maghas (5 under Government and 7 under private management), and 37 Keyaung schools in the Cox's Bazar subdivision, one primary school in the Chittagong municipality and 2 Tipra schools in the district of Tippera were also intended for the aboriginal pupils. The total number of aboriginal pupils was 3,309 against 2,243 in 1916-17.

Education of fishermen.

325. Dacca district.—The Inspector reports:—

There were three special primary schools for the children of fishermen in Dacca district. Instruction was given in these schools in boat-repairing and net-making in addition to the three R's. Boys in these schools were taught free and the poorer boys were supplied with books and other necessary materials. These schools received grants at special rates from the department and the district board. Besides these three schools, the fishermen of the district had four other ordinary primary schools for the education of their children. The total enrolments in these 7 schools were 275. The total cost to Government on account of the Fishery Schools was Rs. 583.

Education of children of labourers in tea-gardens and in factories.

326. Jalpaiguri.—Tea-estate schools decreased from 67 to 37. Of these 5 were Government-managed or A class schools, 19 aided or B class schools, 13 unaided or C class schools. Pupils were 538. The cost to Government was Rs. 1,901, and to the district board Rs. 524.

327. Darjeeling.—In Darjeeling tea-garden schools were 57 against 69 in 1916-17, and pupils 1,332 against 1,380. Generally a tea-garden school gets Rs. 12 a month from Government on condition that the manager of the estate contributes Rs. 8 a month and provides house and furniture. The total cost of these schools amounted to Rs. 9,496 including Rs. 5,256 from provincial revenues. The total expenditure in 1916-17 was Rs. 8,839 including Rs. 5,802 from provincial revenues. The decline in numbers is attributed to the general depression in the tea-market, and the prevailing distress which compelled many of the children to leave school and work as whole-time labourers.

328. Education of children employed in factories.—There were three schools exclusively meant for the education of these children; of these two were started by the authorities of the Rifle and the Metal and Steel Factories at Ichapur. The third school is at Titagarh. The maktabs and primary schools in the mill areas are mostly attended by the children of mill hands, and by children employed in the mills. Their number in 1921-22 was 2,500 against only 1,000 in 1916-17. Near the Titagarh Mills in the 24-Parganas there is a Telegu Primary School where Telegu children employed in the factory learn the three R's.

329. Educational facilities in the colonisation areas in the Sunderbans.—The scheme formulated during the previous quinquennium for improving primary education in the colonisation areas in the Sunderbans materialised during the quinquennium. Ten primary schools under the management of the Bakarganj District Board were started and 194 Magh pupils, including 10 girls, attended them.

Education of defectives.

330. Calcutta.—In Calcutta, the Deaf and Dumb School and the School for Blind Children have been transferred to the control of the Director of Industries. The work of the former school, long carried on by the enthusiasm of its Principal, Mr. J. C. Banerji, continues to develop despite his lamented death. There is a scheme under consideration for the removal of the School for the Blind from its present restricted quarters to ample accommodation in the suburbs. The education of deaf-mutes is carried to the Upper-Primary stage, while the blind add cane-work, basket-weaving and music. There were 429 pupils in the 4 schools of this kind, against 420 in 1917.

331. Dacca and Barisal.—There are two schools for deaf-mutes in the Dacca Division, one at Dacca, one at Barisal, both now under the control of the Director of Industries. Together, they had 36 pupils, against 25 in 1917.

332. Children's Home, Kurseong.—In 1918, the first school in India for deficient children was opened by Miss De Laplace at Kurseong. This school trains children who through physical or mental defects are unable to profit by the instruction given in an ordinary school. They are taught by means of special apparatus, special exercises and special discipline suited to the nature of each individual case, and already remarkable results have been achieved. Government pays a monthly grant-in-aid of Rs. 150, in addition to a capital grant of Rs. 30,000, made in 1919 for the purchase of a site.

333. Education of criminal tribes.—Owing to their nomandic and unsettled mode of life these tribes are not susceptible to the influence of education. An industrial settlement for one of these tribes called the Karwal Nats has been started at a place near Saidpur in the district of Rangpur. The management of this settlement has been placed in the hands of the Salvation Army, to which the payment of an annual grant-in-aid is made by Government. The average population of the settlement is about 214 adults and 89 children; various industries, such as weaving, carpet-making, etc., are taught.

334. Education of Jain students.—According to the returns the number of Jain students on 31st March 1922 was 727. Of these 9 were in arts colleges; 120 in secondary schools; 124 in primary schools; 47 in special schools and 427 in private institutions.

CHAPTER XII.

Private and Indigenous Institutions.

335. Numbers.—There were 1,840 private institutions, with 55,437 pupils, against 2,269 with 62,920. They include many types of school, teaching advanced courses in Arabic or Sanskrit, teaching the Koran, and giving extremely elementary knowledge through the vernacular; though there are also nondescript Middle and Higher Schools, which though not conforming to departmental standards, reach a fairly high level of efficiency. Thus the "private" institution ranges from such a foundation as the Santiniketan at Bolpur, under the guidance of Dr. Rabindra Nath Tagore to the primary school of less than 10 pupils. The decrease in numbers is due to the desire on the part of small Koran and elementary vernacular schools to come within the pale of recognition, and this desire is being fostered by the department, in pursuance of a policy of improvement.

336. Indigenous Sanskrit education.—As a result of a conference held in 1913, Government constituted in 1918, a Calcutta Sanskrit Association, with a Council consisting of fifteen ordinary members, two being elected by the pandits of East and West Bengal, the remainder nominated by Government, and five additional members, scholars trained in Western methods, also nominated by Government. The main body of the Association is called Convocation, and consists of a maximum of 500 members, whose suggestions relating to the encouragement of Sanskrit learning, when reported upon by the Council, are submitted to Government for consideration. Thus the Association is the general agent and adviser of Government in all matters concerning indigenous Sanskrit learning, it conducts examinations, grants titles, and performs in general all the functions previously assigned to the Sanskrit Examination Board. As a result, the tol is gradually coming within what might almost be called departmental standards, though there still remain many of the old type in which the Adhyapaka himself confers the titles.

CHAPTER XIII.

Physical and Moral Training.

337. Conditions of residence and discipline—General statistics of hostels or boarding houses.—(1) For Indian Students.—There were 836 hostels or boarding houses for Indians at the end of the year 1921-22 with 21,680 boarders against 746 with 20,903 in 1916-17. Of the total number of hostels at the end of the year 1921-22, 238 with 6,002 inmates were under public management, 244 with 6,199 inmates aided, and the rest unaided. The cost to Government was Rs. 2,60,379 against Rs. 1,43,929 in 1916-17.

(2) For European Students.—There were 45 hostels or boarding houses for Europeans and Anglo-Indians with 4,670 boarders at the end of the year 1921-22 against 35 hostels with 4,513 boarders at the end of 1916-17. Of these, 2 hostels with 301 boarders were managed by Government, 39 with 3,822 boarders aided and the rest unaided. The cost to Government was Rs. 3.50,435 in 1921-22 against Rs. 2,59,896 in 1916-17.

338. Statistics of hostels in Calcutta for Indian students.—In Calcutta there were at the end of 1921-22, 79 hostels with 4,830 boarders against 72 hostels with 3,749 boarders at the end of 1916-17.

339. Government hostels for Indian men and boys in Calcutta.—At the end of 1921-22, there were 8 under the management of Government with 823 boarders. At the end of 1916-17 there were 11 with 969 boarders.

340. Government hostels for Indian girls and women in Calcutta.—At the end of 1921-22, there were 6 under the management of Government with 86 boarders.

341. Conditions under which college and high school students in Calcutta reside.—Of 12,355 students on the rolls of Calcutta colleges on 31st March 1922, 2,134 were living in regular hostels (collegiate and non-collegiate), 731 in attached messes, and the rest in unattached messes, with parents and guardians, or in private lodgings. On the 31st March 1922, is limited to Rs. 3,000 subject to its being voted by the Legislative Council. Of these only 712 lived in hostels. The rest lived in messes, with parents and guardians, or in private lodgings.

342. Depressed classes' hostels.—Two hostels— one for Yogi and the other for Namasudra students—were opened by the University of Calcutta in 1918-19, in rented premises. The annual Government grant to the hostels is limited to Rs. 3,000 subject to its being voted by the Legislative Council. Forty-seven students were living in these hostels at the end of 1921-22.

343. Hostel accommodation for Muhammadans in Calcutta.—The continuance of the non-collegiate hostel for Muhammadan students which is situated in a rented house in Wellington Street has been sanctioned for a further period of 3 years. It has accommodation for 73 students and is managed and maintained by Government. The Elliott and Baker Madrasah hostels had altogther 296 on 31st March 1922; the former accommodates school boys and college students, the latter college students only. Both are managed by Government. The Carmichael Hostel, which was built by the University with the help of the Imperial grant of Rs. 10 lakhs and opened in 1917 has accommodation for 184 boarders.

344. Schemes postponed on account of the war. Of the schemes for new hostels which had to be postponed during the previous quinquennium on account of financial difficulties due to the war, no progress was made in connection with the hostel for the Presidency or the Bethune College; the project for Krishnagar College was revised, and it is now proposed to buy a house. For the Rajshahi College, a hostel in five blocks capable of accommodating 250 Hindu students and one for 50 Muhammadan students are under construction.

345. Grant to Calcutta University for Undergraduates' hostels in Calcutta.—With the help of the allotment of Rs. 13½ lakhs to the Calcutta University for the construction of Undergraduates' hostels in Calcutta the hostels attached to the City, Ripon, Bangabasi and Vidyasagar Colleges, and the Carmichael Hostel were erected. These hostels, capable of accommodating about 200 boarders each, were completed and occupied during the quinquennium. The Carmichael Hostel is reserved for Muhammadans.

346. Recurring Imperial grant for hostels.—The recurring Imperial grant of Rs. 1,32,000 assigned for the maintenance and upkeep of hostels in Bengal has been spent chiefly in supervision. In large hostels there is generally a Superintendent and an Assistant Superintendent, who are selected from the teaching staff. Superintendents and Assistant Superintendents of hostels attached to Government colleges and schools are paid wholly by Government; in aided hostels Government pays two-thirds of the cost of superintendence, the authorities of the schools and colleges concerned the rest. The Superintendents and Assistant Superintendents in all hostels are paid according to the scale prescribed by the department.

347. The Calcutta mess scheme.—As previously the Calcutta mess scheme is managed by the Students' Residence Committee of the Calcutta University with assistance from provincial revenues. The number of hostels and messes included in the Calcutta mess scheme was 32 at the end of 1921-22 with 1,627 inmates.

348. Cost of living.—The comparative cost of living in hostels, attached messes, and unattached messes during the period under review has been roughly as follows:—

Hostels.—The expenses (which include boarding charges) vary from Rs. 14 to Rs. 22 per month.

Attached messes.—The seat rents charged generally are Rs. 5 and Rs. 6 a month according to the quality of accommodation provided. The cost of messing is not uniform.

Unattached messes.—The average seat rents are lower than in attached messes, while the messing charges vary to suit the purse and inclination of the inmates.

The accommodation provided in both attached and unattached messes is inferior to that in hostels; the standard of sanitation and discipline in messes is also generally lower. Their attraction is in their cheapness. The observations made in the last review about the scanty supply of books, newspapers, and periodicals in students' messes also held good during the period under review.

349. The Dacca mess scheme.—As a result of the report submitted by Mr. S. N. Roy, I.C.S., who was deputed specially to investigate the condition of the messes in Dacca, a part of the old Secretariat buildings in Dacca was converted into a Hindu and a Muhammadan Hostel for the Dacca College, to which the Dacca College students originally living in messes were transferred and placed under the direct control of the Principal early in the quinquennium. Messes occupied by high caste Hindu and Muhammadan students were closed, but not the caste messes for Namasudra, Mahisya, Nath and Saha students of both the Dacca and Jagannath Colleges. The establishment of the Dacca University necessitated further changes in the organization of the Dacca mess scheme. In terms of Education Department Resolution No. 1011-Edn., dated the 7th May 1921, the Inspector of Residence of Students in Dacca has been placed under the Board of Intermediate and Secondary Education, and a standing committee has been appointed in connection with the residence of students.

350. Numbers.—The following figures show the number of students in the Daca Students, Residence Scheme during the five years under review:—

Year.			Number of messes.	Number of boarders.
1917-18	...	...	41	893
1918-19	...	...	41	904
1919-20	...	...	43	929
1920-21	...	...	37	714
1921-22	...	...	28	544

Of the 544 students in 1921-22, 207 were college students, and 337 were students of schools and madrasahs in the city; of the 28 houses occupied by the students, 8 were meant for college students and the remaining 20 for school boys and madrasah students.

351. Distribution of students by communities.—Of the total number of students residing in hostels and messes under the Dacca mess scheme, 108 were upper class Hindus among whom inter-dining is permissible, 16 Sahas, 11 Mahisyas, 31 Naths (Jogis), 9 Nath Brahmins, 65 Namasudras, 92 Christians, and 212 Muhammadans. All except the Namasudras pay seat rents according to the quality of accommodation. About two-thirds of the house rents is paid by the boarders and the balance by Government. For purposes of medical supervision the messes have been divided into five groups each in charge of a doctor.

352. Dacca University Halls.—The minimum seat rent prescribed for students residing in the Dacca University halls is Rs. 2 and the maximum Rs. 4 per mensem which covers charges for light, water, medical aid, conservancy, etc. The boarding charges amount to Rs. 10 or Rs. 12 per mensem. Special arrangements are made for the provision of books to poor students; students are also allowed to use library books free of cost.

353. Medical supervision of hostels.—Almost all large hostels in the Presidency are in charge of a doctor who receives an allowance for visiting one or more hostels. The hostels and messes in Calcutta and Dacca are divided into small groups, and the medical officer in charge of each group receives a prescribed remuneration; for the hostels attached to private institutions the authorities make individual arrangements.

354. Calcutta University Institute.—The Institute is doing much to provide a moral atmosphere and a larger life and culture for the college students of Calcutta. The Institute has a students' fund the income of which helps many poor students. The management of the Institute is vested in the general committee which includes some of the leading members of the educated community in Calcutta. The Institute receives a Government grant of Rs. 200 a month. In 1920-21, there were 775 members (senior and junior) of the Institute. The annual subscription payable by the junior members is Rs. 2. The Institute provides facilities for reading, sports, debates and social gatherings.

355. Control by parents.—In colleges little attempt is made by the staff to get into touch with the parents or guardians of students. Meetings of parents and guardians of school boys are, however, arranged on special occasions, such as Durbar Day, Prize Day, etc., but generally speaking little is done to enlist the co-operation of the parents or to ensure control over their wards.

356. Corporate life.—It is only in a few institutions that the existence of debating societies or sports makes it possible for teachers and pupils to exchange views outside school hours. Corporate life in the proper sense of the word is almost non-existent, and thrives only in hostels where the students find time to interest themselves in each other's affairs.

The effects of the non-co-operation movement.

357. Main incidents.—It may be well to recall in outline the main incidents in the long-continued efforts of agitators to wield for their own ends that boycott of all institutions which, whether Government-aided or not, are associated with that system of education which leads to a university degree. The first manifestations were a result of the Khilafat agitation which in August and September 1920 became prevalent in Calcutta. This produced some excitement in schools and colleges, and, hand in hand with non-co-operation, brought about in October a strike at the Calcutta Madrasah. Here, as throughout all the later disturbances, there is much evidence that the whole-hearted sympathisers among the strikers were largely outnumbered by those whom outside influences intimidated. Thus, for example, several of the students were deprived of their jaigirs as a result of their lack of sympathy with the combined movement. The backwash of this strike was felt at the Chittagong Madrasah, but it seems that the Mussalman element in the movement, seeing the lack of support at the time from Hindu sources, realised the disastrous effect of such a sectional upheaval, and in consequence, shrank from going to extremes. Thus for some three months there was, externally, little show of unrest. In early January, however, after the Students' Conference at Nagpur, a sudden demand arose from the students of many colleges that the institutions should be " nationalised." The students of the Central and Bangabasi Colleges led the way, and a statement was freely cast abroad that the authorities of these colleges, under pressure from their students, had cut adrift from the university system, and that Mr. C. R. Das had guaranteed all necessary financial support. Despite the haziness of the term " nationalisation, " despite any definite idea of the curriculum of the new " national " institutions (except that cotton-spinning by hand would apparently be the nucleus), the demand grew rapidly in extent and intensity, and quickly involved a large proportion of the student community. As a result, excitement and intimidation were rife in certain areas of Calcutta, and, largely as a precautionary means, the colleges of Calcutta with the exception of the Bengal Engineering College, Sibpur, the Medical College, the Post-graduate Classes and the Law College, were closed. This closure was criticised at the time as pusillanimous for it seemed clear that the demands as formulated were the demands of a small, very vocal, and highly organised minority, which as in similar circumstances universally, was for a time able to impose its will upon an unorganised majority. It is significant in this connection that Presidency College, surrounded as it was by hostile pickets and crowds and subjected to constant endeavour to sap its loyalty, stood firm. In the end, and in consonance with the action of other Calcutta colleges, Presidency College was closed. As a result, the loyal elements were no longer subjected to constant indignity and insidious argument, and the dispersal of students, whether well or ill-affected, to their homes brought them into contact with the moderating influnces of age and experience. Further, the hottest heads were given ample leisure to realise that the golden age promised them as a result of " national " education was but a fantasy, since the network of charka-spinning plus Urdu or Hindi teaching institutions refused to materialise, charm the agitator never so wisely.

358. Colleges.—Outside Calcutta, the main elements in the story were repeated. The acuteness of the situation seemed to vary directly in proportion to the distance of an institution from Calcutta. Thus, of the Government Colleges, Hooghly closed almost immediately, Krisnagar struggled on but eventually closed, Chittagong closed, though Chittagong Madrasah, mindful perhaps of its isolated endeavour three months previously, refused to strike in sympathy. At Rajshahi, the work was only temporarily suspended, while at Dacca, the students, though subjected to great pressure, resisted stoutly and the college was never completely closed. In Rangpur, however, the large private college closed completely, as also the Krishnath College, Berhampur, and the Wesleyan College, Bankura. A statement of the Vice-Chancellor, Calcutta University, made before the Senate on the 24th September 1921 will give some idea of the wastage caused largely, if not wholly, by non-co-operation. On the 15th September 1920, there were in colleges affiliated to the University 11,583 students in the first and third year arts and science classes, and 12,304 in the second and fourth year classes, a total of 23,887. On the 1st March 1921, a census was taken of the students in the first and third year classes actually present on that day. (It may be pointed out that the second and fourth year classes in colleges are dissolved in December or January.) It was found that of 11,583 on the rolls, only 6,684 attended, i.e., 42 per cent. had disappeared. Excluding the two Dacca colleges, the number of students on the rolls in the second and fourth year classes (i.e., the promoted first and third year classes on the 10th August 1921 was 7,585, while, still excluding Dacca, the number in the old first and third year classes attending on the 1st March 1921 was 6,121. It would appear, therefore, that the difference, 1,464 or nearly 14 per cent. represents the number of students who, after desertion, rejoined the colleges when they had had leisure to consider their position more calmly. The net loss of the colleges was thus more than 27 per cent. of the students who normally would have been promoted from the first and third to the second and fourth year classes, respectively. Much the same conclusion is arrived at by a comparison of the total number on the rolls in the four classes on the 15th September 1920, 23,887, and on the 10th August 1921, 17,579 or a drop of some 26·5 per cent. A curious feature of the figures is the fact that while admissions into the first year arts class for the session 1921-22 dropped from 4,081* to 3,497, the admissions to the first year science class rose from 2,197* to 2,966. The same phenomenon is observable in the figures for the Postgraduate Classes, for between the 30th September 1920 and the 30th September 1921, the numbers in Arts had fallen from 1,262 to 1,045, a drop of 17 per cent., while in science it had risen from 158 to 189, an increase of 19·6 per cent. The number of students in the Law Colleges also fell from 2,741 to 2,493. This seems to support the assertion frequently made that the desertion was due in part, not to aversion from the system as a Government or Government-aided system, but to a growing and frequently expressed idea that the purely literary side of education has been overdone and that, as many of the students stated the case, it is "Science or nothing." As the Vice-Chancellor, however, pointed out in his statement, the colleges are not prepared with the necessary laboratory equipment for this sudden change of allegiance, and, in consequence, many of those who, in 1923, pass the Intermediate Science Examination will find themselves frozen out from pursuing their course further.

359. Government colleges.—The Government Arts Colleges, as shown by the table below, suffered considerably less than did the private colleges, the decrease being very largely accounted for by the drop in numbers at the Sanskrit College from 194 to 79, a drop not entirely to be lamented, since the institution was in 1920 badly overcrowded :—

Name of College.	Total on Rolls on September 15th 1920.	Total on Rolls on August 10th 1921.	Increase.	Decrease.
Bethune	113	120	7	...
Chittagong	449	402	...	47
Dacca Intermediate	379	349†	...	30
Hooghly	264	247	...	17
Krishnagar	295	209	...	86
Presidency	684	770	86	...
Rajshahi	853	818	...	35
Sanskrit	194	79	...	115

The Principals of Government Colleges when circularised, attributed the loss not so much to non-co-operation as to other reasons; in Chittagong to increasing poverty, in Dacca to the decision taken to restrict the numbers in the first year class, at Hooghly and Rajshahi to the late publication of the B.A. and B.Sc. results and to the lack of accommodation in the science classes. These opinions are echoed with varying degrees of emphasis by the authorities of private colleges also.

360. Schools.—The main outlines of this story may be taken to apply also to the effect of non-co-operation on the schools of the province. It is to be observed, however, that the primary and middle schools were hardly affected, the high schools, as being the ones most intimately connected with the university system, being made the centres of agitation. The statement of the Vice-Chancellor, previously referred to, gives also the figures for those schools recognised by the University. Here the drop in the number of pupils is from 196,548 to 151,542 (excluding Assam and Cooch Behar), i.e., 45,006 or 22·9 per cent. He estimated that the number taking Matriculation in 1922 would be 3,588 less than in 1921. This fear has since proved to be groundless. Partly as a result of a special circular to the schools after the entries had been made intimating that further entries would be accepted of candidates who had since reached the age of sixteen, or who having been absent from, or failed at, the usual test examination had passed a second test, the schools appear to have revised their list of candidates rejected at the school test examinations, with the result that despite the non-co-operation movement and the reduction of numbers in schools, the candidates at the Matriculation Examination of 1922 were 19,131, *or 6 more than in 1921. Nor was there much difference in the examination results, 79 per cent. of these passing despite the unsettling excitement of the year against 81 per cent. of the preceding year. Figures are not available for unaided schools, primary and middle, but in Government and aided middle schools, there was a drop from 100,515 to 95,577 (i.e., 4,938 or 4·9 per cent.) between the 1st January and the 30th June 1921, while from the reports of inspectors it may be gathered that primary schools were hardly touched. The figures below for Government schools, high, middle and primary, show, as in the case of the colleges, that they suffered much less than did the private schools, aided or unaided:—

* Excluding the two Dacca colleges and the Indian Association for the Cultivation of Science.
† On 28th July, the Calcutta University census was not taken here.

	Number of pupils on 31st March 1920.	Number of pupils on 31st March 1921.	Decrease.
Middle	1,127	1,104	23
Primary	6,700	6,262	438

Thus it will be seen that Government high schools lost less than 4 per cent. of their numbers, as against some 20 per cent. in all schools, Government and private.

361. Results of the movement.—It may well be asked what has become of college students and school boys—some 55,000—who, as shown in the figures above, cut adrift from the present system. Many of them, probably in a rather chastened frame of mind, have returned to it, for the number of candidates at the Matriculation Examination in 1922, contrary to expectation, was much the same as in 1921, from which it would seem that the older school boy, on the threshold of a university career, rapidly came to the conclusion that the specious promises to provide him with a much superior article were worthless. Further, during the calendar year 1921, so far as it is possible to state with any accuracy, 170 National Schools were opened in the province, with 13,468 pupils. On the 31st March 1922, there were 190, with 14,819 pupils. These institutions are of various grades, from the equivalent of the lower primary school to that of the high English school, and in one or two cases, to that of a technical school. They have this in common, that a general education is supposed to be given in combination with a vocational, though " vocational " connotes, in nearly every case, merely hand-spinning and weaving. The " general " education ranges from the three R's or less, to the curriculum of the high school, though apparently, in the latter case, a vernacular is the medium of instruction, and English is a second language. These schools are ill-housed, badly equipped, and indifferently staffed; most of them lead the most precarious existence, and their financial statements, if they are ever made, would probably bear little inspection. Fees, not always paid, doles from Congress funds, occasional windfalls from non-co-operators, a varying amount realised from the sale of the rice brought by pupils as a sort of payment in kind—these are the main items of income. There seems to be no uniformity of studies. The pupils attend or not as they please. Signs are not wanting that now that the first flush of enthusiasm has passed, these institutions will die of inanition, though their establishment has probably done more than a good deal of counter-propaganda would have done to convince the people of Bengal of the weakness of the non-co-operation movement in education.

Thus it will be seen that at a rough estimate—exact figures are hard, if not impossible to come by—some 20,000 of the 55,000 deserters had either returned to their allegiance or been otherwise provided for, and of the remainder the opinion may be hazarded that a large proportion will ultimately return, having realised perhaps that while the present system may not give them all that they very vaguely desire, it at least gives them something which the promised " national " education has not given.

It has been already stated that the non-co-operation movement had little or no effect on the primary schools in the province except in isolated cases. On schools for girls, and on colleges for women, the movement, though actively directed against them, failed to make much impression. Thus, the Principal of the Bethune College reports that " there was some slight reaction to the pressure of outside excitement during the non-co-operation disturbances in January 1921. Geographical considerations made it desirable to keep the college closed for one month from 27th January to 21st February, that is, while the men's colleges were closed. Immediately on the reopening of the college, attendance was normal, and work has since been carried on as usual. All Matriculation, I.A. and B.A. candidates have appeared for their examinations."

362. Considerations for the future.—It may be well to attempt some explanation of the apparently easy nature of the agitator's task in seducing the school boy and the college student from his allegiance. In the first place his attack upon the present system was speciously justified, for on the face of it, a University education and diploma, once an almost unfailing passport to respectable employment, has become less and less marketable asset. It seems to lead, according to his view, merely to the overstocked market of the briefless advocate and to the cut-throat competition for clerical employment. The prettily coloured picture of the national school and the national college was held out as the alternative which, while providing a training for the hands would at the same time give all that the mind really needed of Indian and Western culture and would be a return to a very hazily defined golden age unaffected by foreign and, therefore, evil contacts. The constant play made with the idea of hand-spinning as a panacea for all evils of body and soul linked on the educational to the political appeal, and the student saw, in his rejection of the (to him) wholly evil system of university and school education, and in his adoption of new guiding principles, not merely a change in the methods of his education, but an act of sacrifice, and of reconsecration to a greater and all-embracing ideal of patriotic service. It has been seen how soon, and how rudely, he has been disabused.

Unfortunately, the agitator, in the material upon which he worked, had a task made easier by the conditions surrounding the material. The drabness and joylessness of student life in Bengal has been a matter for frequent comment. The Calcutta University Commission Report has perhaps said the last word in describing the conditions of this life. Poverty, the cram-drudgery of his studies, the dreary surroundings in which a student too often finds himself housed, make him " moody, depressed and absorbed in himself and his prospects. He needs, therefore, more than other students of the same age, recreation and diversion. . . . It is not surprising, therefore, if in moments of despondency, he falls a victim to uncontrollable excitement, sometimes of the most serious and violent nature" (Calcutta University Commission Report, Vol. II, p. 354). Thus the appeal of the agitators, ostensibly to the noblest instincts of the student, his love of country and eagerness for sacrifice, couched in terms that suggested glowing ideas of " national " service, found its response in that natural craving for excitement in the adolescent, which in other countries would have found vent in college " rags," in sport, in a hundred and one ways made impossible to the student in Bengal by his circumstances. In the schools also his task was made easier by much the same considerations. The Inspector of Schools, Rajshahi, commenting on the situation in the High Schools of his division, states that " they are weak, numerically and financially, and poor in respect of house and equipment. They are the resort of the discontented graduates and undergraduates (as teachers) who have no other avenues of employment open to them. Discipline sits lightly on them. It is small wonder, therefore, that they have fallen a prey to outside influences."

It may be said that this, the first attack in force against existing educational conditions, was to a great extent unsuccessful. And that lack of success was largely due to the fact that the non-co-operation movement had no equivalent to offer, except the few hastily-founded, ill-planned, ill-considered "national" schools which arose in 1921. This aspect strengthens the obvious conclusion, that the effort was not sincerely directed towards educational reform, but was almost entirely political and obstructive in its nature.

It is possible that the period of quiet during the latter half of the year 1921 was in the nature of reculer pour mieux sauter, for the winter of 1921-22 saw a renewed effort directed in rather different channels, and making a much more barefaced and cynical attempt to use the student an dthe schoolboy as political tools. The period from the 17th November to the middle of January 1922 was a period of stress, for the activities of the non-co-operationists were directed towards a complete " hold-up " of normal city life on certain days. Their methods were the employment of so-called "volunteers" for the picketing of cloth and liquor shops and for the holding up of traffic, and the organisation of illegal processions for the purpose of courting arrest. Among these bands of volunteers, which included mill-hands, coolies and professional bad characters, were numbered also many college students and school boys upon whom the impulses of vaguely defined " national " service and of desire for excitement had worked together. As evidence that the movement, so far as it concerned students, was entirely divorced from educational considerations, may be adduced the fact that in the cases of strikes in Calcutta colleges, there was no accompanying demand for "nationalisation "; the reason given was generally that the strike was a protest against the action of Government, or against the arrest of some particular leader. At Presidency College indeed, the sole reason brought forward for an unsuccessful attempt by a hot-headed minority to empty the college was their resentment against one particular word in a notice issued by the Principal. In this case a more exact knowledge of English etymology on the students' part would have prevented the partial strike which actually occurred, and which was broken by a tactful and documented little lesson in the meaning and derivation of words, from the Principal. A further illustration, if illustration were necessary, of the pyschological state of the striker is furnished by the action of the students of the Law College and of the Post-graduate Classes. The Christmas holidays of these students were lengthened by a week: on the re-opening day, there was little or no response to the roll calls. The issue of a notice, reminding students that absence from classes without cause was a breach of discipline and would be treated as such, soon refilled the class-rooms. Well within the period given by this notice for final decision on the part of the abstainers, the classes had resumed their normal appearance.

It is difficult, so soon after the event, to put into perspective the possible results of non-co-operation propaganda and non-co-operation influence on education, especially as the process of alienation from the present system is probably still going on, though subterraneously. The ill-success of the first great mass attack in 1920-21 has possibly disillusioned many of the clearer thinkers among students and school boys, and thus far there may have been a soul of good in things evil. It may also have given rise to a more constructively critical attitude towards the present system on the part of sane and well-affected citizens, and thus again may work for good. On the other hand, of positive evil, there must be obviously a good deal. The unsettlement of studies in adolescence, the absence of that calm atmosphere essential for intellectual growth has inevitably interrupted the development of many promising students. The evil disciplinary effects of the movement in school and college are patent, although, as the Inspector of Schools, Burdwan, remarks, "political agitation seems to have tailed off into teaching bad manners to school boys." Again, the large number of schools that have disappeared is an unfortunate result; bad as many of them undoubtedly were, in equipment and management, they still provided a basis for improvement. Some schools also have managed to struggle through this time of stress by means of doles from Government given ad hoc, but they must struggle under an increasing financial burden. To sum up, it may be said that a highly specialised organism has received a shock from which it has recovered, not without weakening, but which, if rightly considered, will be an incentive to setting its house in order.

School and college hygiene.

363. Physical training.—Up to March 1919, the department had the advantage of the part-time services of Dr. Segard, Physical Director of the Young Men's Christian Association, Calcutta, in return for the Government grant to that body. In January 1920, sanction was accorded by the Secretary of State to the creation of the post of a Physical Advisor in the Indian Educational Service, but it has not yet been found possible to recruit a suitable officer. A temporary post in the Bengal Educational Service has been created for two years to superintend physical education. Hygiene has been made an optional subject for the Matriculation Examination but little advantage has been taken of the innovation. Lectures on hygiene illustrated by slides are from time to time given in High and Training Schools.

364. Games and play-grounds.—Foot-ball, cricket, hockey, badminton and lawn tennis are usually played by boys in towns, while country games are played in rural areas. The cost of games is met from fees realised from the students. Few of the schools and colleges in Calcutta have adequate play-grounds. Drill is taught in all recognised schools. The Boy Scout Movement is popular, but its introduction into Indian schools has been hampered by dearth of qualified Scout Masters.

365. Medical inspection and hygiene.—During the year 1921-22, the Students' Welfare Committee organised by the University conducted an elaborate enquiry into the health of students. Their reports show that a somewhat high proportion of students suffer from minor defects. The question has been receiving much attention, since the latter part of the period under review, from the Department of Public Health, and the appointment of an Assistant Director of Public Health, and a Medical Inspectress of Schools who have tested students' general health and eye-sight in a good many cases, augurs well for the future.

366. Moral training.—As previously, there is no regular system for imparting direct teaching in morality except through the medium of lessons. Much depends, in this respect, on the character of the teacher, whose example is a potent factor in shaping the conduct of the boys. Religious intsruction is imparted in madrasahs, maktabs and in institutions under mission and Brahmo management. It is believed in some quarters that the spirit of defiance for constituted authority, which the non-co-operation movement has engendered, is to be traced largely to the purely secular education imparted in our schools and colleges.

Text Book Committees.

367. Calcutta.—In 1920-21 the Committee was reconstituted as sanctioned in the Director of Public Instruction's letter No. 4375-G., dated 4th August 1920. During the quinquennium under review altogether six meetings of the General Committee were held, there being two meetings in the year 1919-20.

The following table will show the number of books received and the manner in which they were disposed of:—

Year.	1917-18.	1918-19.	1919-20.	1920-21.	1921-22.

N.B.—The number of books shown as received every year include the number shown as "left to be considered" in the preceding year.

368. Dacca.—The Committee was reconstituted in the year 1921-22. The Director of Public Instruction, Bengal, was the President and the Inspector of Schools, Dacca Division, the Secretary, both ex-officio. The total number of members of the reconstituted committee was 17, of whom 9, including the President, the Secretary and the Assistant Inspector of Schools for Muhammadan Education, Dacca Division, were official members. Two meetings, one half-yearly and the other annual, were held on the 18th April 1921 and 5th December 1921, respectively. Out of 443 books received during the year, 151 were approved as text, library, prize or both library and prize books.

The Committee met seven times during the quinquennium. Out of 3,339 books received in all during the period, 1,596 were recommended for approval. The number of letters received and despatched was 6,703 and 14,758, respectively. The function of examining newly-submitted books at the preliminary stage, which had rested with the Director of Public Instruction, was delegated to the Secretary to the Text Book Committee, and the charge was taken over towards the end of April 1917. A provisional list of Sub-Committees to examine books on different subjects was drawn up. This list was subsequently revised and accepted in a meeting held in May 1922.

CHAPTER XV.

Education in the Legislative Council.

369. Before Reforms.—Education has received much attention from the Council during the quinquennium. The former Council, with its rare meetings, gave little scope for full discussion, but the annual Budget debate was an opportunity of discussing policy, while from time to time resolutions were debated indicating a growing interest in primary education and an increasing belief in the need for industrial or vocational education. One resolution, moved by Mr. P. C. Mitter, led to the deputation of Mr. West to survey the possibilities of advance in primary education, the report of which survey stimulated further attention and interest. Another moved by Mr. Fazl-ul Haq, was followed by an examination of the possibility of increasing facilities for education in engineering at the Ahsanullah School of Engineering at Dacca. Further, two pieces of private legislation call for record. Mr. S. N. Roy's Bengal Primary Education Act (1919) gave municipalities (and by notification from time to time union committees) power to introduce compulsory primary education for boys between the ages of 6 and 10, and to impose for primary education a cess whether compulsory or voluntary; also giving Government the power to direct municipalities to make provision for primary education on a voluntary basis for children between 6 and 11. Dr. A. Suhrawardy's Bengal Juvenile Smoking Act (1919) provided measures against the use of tobacco by young children.

Though these Acts had little effect, they are of interest as signs of a growing feeling that all children should be given some education, and that this should include some regulation of conduct.

370. The New Council.—The larger Council of 1921 gave ampler scope, and was animated by a keener critical spirit, and by an enthusiastic desire to assist the new Minister in curing some of the more obvious defects in educational practice and provision. The Budget debates of 1921 and 1922 have offered convenient opportunities of reviewing the whole field of education, and eliciting public opinion with certainty. Motions for reduction of grant have led to vigorous attacks upon and defences of both the universities of the province, and have offered the opportunity of assertion that the newer university is being financially favoured at the expense of the older. Resolutions to reduce the grants to the Dacca University were debated in both years, and a resolution to reduce the grants to the University of Calcutta was debated in 1922, but all were withdrawn. The Budget debates also elicited the view that the cost of inspection in the department is excessive, to which the consideration of Government was promised. Of resolutions not directly connected with the Budget the most important were—

(1) moved by Rai Mahendra Chandra Mitra Bahadur in February 1921 and accepted by Government that a scheme should be prepared and introduced for the furtherance of vocational education;

(2) moved by Babu Jatindra Nath Bose in July 1921 and carried in the form that at least 80 per cent. of the Fellows of the University of Calcutta should be elected, and that all who have taken the degree of Doctor or Master. or any lower degree not less than seven years before the date of election. should be entitled to elect 80 per cent. of the Fellows, and that no fee be charged to any graduate entitled to take part in such election;

(3) moved by Rai Jogendra Chunder Ghose Bahadur in July 1921 and carried in the form that the formation of a Board of Education for the superintendence of secondary schools, general and vocational, should be carried out without delay, by legislation, if necessary, and that the Board should be so constituted as to be representative of the various interests and communities concerned, with a non-official majority;

(4) moved by Babu Rishindra Nath Sarkar in August 1921 and carried by 55 to 41 that to determine what financial assistance, if any, should be given to the University of Calcutta, a committee of two financial experts, two members of the Senate to be nominated by Government, and three non-official members of the Legislative Council not holding any office in the University to be elected by the Council, be appointed to enquire into the general working of the University, in particular its financial administration, and recommend such urgent measures of reforms as might be necessary. This was carried against the opposition of Government;

(5) moved by Rai Jogendra Chunder Ghose Bahadur in August 1921 and carried that a technological and agricultural college granting degrees and closely related to the University of Calcutta should be established at Calcutta;

(6) moved by Shah Syed Emdadul Haq in March 1922 and accepted by Government in the form that schools of any class wishing and able to introduce into their curriculum satisfactory courses in charka and hand-spinning shall be permitted to do so;

(7) moved by Dr. J. N. Maitra in March 1922 that all age restriction for the Matriculation Examination of the University of Calcutta be removed; withdrawn when it was pointed out that the University had already addressed Government on the matter and that a decision would probably be arrived at when the details of legislation for the Board of Secondary Education were settled.

371. European Education.—European education received comparatively little attention, and no resolutions were debated other than Budget resolutions. While many members of the Council do not approve of what appears to be a comparatively generous provision for European schools, criticism was usually temperate, explanation was generously received, a resolution for reduction was seldom pressed to a division, and no provision was refused. This, in brief, is the story of the Council's attitude towards all education: it criticised freely, asked abundantly for information, and granted all provision that was asked for.

372. Legislation.—The only legislation relating to education that has yet been passed by the new Council is the Bengal Children Act passed in January 1922. The Act will be carried out by the Judicial Department, with assistance from the Education Department, in those clauses that relate to schools. The Act follows the English Act, is applicable to boys and girls, and provides that youthful offenders may be sent to a Reformatory or Industrial School and that neglected and destitute children may be sent to Industrial Schools.

RESOLUTION ON THE ANNUAL REPORTS OF THE BENGAL VETERINARY COLLEGE AND OF THE CIVIL VETERINARY DEPARTMENT, BENGAL, FOR THE YEAR 1922-23.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE AND INDUSTRIES.

Veterinary.

CALCUTTA, THE 15TH NOVEMBER 1923.

RESOLUTION—No. 4662.

Minister in charge : The Hon'ble Nawab Saiyid Nawab Ali Chaudhuri, Khan Bahadur, C.I.E..

READ—

The Annual Reports of the Bengal Veterinary College and of the Civil Veterinary Department, Bengal, for the year 1922-23.

Mr. A. D. MacGregor was Superintendent of the Civil Veterinary Department, Bengal, up to the 18th April 1922, and Mr. P. J. Kerr held charge of the Department throughout the rest of the year. Colonel Smith, the permanent Principal of the Bengal Veterinary College went on leave combined with the vacation of the college from 1st April 1922. He has subsequently extended his leave up to the date of his retirement in December next. Mr. P. J. Kerr, the Second Imperial Officer of the College and Mr. A. D. MacGregor performed the duties of the Principal in connection with the Glanders and Farcy Act and the College Hospital for the periods from the 1st to the 18th April and from the 19th April to the 30th June, respectively. The latter was appointed to act as Principal, with effect from the 1st July and continued as such for the remaining period of the year. The post of Second Imperial Officer of the College was filled by Mr. Kerr for the first eighteen days of the year and by Mr. MacGregor up to 30th June, Mr. R. T. Davis acting in the post for the rest of the year.

Mr. Kerr was the Veterinary Adviser to Government throughout the year under review.

2. The number of students at the Bengal Veterinary College at the end of the session was 139, which was slightly lower than the average of the preceding three years. Of this number more than 50 per cent. belonged to Bengal, the remainder coming from various other provinces and Native States in India.

During the year under review the question of contribution to be levied from other participating provinces for the upkeep of the college was taken up for consideration, and it was decided that in addition to Bihar and Orissa and Assam, which had hitherto paid lump contributions towards the cost of maintenance of the college, other provinces, which regularly send students to Bengal, should be called upon to pay a contribution, and that the contribution should in all cases be levied on the basis of the number of students sent each year.

3. The report of the Civil Veterinary Department shows a marked increase in the mortality of animals from contagious diseases during the year, the total number of deaths reported being 24,021 as against 16,142 in the previous year. The increase is almost wholly accounted for by the severe outbreaks of rinderpest in the districts of Nadia, Birbhum, Bankura, Rajshahi, Rangpur and Jalpaiguri claiming as victims 20,431 cattle compared with 13,304 in the previous year. During the year the veterinary assistants attended 914 outbreaks of rinderpest, hæmorrhagic septicæmia and anthrax in which preventive inoculation was undertaken, and the total number of cattle inoculated was 141,102 as against 458 outbreaks and 76,340 cattle inoculated during the previous year This marked increase was mainly due to the prompt reporting of outbreaks. The number of deaths among inoculated cattle was 1,017 or 0·7 per cent. of the total.

It is gratifying to note that the departmental propaganda work consisting of lectures delivered by the staff and the distribution of leaflets was supplemented by the activities of local bodies. The thanks of Government are particularly due to the District Board of Nadia for the assistance rendered to the department by publishing and distributing at the cost of the Board three thousand pamphlets on common cattle diseases and their remedy, and it is hoped that other local bodies will follow this example.

Government also note with satisfaction that in some districts of East Bengal the local bodies allowed their veterinary assistants to visit the primary schools and address the boys on animal husbandry, etc. It is expected that the efforts of the department to extend this system will meet with success.

The services rendered by the Bengal Social Service League by organizing magic lantern lectures in the Presidency and Burdwan Divisions are also to be gratefully acknowledged.

4. The veterinary assistants visited 14,438 villages and treated 81,986 patients during the year under report, the corresponding figures for the two previous years being 12,084 villages and 67,511 animals and 12.831 villages and 58,761 animals, respectively.

5. Regular inspection of all the stables and cattle sheds in Calcutta was carried on by the Glanders staff. The disease was detected in 19 stables against 23 in the previous year. In the mufassal the deaths from this disease was 6 against 22 in the previous year.

6. In spite of the observations made in the Government resolution on the preceding year's report the progress made in the establishment of new dispensaries shows little sign of improvement, and the number now stands at 41 only, an increase of only 2. But it is satisfactory to note that there has been a marked increase in the number of animals treated, indicating the increasing popularity of these institutions.

7. The total number of stud-bulls maintained in this province rose from 156 to 159 during the year. The thanks of Government are due to the District Boards of Bakarganj and Midnapore for the interest taken by them in this respect. But it is disappointing to note that more local bodies do not realize to an equal extent the importance of providing good bulls If the union boards had been able to make provision for the improvement of cattle in their respective jurisdictions as suggested by the Joint Conference of the Agriculture and Industries and Co-operative Departments held in July 1922, more satisfactory progress would doubtless have been possible. This aspect of the question will be further considered by Government in the departments concerned.

8. The Hon'ble Minister in charge, while expressing his gratitude generally to the local bodies in this Presidency for fulfilling their duties in regard to veterinary matters, is pained to notice that some of them have not been as sympathetic with the cause as might be expected. Bengal is pre-eminently an agricultural country and its agriculture depends mainly on cattle. The welfare of the live-stock is, therefore, a matter which vitally concerns this province as a whole, and it is also a matter in which Government naturally count a great deal on the assistance of local bodies. But it is disappointing to note that the programme of having two veterinary assistants in each subdivision framed by the Government of Bengal more than twelve years ago is yet far from being fully carried out. The problem has become all the more urgent in view of the fact that, as a measure of retrenchment, 3 out of 4 staff veterinary assistants, who had in emergent cases hitherto supplemented the veterinary staff entertained by local bodies, have been abolished. Government expect that the several local bodies in this Presidency will readily realise the gravity of the situation and make an earnest endeavour to augment their veterinary establishment as quickly as possible till the prescribed number is reached.

9. His Excellency the Governor, acting with the Minister in charge, would take this opportunity of acknowledging the valuable services of Mr. P. J. Kerr as Superintendent, Civil Veterinary Department and Veterinary Adviser to the Government, and of recording his appreciation of the good work done by Messrs. A. D. MacGregor and R. T. Davis in connection with the Bengal Veterinary College. The names of other officers commended by the Superintendent and the Principal are also noted with satisfaction.

By order of the Government of Bengal

(Ministry of Agriculture and Public Works),

J. T. DONOVAN,

Secretary to the Government of Bengal (offg.).

J. C. ROY, for Director of Agriculture, Bengal.

of Public Instruction and Assistant Director of Public Instruction for Muhammadan Education, Bengal. After examining the conditions of 2,380 appointments it recommended the introduction of a time-scale pay in place of the graded system and for this purpose grouped the officers concerned into four main categories according to the nature of their work—teaching, inspecting, ministerial, miscellaneous. In their resolution No. 464-Edn., dated 3rd March 1922, Government sanctioned the reorganisation of the teaching and inspecting branches of the Subordinate Educational Services containing 2,036 appointments on a time-scale basis. As a result of the reorganisation which took effect from 1st September 1921, 14 posts of district inspectors and 21 posts of lecturers and demonstrators were raised to the Bengal Educational Service, 79 lecturers and demonstrators were placed on Rs. 150—10—300 (efficiency bar)—10—400 with a selection grade of 3 appointments on Rs. 450; 61 subdivisional inspectors and 54 assistant head masters and assistant head mistresses of high and normal schools and senior grade laboratory assistants in colleges were placed on Rs. 150—10—250; 773 English teachers of high schools, sub-inspectors of schools and other officers of similar status on Rs. 75—5—150 (efficiency bar)—5—200; 123 senior classical teachers of high schools and some other officers of equivalent position on Rs. 60—4—120 (efficiency bar)—4—160; 300 junior classical teachers and vernacular teachers of high schools and other officers of similar standing on Rs. 50—2—80 (efficiency bar)—3—110; 601 officers including vernacular teachers in schools (other than high schools), assistant sub-inspectors of schools and inspecting maulvis and other officers of equivalent status on a scale of Rs. 35—2—75 (efficiency bar)—3—90, 6 senior maulvis of the senior section of the Calcutta Madrasah on Rs. 100—10—200 (efficiency bar) —10—250 and 4 mistresses in training institutions for Indian girls on Rs. 100—10—150. The ministerial and miscellaneous branches of the Subordinate Educational Service comprising 344 posts are still under the consideration of Government, but it has been decided to introduce a time-scale pay for them also. There were 2,396 appointments in the Subordinate Educational Services on 31st March 1917. The establishments of the two European schools at Kurseong were reorganised with effect from 1st September 1921, separate cadres being formed for each institution, the posts which were formerly included in the Subordinate Educational Services being abolished. Further, with the transfer of control of technical and industrial institutions to the Industries Department, the posts attached to them were also transferred. The number of appointments in the Subordinate Educational Services was thus reduced to 2,345 by 31st March 1922, of which 2,001 have been put on time-scale with effect from 1st September 1921, and the case of the remaining 344 posts (ministerial and miscellaneous) is being considered by Government.

21. Discontinuance of local allowances.—The local allowances which in the previous quinquennium were temporarily sanctioned for head masters and head mistresses (in the Subordinate Educational Service) of high and middle schools and assistant head masters and assistant head mistresses of high and normal schools, were discontinued with effect from the date on which the new organisation was introduced.

22. Office establishments of the Director of Public Instruction and Assistant Director of Public Instruction for Muhammadan Education, Bengal.—During the quinquennium the work of the offices of the Director of Public Instruction and the Assistant Director of Public Instruction for Muhammadan Education was amalgamated, but the two establishments retain separate cadres. Proposals for reorganisation on a time-scale have been included in the recommendations of the McAlpin Committee.

23. Direction.—The work was, as formerly, carried on by the Director, and the Assistant Director, while the Assistant Director for Muhammadan Education also worked at Writers' Buildings.

24. Inspecting agency.—This shows the strength of the Inspecting staff at the end of the quinquennium.—

25. Expenditure.—The total expenditure on direction and inspection during the year 1921-22 was Rs. 14,40,722, against Rs. 10,57,988 in 1916-17. The cost of direction was Rs. 1,92,527 and of inspection Rs. 12,48,195.

26. Changes in inspecting agency.—The most important changes in the organisation of inspecting arrangements were that the posts of assistant inspectors of schools (other than assistant inspectors for Muhammadan education) were abolished, the charge of districts being given to district inspectors in the Bengal Educational Service, and of subdivisions to subdivisional inspectors. It is intended that the district inspector shall be the chief educational officer in his district, the chief adviser of the district board, the administrator of the primary and middle education of the district under the general supervision of the divisional inspectors, but the complete delegation of functions to him has not yet been worked out.

CALCUTTA, the 26th November 1923.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

Monthly Weather and Crop Report of Bengal for October 1923.

I. Character of the season.—During the first half of the month light showers were general but rain practically ceased later. With the exception of Chittagong and Tripura State rainfall was markedly in defect of the normal. The usual rainfall statement is appended.

II. Progress of agricultural operations.—Preparatory tillage for spring crops and their sowings, especially of early varieties, were proceeding under indifferent circumstances. Harvesting of autumn paddy in West Bengal and cutting, steeping and washing of jute both in West and North Bengal continued till late in the month.

III. State of standing crops.—The growth of winter paddy at the time of its maturity was adversely affected, especially in parts of West and North Bengal, due to absence of rain during the latter part of the month. Sugarcane and other standing crops fared well.

IV. Prospects and probable outturn.—The prospects of deep-water winter paddy were generally reported to be fairly favourable and those of transplanted variety were fair.

V. Damage to standing crops.—Damage by insect-pests to winter paddy and spring crops was reported from parts of Burdwan and Nadia, respectively.

VI. Condition of agricultural stock.—There was serious outbreaks of cattle-disease in Rangpur and sporadic cases also occurred in the districts of Nadia, Dinajpur, Darjeeling, Bogra, Malda, Dacca, Chittagong, Noakhali and Cooch Behar State.

VII. Failure of pasturage and fodder.—Excepting the districts of Birbhum and Noakhali no scarcity of fodder was reported.

VIII. Prices of food-grains.—During the second fortnight of the month under review the prices of common rice of the cheapest quality rose in four districts, fell in eight and remained stationary in the rest of the province. It ranged from 6 seers 12 chitaks in Bogra to 10 seers in Jessore.

IX. Condition of agricultural people.—The condition of agricultural population continued to be fair.
